KIDNAPERS SEND NOTES TO LINDBERGHS

SHOTGUNS, BRICKS AND STONES USED; RETURN IS THREATENED

Demonstration by Thousands Laid to Reds; Edsel Ford and Former Gov. Green in Besieged Building; All of Dead in Mob.

Detroit, March 7 (A.P.).—Unemployed demonstrators and police fought with pistols, shotguns, bricks and stones late today at the gates of the Ford Motor Co.'s Dearborn plant and hours after the battle ended with four dead and several score injured, police and national guardsmen were being held in readiness for a possible renewal of hostilities.

State police said the marchers shouted threats to return and wreck the plant. They would not say whether they had other information of impending fighting, but a heavy guard was in the vicinity of the plant tonight and the First Battalion of the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Infantry, Michigan National Guard, was held under arms in its Detroit armory. The guardsmen were dismissed at 11:40 tonight, subject to call.

Each Side Blames Other for Riot.

Maj. Frank H. Rine said the men were mobilized on instructions from the adjutant's general's office in Lansing but that he had no definite word as to whether services of the 200 men would be required. Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker said in Lansing he had not called out the guard.

Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford company's service department (private police), was prominent among the injured. He is in Henry Ford Hospital with severe head lacerations from the marchers' rain of bricks and stones, but police said his condition is not serious.

Police and marchers blamed each other for the tragic ending of the demonstration. Police said that the first fire—six shots—came from the ranks of the marchers, whose number was variously estimated up to 5,000. The shots, they said, were fired from behind a parked automobile. Eyewitnesses from among the demonstrators denied that any one in their group was armed.

Face Murder Charges.

Eleven of the marchers were held in the county jail and Sheriff Henry Behrend said he would ask that murder charges be filed against John Fauth, Lincoln Park; Shelley Rogers, 33, and Paul James, 27, if evidence can be found to corroborate his belief that they were the ringleaders. Fauth, he said, formerly was secretary of the Trade Union Unity League, papers of which were seized.

Bennett arrived late at the scene of the rioting. His car advanced through the crowd from the rear under a heavy barrage of missiles, some of which struck him. Staggering from the machine as he neared the gates, he attempted to lead the forces of the law against the marchers until several policemen pulled him back, put him in a car and rushed to the hospital.

Newsboy Among Dead.

Of the dead, one was definitely identified as Calomon Leny, 25, former Ford worker. Another was tentatively identified as "Joe the Newsboy," who sold papers near the plant. He may have been a noncombatant. Another was tentatively identified as Joe York. One was picked up dead in front of the plant. The others died in hospitals.

The demonstration had been advertised for weeks as a "hunger march" on the Ford plant. Newspapers said William Z. Foster, Communist leader, had urged all Communists to join it, in addresses Sunday. None could be found, however, who saw Foster among the marchers today.

William J. Cameron, of the Ford organization, said the plan originated with Detroit Communists, that Ford police did not take part in the riot and that Chief Bennett, who arrived on the scene late, was there only for investigation. He said the plant was not damaged, except for a few broken windows. There was no formal statement from company officials.

From the time the marchers, who started 2 miles away, in Detroit, reached the Dearborn city limits,

Japanese Aerial Raids Over Soochow Persist

Shanghai, March 7 (A.P.).—The Kuomin (Chinese) News Agency reported today that Japanese air raids on Soochow have become an almost daily occurence. More than 20 bombs were dropped on the outskirts of Soochow yesterday, the agency said.

A large Japanese aircraft carrier is reported to have arrived at Yanglinow, in the Yangtze River. This berth is northwest of Liuho and north of Soochow. The agency reported the carrier was the base for daily bombing raids and for planes engaged in scout duty beyond the Japanese front lines.

DONATION OF WHEAT TO NEEDY APPROVED

Hoover Signs Bill Providing 40,000,000 Bushels for Relief of Poor.

(Associated Press.)

A huge store of Farm Board wheat—40,000,000 bushels in all—was placed late yesterday to the credit of the Nation's unemployed and needy.

President Hoover signed the free wheat measure without comment just before leaving his office for the night. He held a hurried series of conferences first, however, with Attorney General Mitchell and John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, which will distribute the Government's donation.

Judge Payne raised a strenuous objection to a clause of the measure permitting the Red Cross to bake the grain into bread after milling. He asserted categorically his organization would not undertake this and suggested the President might well want a legal ruling upon it.

A few minutes later Mr. Mitchell was summoned, but neither he nor the President would comment upon either the subject or result of their

DISTRICT BILL TO ASK RISE IN PROPERTY TAX

Group in House Decides to Write Provision Into Measure.

RATE OF $2 PER $100 MIGHT BE EFFECTED

Committee's Plan Credited to Senate's Delay in Mapes Measures.

House appropriations committeemen will write into the local supply bill an increase in the District general property tax, it was learned last night on good authority.

The current rate of $1.70 on every $100 of real estate and personal tangible property will be increased to $1.95, or even $2, a source close to the District subcommittee stated.

Delay in Senate passage of the four Mapes tax bills, which will yield, if enacted, $4,000,000 in additional revenues, was held responsible for the course chosen.

Should the Senate approve the Mapes bills as passed by the House, the general property rate would be lowered accordingly, in conference with the Senate, probably again to $1.70, under the plan decided on by the subcommittee.

Previously Threatened.

Although an increase in the general tax previously had been threatened, it was thought action would be held up pending Senate disposal of the Mapes tax program.

If written into the bill as planned, it leaves the District but two alternatives, acceptance of the Mapes plan of taxation, which distributes the burden according to income, inheritance, auto weight and gas consumption, or assumption of an additional burden by property owners now paying the bulk of the tax.

Estimating a $600,000 return for every 5 cents increase in the current tax, a $1.95 rate would yield $3,000,000. Members of the appropriations subcommittee feel this would be sufficient to satisfy District needs, despite the fact that the Mapes plan would yield $1,000,000 more. It supplies just enough to make up for the cut they plan in the Federal lump sum, from $9,500,000 to $6,500,000.

Tour Is Postponed.

Members of the committee expected yesterday to begin their tour of new buildings sites, and streets scheduled for repair, but the sheet of ice coating the city made the trip impractical. They point out that actual

Smith's Name Entered On Pennsylvania Ticket

Harrisburg, Pa., March 7 (A.P.)—Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential candidate in 1928, today was entered in Pennsylvania's preferential primary, April 26.

Petitions for placing his name on the State ballot were filed from at least ten counties. The name of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was filed several weeks ago.

Storm Death Toll 10; Property Ruin Heavy

Relief and Repair Crews Fight to Clear Roads and Aid Motorists.

In the wake of the blizzard, through crippled communication systems, last night came a mounting toll of death and property damage.

With 10 persons dead from the storm's ravages and more than $1,000,000 in property destruction reported in Washington, Maryland and Virginia, relief and repair crews battled yesterday to clear the debris from roads and rescue stranded motorists.

The storm struck with equal viciousness throughout the area. The gale drifted snow to make impassable mountain roads, leveled trees and telephone poles and on the Eastern Shore of Maryland lashed the sea until it threatened to flood Ocean City and other coast towns.

Four persons were killed in and near Washington. Albert Kligman, 15, of 2500 I street northwest, was crushed by a falling tree at Twenty-fifth and K streets northwest.

S. N. Spidas, of this city, was killed when his truck skidded and overturned near Fredericksburg. Harry Pattes and two hitch-hikers in the machine were seriously injured.

Exposure in the storm took the life of Alexander Vaughn, colored, of Clarendon, Va. Mrs. Marie Reid was electrocuted while telephoning in her

Short Wave Radio Tells Of Three Storm Deaths

First flash of the storm's tragedy at Braddock Mountain, where three persons were frozen to death, came to The Washington Post by short wave radio.

With both telegraphic and telephonic communications crippled, The Post's correspondent at Hagerstown radioed his story from amateur Station W3JK.

The account, which told of the deaths, of the rescue of scores whose cars were stranded on the mountain, and of the 10-foot drifts which foiled even snow plows, was picked out of the air here.

Epta Darne, of 132 Tennessee avenue northeast, who operates Station W3BWT, caught the message early last night. He immediately telephoned it to the city room of The Post.

Later the correspondent, J. J. Hager, was able to send a full account of the blizzard's ravages when telegraph wires had been repaired.

3 VESSELS DISABLED AND 3 LOST IN STORM

Coast Guard Cutters Speed to Rescue; No Loss of Life Reported.

Norfolk, Va., March 7 (A.P.).—The extent of storm damage to shipping off the Virginia-Carolina coast remained undetermined tonight as Coast Guard cutters went to the aid of three disabled craft, and the whereabouts of at least three others was unknown. No loss of life had been reported up to tonight.

The ships to which the cutters Carrabassett, Modoc and Mendoto were dispatched are: The American steamer San Angelo, last reported 90 miles east to Cape Henry; the Isaac T. Mann, without fuel, off Hog Island, and the schooner Nomis, waterlogged and helpless, off Frying Pan Shoals, lightship.

Coast Guard headquarters was advised this afternoon that the Eastern Steamship Lines steamer Norwalk, plying between Richmond and New York, had not arrived at Richmond and nothing had been heard from her since Saturday night when she

$20,000,000 Slash Beaten in Senate

(Associated Press.)

First moves in Democratic-sponsored program to slash $20,000,000 from the $178,000,000 Agriculture Department appropriation bill were beaten soundly yesterday in the Senate.

Two of a series of 28 amendments submitted by Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, and supported by some of his colleagues, were rejected, one by a 46-to-20 roll call that found Democrats divided, and the other by a viva voce vote.

The roll call came on McKellar's proposal to eliminate $196,400 for barberry bush eradication. The second amendment offered sought to trim to $350,000 the $724,000 requester for Southern cattle tick eradication.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, spoke for the amendments. He assailed the Farm Board, departmental publicity and printing activities, and said it looked to him as if "the bureaus were running the Senate."

Britain Acts to Extend Gold Unit's Suspension

London, March 7 (A.P.).—The Government moved today to extend—probably for another year—the suspension of the gold standard. A financial emergency enactment continuance bill, providing for the extension, was read for the first time in the House of Commons. The original suspension measure, adopted September 21, 1931, will expire March 21.

In addition to giving the treasury power to regulate exchange, the new bill extends the antiprofiteering act, also adopted last September. The government hopes to have the bill approved before Easter.

TRADE REVIVAL BILL RECEIVED BY HOUSE

Steagall Offers Measure to Change Bank Laws and Restore Confidence.

(Associated Press.)

A program of fundamental changes in Federal banking laws designed to revive business and restore hoarded money to circulation was sponsored yesterday by Chairman Steagall, of the House banking committee.

For nearly an hour the Alabamian addressed an attentive chamber, inviting criticisms and drawing applause with an announcement that his new bill would receive immediate consideration by his committee.

Its chief features were: The guarantee of Federal Reserve member bank deposits.

A minimum capital of $50,000 and a paid-in 10 per cent surplus as requirements for national bank charters.

Mexican Bullet Hits Man in U. S.

8 Slugs Fired Into Federal Offices as Deportees Are Entrained.

Nogales, Ariz., March 7 (A.P.).—Eight bullets, fired from the Mexico side of the international border here today, whistled through the offices of the United States Immigration and Agriculture Departments, a spent bullet striking one man.

The shots, apparently fired from a .22-caliber rifle, sent both United States and Mexican authorities on a search of Nogales, Sonora, but the rifleman was not apprehended.

Luis C. Morales was struck in the back by one bullet, but uninjured. Another narrowly missed John B Blea, United States immigration officer, as it tore through a window just above his head. Damage was slight. The shots were fired as United States officials were placing 65 Chinese, who had fled from Sonora, Mexico, aboard a train for deportation by way of San Francisco.

Police Asked to Watch For Auto Carrying Baby

The Washington police were asked to be on the lookout for an automobile containing a man and woman and a baby. The New Jersey authorities want this car stopped and investigated on suspicion the baby may be Charles Augustus Lindbergh jr.

They described the car as being a dark green coach, possibly a Hudson, with New Jersey license number 2-V1631. The man is about 35 years old and the woman about 40 years, neatly dressed, and wearing gold-rimmed glasses. The child is said to be about 2½ years old, wearing a brown coat and cap and having fair complexion and hair.

BATTLE LOOMS AS TAX PLAN IS SENT TO HOUSE

2.75 BEER PROPOSAL WILL BE SUBMITTED

Fight Over Sales Levy Being Outlined; Measure Will Come Up Thursday.

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday received the new $1,096,000,000 revenue bill and prepared for its fiercest battle of the session over proposals to tax beer and manufacturers' sales.

Unanimous approval was given the measure in the ways and means committee. A group of members, however, reserved the right to submit an amendment in the House to legalize beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight for taxation purposes.

A draft of the amendment was made public by Representative Cullen (Democrat), New York, its sponsor. It provides a levy of $5 a barrel. Mr. Cullen estimated a minimum of $350,000,000 would be derived from it.

Speaker Garner Reticent.

In reply to questions of newspaper men earlier in the day, Speaker Garner expressed the view that if the Volstead act were amended the proposed beer amendment could be included in the revenue bill. He added, however, that he did not "want to pass on it in advance" of a possible ruling he might have to make in the House on the question.

The proposed amendment is carefully worded and provides that the manufacture of nonintoxicating beer "shall be conducted under permits to be issued in accordance with the national prohibition act."

The maximum alcoholic content under present law is one-half of 1 per cent. The belief that further action to amend the prohibition act would be unnecessary was expressed by Mr. Cullen.

Meanwhile, opponents of the 2.25 per cent sales tax began to hold informal meetings on methods of opposing it. This item, expected to increase the revenue $595,000,000, forms the base of the entire bill designed to balance the Federal budget by June 30, 1933.

Much Controversy Expected.

At his daily conference with newspapermen, Speaker Garner said he expected much controversy over this levy. Informed that there was a determined move on foot to let a tax

Representative Gilbert And Wife Hurt in Auto

Representative and Mrs. Ralph Gilbert suffered minor injuries Sunday when their car overturned near their home in Shelbyville, Ky., according to word received here yesterday by the House District committee, of which he is a member.

Mr. Gilbert said he will not return to the Capitol for several days.

EXPERTS CERTAIN WRITING MATCHES RANSOM DEMAND

One Letter Typewritten but Paper Used in All Three Is Held Identical; Two Postmarks Same.

OFFICIALS' ANNOUNCEMENTS ON STATUS OF CASE CONFUSE

Authorities Deny, Then Qualify Denial of Money Being Asked; Hold Baby Alive, But Admit No Evidence Exists.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Hopewell, N. J., March 7.—Information that the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., have been in communication with his parents came tonight from an apparently authoritative source.

Coincident with this, developments emphasized that the Lindberghs were making every effort to negotiate with the child stealers under the provisions of protection outlined in the family's three appeals for the return of their young heir.

No confirmation or discussion of the information concerning the kidnapers' notes could be obtained at the Lindbergh home.

Baby Declared to Be Safe and Well.

Two notes were received Sunday by the Lindberghs. One was typewritten, but handwriting experts agreed the other was in the same writing as a ransom demand left behind last Tuesday night by the kidnapers as they fled with the child.

All three notes were on the same kind of paper. The last two bore the same postmark. Both described the baby as safe and well.

The source of this information supplied these details despite a puzzling series of public statements by officials.

From a morning State police press conference came denials both of the existence of an original ransom note left by the kidnapers last Tuesday and of any contact with them since that time. Later, however, police said, "None through the police," when asked if any communication had been established.

At another press conference late in the day officials made no answers to any questions covering these two phases of the case.

During the evening press conference the following question was put to Maj. Charles A. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State police, by a group of reporters:

"One of the news services (the Associated Press) has just released a copyrighted story that on Sunday Col. Lindbergh received two letters from the kidnapers and that police know these letters are authentic because of the handwriting and type of paper used. As a matter of information, please answer whether this story is correct so we can inform our editors, who are demanding explanations."

"We have no knowledge of this," Maj. Schoeffel replied.

At Trenton, Gov. A. Harry Moore took vigorous steps to expedite the return of the 20-month-old first born of the Lindberghs.

He announced that henceforth the police will open none of the mail to the Lindbergh home. Police, he said, will see only those letters to the family and its representatives which the Lindberghs and their agents desire to turn over.

Security Promised Kidnapers.

"If the kidnapers wish to get into touch with Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh," the governor added, "they can do so by mail with perfect security. Only such mail as contains leads or tips is turned over to police. The integrity of Col. Lindbergh is so beyond question that the kidnapers can entirely depend upon his word."

He was asked if, in the event the kidnapers were caught, prosecuted and convicted after the voluntary return of the child, he would pardon them.

"I couldn't say anything about that," he replied. "I am willing to cooperate in any way, that's all."

He announced he would withdraw all police from the Lindbergh estate, to leave the road open for return of the child by the kidnapers, if Col. Lindbergh should request such action.

BRIAND DIES IN PARIS FROM HEART ATTACK

69-Year-Old Statesman Had Been Premier 12 Times; Funeral Saturday.

Paris, March 7 (A.P.)—Aristide Briand, France's most prominent statesman in the International field and symbol of her post-war striving for peace, died suddenly just before 1 o'clock p. m., today in his modest bachelor flat not far from the Arc de Triomphe.

The man who twelve times was chief of his country's government and was a leading spirit in the activities of the League of Nations passed away as a simple member of the Chamber of Deputies.

M. Briand, who would have been 70 years old May 28, succumbed to a cardiac attack.

His valiant heart, which carried him through a turbulent militant, socialist and parliamentary career for 40 years, failed him just at the moment when three specialists were hoping to restore him sufficiently to partake in the coming electoral campaign for the renewal of the Cham-

Slain Woman's Body Sent In Trunk to Philadelphia

Police Believe Gruesome Shipment Came From Atlantic City; Realty Man Arrested as Rooming House Proprietor Turns Find Over to Authorities.

Philadelphia, March 7 (A.P.).—The body of an elderly, white-haired woman, who apparently had been strangled to death, was found today in a trunk within a a trunk left in a rooming house.

The trunks are believed to have been shipped here from Atlantic City. In less than four hours after the body was found Capt. Harry Heanley, of the homicide squad, said that Louis Fine, a former Philadelphia real estate man, was being sought for questioning.

Then Fine, 50, was arrested by the prosecutor's office in Atlantic City, N. J. Fine was acquitted last April of a charge of attempted murder of his wife, Mrs. Bertha Fine, 45, of Atlantic City and Philadelphia. She charged he induced her to take a sleeping powder and then turned on the gas while they were living here on New Year's Eve of 1930.

The body was discovered after Julius Hoffman, proprietor of the house, on North Fifth street, became suspicious of the trunk when he noticed an odor about it. Police said the woman apparently had been dead a week.

Mr. Hoffman told police a man who gave his name as Mersh Miller rented a room last Thursday and the next day had the trunk placed in the room by a draymen. He said the man disappeared Saturday.

A recent repair job on the inside of the outer trunk, which bore the markings of an Atlantic City locksmith, directed the investigation toward that city.

A check-up revealed, police said, that the trunk had been shipped by way of a railway express company by a man who gave the name of L. Miller.

Italy Cool on French Plan Of Danubian Customs Pact

Note Frankly Airs Skepticism on Establishment of Paris Political and Economic Influence In Five Central European Nations.

Rome, March 7 (A.P.).—Italy frankly informed France in a note today that she was somewhat dubious of Premier Andre Tardieu's plan for a customs union among the five Danubian states.

The note was sent by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi in reply to a French memorandum received Saturday. (The five Danubian states are Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia.)

Before deciding whether the proposal was agreeable, it said, Italy would have to study it closely, as at first impression it was not "immune from the political and economic difficulties France herself found in previous British efforts" to solve the economic situation of the Danubian countries.

Italy was uncertain, Signor Grandi said, whether general action of the sort proposed would lead to quicker and better results than individual commercial agreements. He pointed out that Italy had been drafting separate conventions with the Danubian countries designed to help their recovery.

Anyway, he said, if Danubian statesmen held a conference, as the French premier proposed, to study the proposal, the representatives of interested outside countries—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—should also confer, the two parties later getting together.

The reply did not go into the nature of the political difficulties in the French plan, but Italy has shown an inclination to study closely anything she might view as possibly leading to an increase of French influence in the Danubian states.

STINGING DIXIE COLD NIPS PEACH GROVES

Gale Kills 2 in Florida and Ships Are Missing; Live Stock Owners Warned.

Atlanta, Ga., March 7 (A.P.).—Stinging cold weather that followed a long period of spring-like temperatures invaded Dixie over the week-end and promised to linger through tomorrow in most Southern States.

Twenty per cent damage to the peach belt near Cornelia, in north Georgia, was reported by Manning S. Yeomans, State entomologist, while New Orleans advices said fresh vegetation in Louisiana suffered considerably from the cold.

Warnings to protect live stock were issued today for Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas where colder weather is expected tonight.

In some parts of Florida, the change in weather was accompanied by winds of gale strength. Near Avon Park, Fla., a house was blown down, fatally injuring a woman and her 5-year-old son. Four vessels in the Florida sponge fishing fleet were missing and a number of other craft were destroyed, damaged or beached during the windstorm.

Numerous accidents were blamed on the cold wave. In Tullahoma, Tenn., two women were injured and a kitchen wrecked as fire was made in a range, the water connections to which had become frozen. Others were injured, several fatally, in traffic accidents charged to the weather.

Colder weather was expected tonight in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and Louisiana, while continued cold was predicted for Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama and extreme Northwest Florida. Florida as a whole, and parts of Georgia, were due to get warmer weather tonight or tomorrow.

Communication service in the valley sections of Virginia were interrupted by the cold. Fayetteville, in northern Arkansas, was blanketed today by 2 inches of snow and at Little Rock, there was a light snow.

High Wind Blows Man From Ladder

Another Swept From Loading Platform; Both in Hospital.

The high wind, which continued yesterday after the storm, brought injuries to two persons. One was blown from a street car loading platform to the icy pavement and the other was blown from a ladder and plunged 25 feet to the frozen ground. Both are in Emergency Hospital.

James Mitchell, 22 years old, is the ladder victim. He was working at a construction job at Twenty-fifth street and Virginia avenue northwest, when the wind knocked him from the ladder. He was taken to Emergency Hospital by a fellow worker with serious injuries to the skull and back.

William T. Milstead, 71 years old, a clerk in the War Department, who lives at 1524 Thirteenth street northwest, was blown from the street car loading platform at Seventeenth and H streets northwest. He suffered injuries to his back and is in an undetermined condition.

Present Cold Snap Predicted Oct. 10

Browne Also Forecast Six Other Waves Which Have Occurred.

A forecast on Sunday's storm and the present cold wave was made on October 10 by Herbert Janvrin Browne Washington weather prognosticator.

In a bulletin issued on that date, Mr. Browne said that on March 2, a cold wave would appear on the Northwest Canadian border of the country and would culminate on March 9 in the Eastern seaboard.

Mr. Browne also predicted six other cold waves, which, he says, have occurred on or near the dates set by him. His bulletin forecast cold waves for an entire winter for the first time in meteorological history, he said.

One Dead and 4 Badly Hurt on Richmond Road

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 7.—S. N. Skidas, of Washington, was killed and three men seriously injured early this morning when a truck operated by Skidas overturned in the ice-coated Richmond-Washington highway, a quarter of a mile south of here. Harry Pattes, of Washington, a nephew of Mr. Skidas, and two hitch hikers, passengers in the truck, are in a local hospital.

Mrs. Andrew Foley, 32, of Washington, suffered dangerous foot injuries when her car was in collision with another machine 10 miles south of here on the Richmond-Washington highway late last night. The foot may have to be amputated.

PROPERTY TAX RISE TO BE ADDED TO BILL

drafting of the measure will require only three or four days. The House will take it up after the independent offices supply bill and the new tax measure are out of the way.

It was learned that appropriations for repair of Wilson Teachers College and the Ross Elementary School, declared unsafe recently after they developed cracks, may have to be initiated by the Senate appropriations subcommittee. Members of the House subcommittee have been unable to get exact estimates on the cost of repairs. It was learned that "borings" are being taken by the District Engineer's office to determine the condition of the foundations. Members pointed out it will take time to obtain this data and submit estimates.

34 Bruised as School Bus Skids.

Warren, Pa., March 7 (A.P.).—Thirty-three children and the driver of a school bus were bruised and shaken up today when the bus skidded on the icy highway in a blizzard and rolled over an embankment. M. Anderegg, the driver, was treated for a severe scalp wound. The children, none seriously hurt, were taken to their homes.

Eastern High Team Back After Being Snowbound

Benjamin Zola (left), Eastern High School basket ball player, hurt at Lexington, Va. When a bus in which they were returning to Washington was stranded, Bernie Phillips carried him a mile to safety.

Search By Plane Canceled When Group Returns On Train.

After a 24-hour silence as to their whereabouts, members of the Eastern High School's basket ball team returned home by train yesterday, to the relief of parents and school officials, who were about to send a Ludington Line plane in quest of the young athletes when news of their safety was received.

News of the safety of the boys and their two supervising companions was first learned from a message received by Charles Hart, Eastern's principal, and Thomas J. Holmes, teacher of chemistry, and James Suber, teacher of science of the school's faculty, canceled the plane search just as they were about to take off.

General concern for the safety of the boys was felt, as the last message from the party, before the storm broke communications between Washington and Lexington, was received Saturday night, announcing their intention to leave Lexington by bus. The storm shattered communications and made roads impassable, blocking their return.

The bus was stranded 12 miles from Lexington, when snow drifts and falling trees and telephone poles made further progress impossible. Efforts made by an A. A. A. truck to effect their rescue were blocked by the condition of the road, and the driver of the bus returned to Lexington to summon aid.

An automobile was able to reach within a mile of the stranded athletes and they were forced to walk to the vehicle which made three trips to accommodate the party. Benjamin Zola, a member of the team, who was injured in play, limped and was carried to the car by Bernie Philips, a fellow player.

Members of the basket ball group are Charles M. Guyon, coach at Eastern High School; A. H. Gregory, president of the Stanton Park Citizens Association; Bernie Lieb, 19, captain of the team; Paul Kane, 20, 712 North Carolina avenue southeast; Albert Waters, 16, 205 Thirteenth street northeast; Benjamin Zola, 18, 406 First street southeast; Thomas Davis, 18, 1345 U street southeast; Bernie Philips, 19, 736 Twelfth street northwest; John Bayliss, 18, 1118 Fourth street northeast; Graydon Edelin, 16, 911 K street southeast; Kenneth Wiblitzhouser, 15, 349 Kentucky avenue southeast; Wilbur Courtney, 20, 1137 Fourth street northeast, and Lewis D. Williams, driver of the bus.

The return trip, the boys said, was delayed due to fallen branches on the train track.

home near Walkers Chapel, Fairfax County, Va.

Long lines of automobiles, scores of them, were abandoned on the Richmond-Washington highway. The condition was the same in the mountains near Frederick and Hagerstown, Md.

Two Negroes, John Tyler and Catherine Bowers, were found frozen to death in a snowdrift on the Buckeyestown road near Frederick. They had tried to walk through the blizzard from Frederick to Buckeyestown and perished 2 miles from home.

One person was frozen to death on Braddock Mountain and the fate of a group of motorists whose cars are stranded on Braddock Heights is unknown. The dead man was a hitchhiker.

Scores of persons left their cars and sought shelter at farmhouses. The roads are littered with automobiles and authorities are hoping that their owners successfully located safety.

Two were killed in the vicinity of Baltimore. Carl Lebrich met his death when a tree fell upon his car. He was from Philadelphia. Joseph Traxler, 40, was frozen to death.

An unidentified Eastern Shore man was struck down and killed by a car, when he blundered into a highway blinded by the snow.

Telephone and telegraph communication was crippled in various sections of both States. Crews were working frantically all yesterday in an attempt to restore partial service. Damage reached a total of several hundred thousand dollars.

Many towns were still cut off last night, although repairs had been completed on many lines.

Hagerstown Isolated.

Hagerstown was isolated for 24 hours and its only communication with the rest of Maryland was by short wave radio.

Many persons suffered injuries from accidents caused by the storm and from exposure. Two children were rescued from drifts near Hagerstown. They are expected to survive.

The Eastern High School basket ball team, which went unreported for nearly 24 hours after it had left Lexington, Va., to return to Washington by bus, arrived last night. The bus was caught and unable to proceed in the storm. The boys walked to shelter and came to Washington by train.

Killed at Telephone.

Mrs. Reid, who was killed in Fairfax County, came to her death through accidental causes, Coroner C. A. Ransom decided. Mrs. Reid was telephoning when a tree crashed, tearing down power wires carrying 2,300 volts. She was electrocuted.

Along the Atlantic Coast of the Eastern Shore, an unabated gale threatened to flood towns and villages. Only the changing of the wind-direction saved them. Many fishing boats at anchor and cottages along the shore were broken and destroyed.

The Board of Education ordered the closing of the Shaw Junior High School at Seventh and Rhode Island avenue northwest, when it was discovered that the wind had caused the smokestack to lean at an angle of nearly 10 degrees.

This will mean that 2,000 colored pupils will be unable to attend until it is repaired.

All Night Driving.

An account of snowdrifts, fallen trees and telephone poles across the road was given by Seth E. Gordon, of 3715 Livingstone street, who with his wife and two children, spent all of Sunday night driving from Harrisburg, Pa.

Cold weather invaded the sixth and seventh floors of the Postoffice Building and routed employes from their work. Workers were dismissed for the day when it became apparent that it was impossible to maintain sufficient heat for their comfort.

Yesterday was the first time in 23 years that the District refuse and street cleaning department had to assign special details and snow-removing equipment to clean the city's streets as late in winter as March.

About 450 men, gathered from the several divisions of the engineer department, were at work clearing the streets. About 350 were working in taking snow and ice from the thoroughfares and the remainder turned their attention to the removal of 60 felled trees and scores of fallen limbs.

Plows Used First Time.

Snow plows were at work as early as 1 o'clock yesterday morning. This is the first time this winter that the plows have been needed.

Rodolph Philadelphus, 71, was seriously injured when flames from an open fireplace ignited his clothing. He lives at 823 Fifteenth street northwest. He was removed to Emergency Hospital and treated for severe burns.

Waves and winds sank a Department of Agriculture launch at the Municipal Wharf. The boat was sometimes used by the President.

Nearly 700 men sought shelter at the Central Union Mission and Gospel Mission, it was announced last night. Heads of the institutions broadcast an appeal for clothing and shoes as their supply ran out.

Skating Is Impeded.

The high winds somewhat impeded ice skating. The mirror pool at the Lincoln Memorial did not freeze, though the temperature was low enough for a good coating of ice. The wind lashing the surface prevented formation of ice.

Metropolitan and park police last night designated and marked off many streets for sleighers, who gathered for the sport, young and old, in the crisp bitterness of real winter.

It is not thought the Japanese cherry blossoms were injured by the snow, ice and arctic blasts. Dr. Frank T. Gartside, chief of the park division of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, made this pronouncement after he viewed the snow-covered trees yesterday. They will bloom late this month, he said.

An appeal for the public to put out crumbs and grain for birds during the freezing temperatures was made yesterday. With the ground covered with ice and snow, it was explained, the feathered flyers can not provide for themselves.

Power Line Fall Fatal to Woman

Mrs. Reid, of Fairfax, Is Killed as Storm Fells Tree on Wires.

Fairfax County's only fatal accident resulting from the storm of Sunday night was the death of Mrs. Horatio Reid, jr., of Walkers Chapel.

Mrs. Reid is reported to have been talking over her telephone when a tree crashed near the home tearing power wires said to be carying 2,300 volts and taking with it the telephone lines understood to have been below the wires of the power company.

Dr. C. A. Ransom, coroner for Fairfax County, rendered a verdict of accidental death.

It is understood that Mrs. Reid's left arm was badly burned as a result of having been leaning on a stove near the telephone.

Mrs. Reid is survived by her husband, four sisters, Mrs. Anna Santmyer, Mrs. Mary Brown, Mrs. Margaret Columbus, and Mrs. Bess Jones and two brothers, John T. and Bolling Barton Jones. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

3 FREEZE TO DEATH IN FREDERICK AREA

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 7.—The fate of scores of marooned motorists still was unknown late today in this section of Western Maryland and fear was expressed, in view of the experiences of many on some of the main arteries, that those stranded along the more isolated arteries of travel might have frozen.

Mrs. Alice Walsh, Hagerstown, first motorist to get through over the National highway, brought a report here that three persons had frozen to death near Frederick, one a hitch hiker on Braddock Heights mountain and the other two, Negroes, two youths, identity also unknown, were found at a Frederick junction farm house in a serious condition.

A single temporary telephone line was cut into the north this afternoon but the little that got out over it was unsatisfactory. Scores of wire repair crews are working on all highways, pulling poles from across the roads, while snow plows follow. But the progress of the plows is hindered by stranded cars on the highways. These cars could be distinguished as forms being almost covered by drifts from five to ten feet deep and by ice.

An unidentified motorist was found nearly frozen to death near Falling Waters, on Martinsburg pike today. He stayed in his car and had to keep in motion all night to prevent freezing to death. He couldn't find any nearby places of shelter. Scores of others near Falling Waters, including two Harrisburg, Pa., couples, were given lodgings in farm houses. Between 500 and 800 poles were down in this county alone, said J. F. Creelman, commercial superintendent of the C & P.

Efforts to restore trunk lines are being made. It will be days and perhaps weeks before service is fully restored. There is no communication yet by phone to any towns in the county from Hagerstown tonight; southern Pennsylvania towns along the Mason and Dixon line are still cut off from the outside world.

Alfonso's Uncle Denies Monarchy Manifestoes

Madrid, Spain, March 7 (A.P.).—Alfonso Carlos, uncle of former King Alfonso XIII and pretender to the Spanish throne, repudiated recent manifestoes calling for restoration of the monarchy in letters published today in Siglo Futuro, Catholic Traditionalist newspaper.

He said the manifestoes attributed to him were "the work of enemies planning to create suspicion and dissension among my followers." The Traditionalists are supporters of Alfonso Carlos' claim to the throne.

SMOKESTACK PERIL RECESSES SCHOOL

Pupils of Shaw Junior High Dismissed as Chimney Is Tilted by Wind.

Because of a part of a smokestack, tilted by the wind high in the air at an angle of 10 degrees, over a boiler room adjoining a room where electric current and gas are manufactured, Shaw Junior High School, at Seventh and Rhode Island avenue northwest, formerly McKinley Technical High School, closed indefinitely yesterday morning at 10:30. The upper section of the smokestack, weighing about 2 tons, was held precariously in place by three steel cables.

The hazard was called to the attention of school authorities at the opening of school, all pupils and teachers were removed from the zone of danger by the principal, J. G. Logan, and 1,500 pupils dismissed as promptly as action could be authorized. Closing of the school affected an equal number of students of Shaw Night High School.

Clarence O. Lewis, director of colored night schools, said the classes would be removed to Dunbar Night High School tomorrow night if the leaning section of the smokestack had not been removed and the building made safe by that time. Pupils of the junior high school classes were not expected to return to school today, except for instructions, and approximately 50 teachers have been assigned duties in other schools temporarily. The custodial and engineering force remained at the building.

NEW TAX BILL GOES TO HOUSE; WILL BE TAKEN UP THURSDAY

on beer replace the sales levy, Mr. Garner said:

"Well, if they modify or repeal the Volstead act, I think it might be germane to the revenue bill, but I don't want to pass on it in advance."

Democratic leaders ordered a night session tomorrow to clear the way for Acting Chairman Crisp, of the ways and means committee, to bring the revenue measure up for consideration on Thursday. Due to the highly controversial proposals, passage will not come until next week.

Mr. Crisp announced the committee would propose the various new excise taxes and increases in existing excise rates would expire on June 30, 1934. The increases in individual and corporate income and estate taxes and the new gift tax are to form a definite part in the revenue raising structure of the Federal Government.

Table of Surtax Rates Under New Revenue Bill

(Associated Press.)

The following table shows rates of the surtaxes in the new revenue bill on net incomes from $10,000 to $100,000 by steps of $10,000.

$10,000, no surtax in view of new 6 per cent income rate.
$30,000, surtax $1,100.
$40,000, surtax $2,400.

$90,000, surtax $16,500.
$100,000, surtax $20,100.

Text of Proposed $5 Tax On Each Barrel of Beer

(Associated Press.)

The text of the proposal to levy a $5 a barrel tax on 2.75 per cent beer to be offered by Representative Cullen (Democrat), New York, as an amendment to the new revenue bill, follows:

"That there shall be levied and collected on all nonintoxicating beer, lager beer, ale, porter or other similar nonintoxicating fermented lager containing one-half of 1 per centum and not more than 2.75 per centum of alcohol by weight, brewed or manufactured and thereafter sold or removed for consumption or sale, within the United States, by whatever name such liquor may be called, a tax of $5 per barrel, containing not more than 31 gallons and at a like rate for any other quantity or for the fractional part of a barrel; provided, that no such article shall contain more than 2.75 per centum of alcohol by weight and provided further, that the manufacture of any such article shall be conducted under permits to be issued in accordance with the national prohibition act and under such regulations as shall be promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General of the United States and provided further, that this provision shall be effective one month after the enactment of this act."

4 SLAIN AND 50 ARE INJURED AS JOBLESS RIOT IN DETROIT

there was a running fight with 40 Dearborn police, who retreated steadily after gas bombs had proved ineffective. Dearborn firemen attempted to turn back the marchers with water, but hose were cut and fire engines forced to retreat.

Gates were locked when the marchers reached the Ford plant. Inside, among others, were Edsel Ford, president of the company, Sorenson and Former Gov. Fred W. Green. Police with reinforcements, established a line beneath an overhead bridge, pistols and shotguns in hand. Firemen directed at the crowds streams of water which froze while it struck.

Pistols barked. Shotguns roared. Men fell before a spray of lead. An eyewitness said there was a noise as of rolling drums as the bullets plowed through automobiles of Ford workers parked across the highway. An eyewitness said the embattled police fired 200 or 300 times.

The marchers returned the fire with stones and bricks. Some eyewitnesses said they saw shots fired from their ranks. Other of the marchers denied any of their group carried arms.

Then Chief Bennett's car nosed through the crowd from the rear. A Ford employe said he heard a shot and then saw a hail of stones directed at the slowly moving car. It pushed on until about 40 yards from the bridge, Bennett alighted. He staggered, but waved to the police with a shout of "Come on," and tottered toward the crowd. But policemen overtook him, put him back into the car and drove to the hospital.

Many Streets Are Closed To Traffic to Allow Sleds

The following streets were closed to traffic last night by order of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, to allow sledding:

First street between L and M streets northwest; Fifth street between L and M streets northwest; Ninth street between D and E streets southwest; Ninth street between C and D streets southwest; McLean avenue between Third and Four-and-a-half streets southwest; North Carolina avenue between First and Second streets southeast; Garfield street north side of Massachusetts avenue east to Thirty-fourth street northwest; Thirty-seventh street from Wisconsin avenue south to 100 feet north of T street northwest; Twentieth street between Kalorama road and Belmont street northwest; Tenth street between F and H streets northeast; Irving street from Mount Pleasant street to Zoo Park; Columbia road between Georgia avenue and Tenth street northwest; High street from Maple avenue to Fourteenth street southeast; Stanton road from Douglas sreet to Sheridan road southeast; Newton street between Fourteenth and Eighteenth streets northeast; Emerson street from Fourteenth street east to Arkansas avenue northwest; Aspen street between Fourth and Sixth streets northwest; Buchanan street from Fourteenth street west to Illinois avenue northwest; River road from Wisconsin avenue to Fessenden street northwest; Macomb street from Thirty-fifth street to 100 feet west of Connecticut avenue; Fessenden street between Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth streets northwest; Morrison street from Broad Branch road to Chevy Chase Parkway; Garfield street between Ridge street and New Mexico avenue northwest; Eighth street between Hamilton and Jefferson streets northwest, and Seventeenth street between G street and Barney Circle southeast.

THREE MORE RADIO DEFENDANTS NAMED

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell announced yesterday he is preparing for a hearing this spring in the Government's huge antitrust proceeding against the Radio Corporation of America and its associates.

Three new defendants—International General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric International Co. and RCA Communications, Inc.—were named in a supplemental petition filed yesterday in the United States District Court at Wilmington, Del. The document also charged the National Broadcasting Co. was formed "for the purpose of restraining competition in the business of Nation-wide broadcasting."

John Lord O'Brian, special assistant to the Attorney General, recently told a House committee the case "has perhaps the widest scope of any anti-trust case ever instituted." He added it involves the corporations' cross-licensing of thousands of patents, and other elements including "their conduct toward the world."

Filed Amid Protests.

The original complaint was filed on May 13, 1930, amid a clamor of protests in the Senate against a new agreement then proposed among the defendants. O'Brian named the chief defendants the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Corporation, Westinghouse Corporation, American Telephone & Telegraph Co., General Motors Corporation, "and various subsidiaries." Their combined capitalization, he observed, "I suppose would run into many hundreds of millions of dollars."

The Justice Department announced the new action, saying the supplemental bill charges the defendants "with attempts to restrain commerce between the United States and foreign countries as well as domestic commerce." The department's statement added the new petition alleges that NBC is jointly owned by Radio Corporation, General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric.

"Negotiations have been conducted for some time between the defendants and the Government and between the defendants themselves," the statement explained, "with respect to the possibility of creating an open patent pool which would obviate the trial of some of the important issues of the case. The filing of the amended bill does not mean that these negotiations have been broken off, but the Government has been going on with the purpose of having the case heard this spring, and the filing of the amended bill is in line with these preparations."

RCA Replies With Attack.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—The Radio Corporation of America replying to the Government's latest step in antitrust proceedings now pending at Wilmington, Del., issued a statement today defending its practices and criticizing the Department of Justice.

"We are unable to understand the action of the department," the statement said, "in persisting in doing unnecessary things and making unnecessary charges, particularly in times of great business depression.

"The Radio Corporation of America and its associated companies, defendants in this case, together are doing less than 20 per cent of the total business in radio receiving sets and less than 40 per cent of the total business in radio tubes. It could hardly be contended that a monopoly is thereby threatened or that trade is thereby restrained."

DAY IN CONGRESS

MARCH 7, 1932.

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:25 until noon Tuesday.

Judiciary committee delayed action on kidnaping bill lest it deter return of Lindbergh baby.

Received from the President recommendations of the War Policies Commission to stop large profit making in wartime.

Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Vandenberg, of Michigan (Republicans), and Robinson, of Arkansas, and Swanson, of Virginia (Democrats), introduced a constitutional amendment to "freeze" prices and tax excess profits at outbreak of war.

Interstate commerce committee heard witnesses urge Federal specifications fixing maximum weight and size for motor buses and trucks.

The bill amending the bankruptcy laws was referred to a judiciary subcommittee.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, introduced a bill to provide for a national highway system at an estimated cost of $2,000,000,000.

Senator Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, charged Republicans had agreed in secret meeting to vote to unseat Senator Bankhead (Democrat), of Alabama.

A number of bills dealing with the Panama Canal Zone were introduced.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, introduced a resolution calling for report of all American claims against Germany before Mixed Claims Commission.

Considered agricultural appropriation bill.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:40 p. m. until 11 a. m., Tuesday.

Ways and means committee reported tax revision measure calling for $1,096,000,000 additional taxes.

Speaker Garner said he expected a good deal of controversy over the 2.25 per cent sales tax included in the revenue bill.

Chairman Steagall (Democrat), of banking committee, outlined a measure to amend the banking laws, including guarantee of depositors of Federal reserve banks.

Considered and passed several measures on the legislative calendar.

Foreign affairs committee heard witness testify foreign financial aid would be required by Japan to carry on a protracted war.

Representative William Carlton Mobley (Democrat), of Georgia, was sworn into office, the youngest member of the House.

Bankers disagreed on value of international silver conference in testimony before committee investigating silver question.

NEW BANKING BILL IS BEFORE HOUSE

Steagall Offers Measure to Change Laws and Help Restore Confidence.

Distribution among member banks of one-half the net earnings of Federal Reserve banks.

Representative Steagall said his bill would relieve "the unjustified fear which has caused a continuous shrinkage in deposits and release many millions of dollars for useful activity that are now held and hoarded by individuals and bankers." He added:

"It is at least an essential step in any adequate program looking toward business revival and recovery. This legislation is now favored by many of the Federal Reserve Bank officials and by many men in the banking world who heretofore have been against the passage of any such legislation."

Representative Steagall explained later his bill is in no way analogous to the banking reforms urged by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia.

The Glass bill would provide for the speedy liquidation of insolvent banks, but would not guarantee full payment of deposits. It also would curb speculation and abolish group banking.

To guarantee deposits of member Federal Reserve bands, Representative Steagall proposed a board consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Comptroller General and three presidential appointees, equipped with a $517,000,000 fund. This fund would include $200,000,000 assessed against deposits, $167,000,000 that Federal Reserve banks have paid to the Government in franchise taxes and $150,000,000 of the Federal Reserve surplus. The fund would be maintained by additional annual assessments on deposits up to $100,000,000 a year as required. Steagall further explained:

"The board is authorized to take over and liquidate all banks that are certified by the Comptroller as insolvent. Sixty days from the certification of insolvency the board is required to pay not less than 50 per cent of each individual deposit which does not exceed $1,000 and 25 per cent of all other deposits, provided that every depositor in this group would get at least $500."

Within the next eighteen months full payments on all depotsits would be required.

The Senate banking committee yesterday laid aside temporarily the start of its stock market investigation to resume work on the Glass bill.

Chairman Norbeck, in giving precedence to the measure, said the stock inquiry probably would be begun about the end of the week.

The banking measure sponsored by Senator Glass contains a provision establishing a Government liquidating corporation for the purpose of speeding payments to depositors in closed institutions.

Members of the subcommittee considering the Glass bill are confident the work on it can be completed within a day or so. It must then be acted upon by the whole committee.

Senator Fess (Republican), of Ohio, Meanwhile introduced a bill to establish a Federal guaranty and insurance corporation to protect bank depositors. It is identical with the bill submitted in the House by Representative Cable (Republican), of Ohio.

Stock in the corporation would be issued in three classes: By Federal Reserve Banks, by member banks and by other banks.

Subscriptions would be on the basis of two one-thousandths of the average daily deposits of the proposed stockholder bank for six months ending December 31.

All State banks, banks and trust companies and building and loan associations, whether members of the Federal Reserve banking system, would be eligible for stock ownership under conditions prescribed by the directors of the corporation.

If a stockholder bank should be found insolvent it would pay 50 per cent of the deposits to the receiver, who in turn would pass them along to the depositors.

SPITALE DISTURBED BY HIS PROMINENCE

Does Not Expect to Make Contact With Kidnapers Within 24 Hours.

New York, March 7 (U.P.).—Salvatore Spitale, New York gang leader, does not hope to get in touch with the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., within the next 24 hours, he told the United Press tonight.

Twenty-four hours of investigation has convinced him, he said, that the child is held either by persons who fear to accept Col. Lindbergh's offer of immunity or who are afraid that he (Spitale) may be in touch with the authorities.

"This publicity has been given me and the case is working against us," he said. "If we had a clear field, without interference either from the newspapers or from the police, matters would be easier for us."

Remains Easily Accessible.

The racketeer was easily accessible tonight to any men who might happen to know him. There was no concealment of his activities. He moved, freely and easily, through the haunts where he is known.

"Have you been in touch with Col. Lindbergh?" he was asked.

"Do you think I haven't?" he parried.

"Have you got any clews to the whereabouts of the baby?" the reporter persisted.

"If I had, do you think I would spill them?" he countered.

"Look here," he continued, "I'm just the same as you on this case, anxious to get the kid back. I've been on the job ever since yesterday, waiting for reports from—from friends. I haven't had a report yet, but if I had any, I wouldn't tell anybody but Col. Lindbergh."

Promises Absolute Secrecy.

"The first knowledge that the Lindbergh baby is back," he continued, "will come when Col. Lindbergh announces it from his house. You can bank on that. There won't be any stories telling where the kid can be found or anything like that. If I handle the case, there's going to be absolute secrecy."

He was friendly enough, this leader of the underworld who has promised to help restore the Lindbergh baby, but he was also wary. He excused himself from an informal conference, when he was called to the telephone, and five minutes later (this was shortly after 9 p. m.) said he had to be "on his way."

Looking Like Lindberghs' Baby Delays His Journey

Post Staff Photo.
"Sonny Boy" McIntyre, 2 years old, of New York City, and his nurse, Miss Evangeline Avant, were delayed on their trip to Dillon, S. C., while police investigated that the boy might be Lindbergh, Jr.

"Sonny Boy" Edwards and Nurse Detained Here as Police Check.

Little Martin Laval McIntyre's light curly hair will cause him to be almost eight hours late in meeting his grandmother in Dillon, S. C.

He spent part of the eight hours with his nurse, Miss Evangeline Avant, 25 years old, of Marion, S. C., at Washington police headquarters, making friends with everybody and having a good time, while Lieut Charlie Weber made certain over long distance telephone that the child, whose nickname is "Sonny Boy" really was not Charles A. Lindbergh, jr.

"Sonny Boy" and Miss Avant were taken off a Pennsylvania railroad train from New York when it reached Union Station at 7:29 last night. A conductor, police said, had wired from a point along the way that a young woman was traveling alone with a baby about 2 years old, with light curly hair.

Detectives met the train and found "Sonny Boy" and Miss Avant.

Miss Avant told police that she was given custody of the child by its uncle, whose name she gave as Lon Edwards, of 127 University place, New York. She did not know the name of the child's mother nor the name of his grandmother in Dillon, S. C. Police thought her story should be investigated.

They took her and the baby off the train, but inside of an hour and a half New York police had gotten in touch with "Sonny Boy's" mother, Mrs. John B. McIntyre, who explained the entire situation. Miss Avant, she said, was a registered nurse who had been highly recommended to her. Since Miss Avant was going back to her home in Marion, she had engaged her to take the child to its grandmother's home.

"Sonny Boy" and Miss Avant were scheduled to continue their trip at 3 a. m. this morning.

Mrs. Morrow Aids In Serving Meals

Dons Big Apron to Help Care for Troopers at Lindbergh's Home.

Hopewell, N. J., March 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dwight Morrow, widow of the late Ambassador to Mexico, who in her own home has presided with charm and dignity over many a dinner honoring prominent persons from all parts of the world, is waiting tables at the Lindbergh home.

A wealthy woman with many servants of her own, Mrs. Morrow has donned a big apron to do the housekeeping in her daughter's house. She makes the beds, the ten extra cots where the troopers sleep and the beds of each member of the family. She helps her daughter plan the meals and orders their preparation by her own cooks.

3 VESSELS DISABLED AND 3 LOST IN STORM

was spoken to be off Delaware Breakwater by the steamer Jamestown, of the same company.

The tug Mars and the barge Deep Water, which left Norfolk Saturday night for Deep Water, N. J., are missing. The barge is loaded with 5,500 tons of coal.

The three-masted schooner Nomis was sighted this afternoon off Frying Pan Shoals lightship in a water-logged condition. The cutter Modoc was dispatched to assist her. It was presumed here her crew was still on board.

The steamer San Angelo, formerly the Willanglo, was afire for a short time this morning while the ship was 90 miles east of Cape Henry. The cutter Carrabassett was dispatched to her assistance. The vessel reported later that the fire was under control, but she was still in need of assistance, her steering gear failing to work.

The missing Norwalk carries a crew of 22 men, but has no wireless.

Coast Guard headquarters was of the opinion that the steamer either went into the breakwater or anchored near the beach.

The Dixie Arrow, whose steering gear became disabled in yesterday's blow when she was 60 miles off Cape Henry, was making her way toward Hampton Roads at last report.

Boston, March 7 (A.P.).—The collier H. F. De Bardeleben was tossing about on rough seas 50 miles southeast of Nantucket lightship tonight while her crew of 34 men anxiously awaited the dawn.

Nearby the White Star liner Adriatic stood by waiting for light enough to take the crew off the collier, the engine of which was out of control and could not be stopped. The De Bardeleben was bucking the high waves at a speed of 7 knots, while the Adriatic kept pace, and three Coast Guard vessels were in the vicinity ready to aid in the rescue work.

The De Bardeleben, whose home port was New Orleans, left Boston Saturday night for Norfolk, and yesterday ran into thick weather. Today she sent out an appeal for aid as her crew was unable to stop the engines and the ship was heading into a stiff gale.

KIDNAPING MEASURE DELAYED IN SENATE

Committee Fears Passage Now Would Hamper Lindbergh Moves.

(Associated Press.)

Lest it frighten the abductors of the Lindbergh baby and delay his safe return, the Senate judiciary committee yesterday withheld action on a measure to make kidnaping across State lines a Federal crime punishable by death.

The group deliberated for more than an hour before deciding that enactment of the bill at this time would only make his captors more fearful and hamper efforts of the Lindberghs to communicate with them.

In addition, Chairman Norris (Republican), Nebraska, pointed out that as the law would not be retroactive, "it couldn't help in the present case if we passed it now."

Norris Opposes Death Penalty.

At the same time Norris made it plain that the committee emphatically favors legislation to make interstate kidnaping a Federal offense and undoubtedly will act in that direction when the Lindbergh case has been cleared up. He opposes making it a capital offense since the punishment then would be not greater if the abducted person were slain.

"The committee feels," he said, "that one of the troubles about the Lindbergh case is that there is so much publicity that even if the abductors wanted to get in touch with them and bring the baby back they couldn't do it without getting caught.

State-Compact Control.

"By legislating now we would help to scare them and make it more difficult to get the baby back."

Chairman Sumners of the House judiciary committee yesterday introduced a bill incorporating his plan for State-compact control of kidnaping and other criminals who evade prosecution by escaping across State boundaries.

Sumners said his bill "would give consent of Congress for any two or more States to enter into agreements or compacts for cooperative effort and mutual assistance in the prevention and punishment of crime and to establish whatever joint agencies may seem desirable to them to make effective such agreements and compacts."

WAR PRICE CONTROL BILL IS INTRODUCED

Report Sent to Congress by Hoover Gives Plan to Halt Profiteering.

(Associated Press).

Long-studied recommendations of the War Policies Commission for taking the profit out of war were submitted to Congress by President Hoover yesterday and immediately ran into a storm of opposition.

The commission recommended that in case of a future war all prices should be immediately "frozen" at the outset of hostilities and as a further check of profiteering that a 95 per cent tax on excess profits be levied.

A constitutional amendment to make the price-freezing plan legal was recommended.

A resolution proposing such an amendment was immediately introduced in the Senate on behalf of the four Senate members of the commission—Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Vandenberg, of Michigan, Republicans, and Robinson, of Arkansas, and Swanson, of Virginia, Democrats.

The senators also introduced a resolution asking Secretary Mills to advise on the best method to apply the proposed 95 per cent tax.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, immediately compared the efforts of the commission with "the mountain that labored and brought forth a mouse." He said all the commission recommended could be accomplished without a constitutional amendment, and criticized the report as proposing to "equalize" instead of "eliminate" the profits of war.

Senators King (Democrat), Utah, and Robinson (Republican), Indiana, also criticized the report, saying no legislation was needed to carry out its recommendations.

Vandenberg, defending the report, said the "popular notion" of drafting labor and capital had been found by the commission to be an "impractical impossibility."

Hospital Here Offers Lindbergh Sanctuary

No questions will be asked if the Lindbergh baby is brought to Children's Hospital, it was announced yesterday.

This action was taken by the medical staff of the institution which adopted a resolution proffering the hospital as sanctuary for the infant.

KIDNAPERS SEND TWO NOTES MATCHING RANSOM DEMAND

The famous flier was told of the statement and asked if he would make such a request.

"I ask that that question be withdrawn," police quoted him as saying.

Three Seized in Police Trap.

The governor, in answer to a question, said he was powerless to grant immunity to the kidnapers, even if Col. Lindbergh himself made the request.

"I have no more authority to do that than you have," he told a group of newspapermen. "No one can give a pass to break a law. A law is a law. Only a grand jury, by refusing to indict, can grant immunity."

Two men and a woman were seized at Croyden, Pa., tonight in a trap set by Pennsylvania State troopers for the writers of a note demanding $50,000 ransom received by Col. Lindbergh here Saturday night.

The receipt of the letter has not been disclosed until tonight. It instructed Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh to meet the writers beneath a railroad bridge at Croyden, near Bristol, Pa., at 8 o'clock tonight "with no one else." Unless they kept the appointmnet and brought the money, the note said, the baby would be killed.

Trio in Auto Soon Released.

State Trooper Farrell, who resembles the famous aviator, and the wife of a county detective went to the designated spot in an automobile. Plain clothesmen hid nearby.

Shortly after 8 p. m. an automobile with a Pennsylvania license drove up, slowed and stopped. Police leaped from their hiding place and collared the three occupants, who were taken to a Bristol police station for questioning.

Several hours later they were released. Police said apparently they knew nothing about the note, which was branded as apparently the work of a "crank."

Another letter addressed to Col. Lindbergh, demanding $500,000 for the return of the child and setting a meeting place, was generally regarded as a hoax when no one appeared at the designated time.

Demand Taken From Mails.

The missive was taken from the mail at Elmira, N. Y. It demanded that a representative of the Lindberghs be sent with $500,000 in $20 bills wrapped in a newspaper to the Cross Trail restaurant near Mansfield, Pa., at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Police were at the designated spot at that hour, but by late night no one had appeared but crowds of curious spectators.

At Newark, N. J., Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor suitor of the Lindbergh's baby nurse, was still being held. What police had learned from him in three days and three nights of questioning remained a secret. In Connecticut authorities of that State and from New Jersey were checking his story against information given them by two men and a woman who believed they had encountered him on the road.

John Fernando said a man resembling Johnson gave him a ride in his automobile Tuesday night from New York to Connecticut.

Johnson Story Still Checked.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bistany, proprietors of a roadside restaurant at Norwalk, Conn., said a man answering the description of Johnson, with a woman and a child in a green car resembling Johnson's, stopped at the lunchroom to buy warm milk for the child.

Fernando said the driver who gave him a lift discussed the kidnaping, saying he had obtained the story from Miss Betty Gow, the child's nurse, who is a sweetheart of Johnson.

"Fernando's story is going to give Johnson a few things to explain," one of the Connecticut officers said.

Johnson has told authorities, it is understood, that he gave a man a lift on his way to Connecticut.

Bistany and Fernando both went to Newark to attempt to identify Johnson.

At a press conference it was brought out that Johnson would not be released until State police here had obtained a full report of his questioning at Newark.

Baby Farm Search Futile.

Search of a baby farm in Saco, Me., operated by a relative of Johnson, disclosed no trace of the missing child. Capt. Lamb was asked if police had a tip Johnson was on his way to the farm when arrested, and replied that investigators assigned to that angle of the case "have not reported as yet."

As the confusion over conflicting reports developed here, Capt. Lamb was asked when it would be possible to obtain an interview with Col. Lindbergh to clear up the numerous discrepancies.

"There are no discrepancies given out from here," he replied.

Officials previously had said no footprints were found in the nursery. At the noon press conference a State police official said that footprints had been found on the nursery window sill and on the floor, and that they had been compared with the footprints of a number of persons "without identification."

"Do the State police and Col. Lindbergh believe the baby is dead or alive?" Capt. Lamp was asked in the morning.

"We believe the baby is alive," he replied.

At the afternoon conference it was said the belief was based only on "the fact that we have had no news of the injury or death of the baby."

Gov. Moore, at Trenton, was asked if there was any basis for the police belief, and replied:

"We have no tangible evidence that the child is alive."

Gangsters' Selection Still Puzzles.

In declaring his willingness to withdraw police at Col. Lindbergh's request, the governor expressed the opinion that if the newspapers would "lay off," the authorities might "get somewhere."

"We are watching the case every minute," he added, "and there are no new developments. We are cooperating with the Lindberghs all the time.

"My idea is to put every resource of the State and Nation in the case. The forces of the Secret Service are working throughout the country."

Both State police officials and the governor said they knew nothing about the reasons for Col. Lindbergh's selection of Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz as his "go-betweens."

The police officials were asked if Col. Lindbergh had bene instructed in a note to name them and replied "no."

Nothing was learned either here or in New York of the movements of the two underworld characters during the day.

Denial About Ransom Note.

At the afternoon press conference State police officials refused to discuss the condition of the anxious parents, saying it was "a strictly personal matter."

They said the kidnapers left no "token to identify their later communications to Col. Lindbergh from fake messages."

No messages believed to be from the child-stealers had been received by the parents, they said.

The following question was then put:

"Col. Henry Breckinridge (attorney and close friend of Col. Lindbergh) said that there was a ransom note left in the nursery by the kidnapers; a paraphrase was issued at the office of the governor; State police have on several occasions said the note would be made public after the investigation is concluded; how do you reconcile these facts with the statement made this morning by Capt. Lamb that there was no such note?"

"The family and the police have consistently denied the existence of any note," was the reply.

CHINA FIGHT FLARES; FOES HURL CHARGES

Shanghai to Hangchow Rail Service Broken Off, But Peace Hopes Brighter.

Shanghai, (Tuesday), March 8 (A. P.).—Heavy fighting on a broad scale was reported today to be developing out of skirmishes between the Chinese and Japanese armies along the newly established inland battle line.

The Japanese and Chinese accused each other of resuming the offensive on the front west and northwest of Shanghai, threatening to precipitate a renewal of general conflict.

Independent reports indicated that considerable fighting was going on at various points from Nanziang northward, while both armies strengthened their positions with increasing forces.

Service over the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway was broken off today when the personnel of the Shanghai station suddenly left for Hangchow. Before their departure they removed the telegraph and telephone instruments from the station. Soldiers were reported to have severed the line 35 miles southwest of Shanghai. The meaning of this development was not yet clear.

Although hostilities apparently continued, prospects for a formal armistice appeared considerably improved.

Japanese declared that 3,000 Chinese launched an attack in the vicinity of Liuho, forcing them to take "defensive measures."

On their side the Chinese accused the Japanese of continuing their push westward from Nanziang, along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, and westward from their positions in Kating.

The belief that peace prospects had improved was based on a Japanese declaration that their troops would be withdrawn from Shanghai as soon as it was certain the Chinese army would not return to the 12½-mile zone around the city.

Indications were that instead of a round-table conference of the neutral powers to negotiate the truce, the Chinese and the Japanese would treat directly.

The U. S. Army transport Grant brought in 177 infantrymen of the Thirty-first Regiment from Manila yesterday afternoon. There were four Army nurses aboard the Grant and a large quantity of supplies. The President Jefferson is expected today with additional supplies for the 6,000 American soldiers, sailors and Marines on duty here.

Loyang, China, March 7 (A.P.).—The Chinese government, reiterating its determination today to resist the Japanese, appointed Chiang Kai-Shek, former president, to take command of the entire national armed forces. His assignment includes army, navy and air squadrons.

Tokyo, March 7 (A.P.).—The Bank of Japan today advanced funds to five banks at Nagoya, Japan, which were in financial difficulties as a result of the Sino-Japanese conflict.

BRIAND IS EULOGIZED AS PEACE CHAMPION

Sympathy Is Expressed by World Leaders; League Suspended 15 Minutes.

(Associated Press.)

The capitals of the world were quick to pay tribute yesterday to Aristide Briand, the man, and his untiring work for world peace. And men in public life universally praised him as a tireless worker for humanity.

These are some of the reactions to his death:

Washington — Official Washington was shocked and saddened by the death of Aristide Briand yesterday from President Hoover on through the ranks of statesmen in the Capital. President Hoover sent the following telegram yesterday to President Paul Doumer:

"I desire to express to you, Mr. President my sincere and deep sympathy and that of the people of the United States on the death of that great son of France and friend of the United States, Aristide Briand. His loyal and unflinching fight for peace, both in Europe and in this country, endeared him to the American people, who mourn his loss with you."

Tribute by Stimson.

Secretary of State Stimson sent the following cablegram to Andre Tardieu, president of the council of ministers of France:

"I am deeply shocked at the news of M. Briand's death. His great personal charm and simplicity endeared him in the hearts of all who knew him.

"His tireless, humanitarian efforts toward peace and his achievements will stand as a monument to his memory and an inspiration to mankind. France has the sympathy of the entire world in her sad loss.

"I mourn the death of a close friend and former colleague for whom I had the greatest admiration and affection."

Geneva—the League of Nations grieved in the death of its favorite son—Briand. Leaders in international life, here for the world arms conference and the extraordinary session of the league assembly, publicly and privately voiced profound sorrow at the loss of the "man of peace."

Arthur Henderson, president of the world disarmament conference, said that Briand's death was a grievous blow to world peace.

Assembly Suspended.

Paul Hymans, of Belgium, described the French statesman as "a splendid incarnation of the idea of peace and the rapprochement of peoples."

When M. Hymans announced the death of Briand the assembly was suspended 15 minutes.

London—The House of Commons cheered a tribute to Aristide Briand yesterday by Sir Austen Chamberlin, who was Great Britain's foreign minister when the treaty of Locarno was signed in 1925.

Advocating a strong British navy, Chamberlain said the cause of peace needed new friends to take the place of those who had passed away.

"Even in the middle of this debate I heard of the passing of M. Briand," said Mr. Chamberlain. "No man was a more devoted friend and no man served the cause of peace more loyally."

Berlin—The death of Aristide Briand came as a shock to official Germany, and it was feared an era of French nationalism with inevitable repercussions in Germany might follow.

It was recalled here that Briand and the late Gustave Stresemann maintained the most cordial relations, and trusted each other implicitly, despite their often unpleasant but necessary negotiations.

Among the tributes from men in public life to Mr. Briand were these:

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy —"I knew him at Locarno and considered him a remarkable statesman." The Italian Embassy at Paris was instructed to present the premier's and the foreign minister's, Dino Grandi, and the government's condolences to the French government and Grandi sent a personal message to Tardieu.

United States Ambassador Walter E Edge—"The world lost the unselfish services of one of the most conspicuous advocates of world peace and understanding. He never seemed to know discouragement."

"Ever Be Honored"—George V.

King George of England—"The labors of Briand in the cause of peace and goodwill among the nations will ever be held and honored in grateful remembrance."

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany—"His name is bound with the endeavors for a Franco-German rapprochement and will continue to live in this spirit. The German people acknowledge at this man's bier that he was serving his fatherland with indefatigable loyalty and at the same time was an upright, sincere servant of the idea of peace."

Hugh Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium and acting head of the American delegation to the Disarmament Conference—"His leadership was an inspiration in the work for peace. To the American people his name will be forever identified with that pact, which brought about the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy. The ideal of which he was a noble embodiment will survive."

Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, who negotiated with the French statesman the famous Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact—"He was a great statesman and the greatest advocate and influence for peace. His death is an incalcable loss to France and the world. It is not necessary for me to even summarize his accomplishments especially in the post war period, for they are known not only to every statesman, but in every humble home."

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, of the Senate foreign relations committee—"M. Briand had a remarkable career. He was many times prime minister, a great orator. But his great service to mankind was service to the cause of peace. He fought to advance the cause under most adverse circumstances. But his service was very great."

Ritchie to Leave Today To Speak at Providence

Baltimore, March 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Ritchie said he would leave Baltimore tomorrow evening for Providence, where he will speak Wednesday night at a meeting of the Rhode Island Bankers Association.

The executive will be accompanied by Robert B. Ennis, treasurer of his campaign for the presidential nomination; David C. Winebrinner 3d, secretary of State, and other officials. While in Rhode Island, Gov. Ritchie will be the guest of former United States Senator Peter Gerry.

SENATOR MORRIS SHEPPARD.

THE mark of the zealot is patent in the countenance of Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas; but there is no suggestion of the charlatan about the author of the prohibition amendment, and it is doubtful if even he ever caught his tongue in his cheek and that he ever consoled himself with the self-justification of the cussing preacher, who told one of his flock not to do as he did, but to do as he said.

A wide mouth is tight shut between fighting nose and chin. His appearance and demeanor is that of one who has disciplined himself; he might be likened to one of Cromwell's army, but never to a gay and dashing d'Artagnan. He probably believed President Hoover was much too wet when the President described prohibition as a noble experiment. To him it is a noble thing done, and all the arguments opponents of prohibition may ever be able to muster will never cause a glimmer of doubt to confuse the straight glance of the blue-eyed Texan, who dresses in formal clothes and addresses the Senate on each anniversary of prohibition.

Fathering the prohibition amendment was not the result of the sudden espousing of a politically profitable cause in his case. He fought for prohibition in Texas before that, and he was responsible for imposing various laws on the National Capital before prohibition was the law of the land. He probably would not feel out of place if time were rolled back and he was plunked down in the midst of law-making Puritans.

He fought for a law to require "In God We Trust" to be inscribed on American coins. He said a divine purpose was evident in the founding of the Nation and in the crises which had confronted it. He fought for woman suffrage. He fought for maternity aid. He sought to make the liquor buyer equally guilty with the seller.

He was born on May 28, 1875, in Wheatville, Tex. He was a member of the boy's band of the Methodist Church in his small home town. He recited poetry at church and school entertainments. When he came to Washington he at once became a member of a Methodist Church here.

He was elected to the House to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father in 1902. He was sent back to the House each Congress for ten years until the death of Senator Joseph W. Bailey left a vacancy in the Senate. He campaigned for prohibition among other things and was elected at the age of 37 and has been reelected since.

Peace Loses Able Advocate In Death of Aristide Briand

Statesman, Denied Coveted Presidency of France, Had Been Foreign Minister 16 Times; Premier, 12, and Served 9 Terms in Other Portfolios.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Peace has lost her most eloquent apostle, and the world, one of the most far-sighted of statesmen in the passing of Aristide Briand yesterday. He died as a simple citizen, although he had behind him a unique record of public service—sixteen times foreign minister, twelve times premier, and nine portfolios in other cabinets.

With that unconscionable indifference with which nations sometimes retribute the greatness of their men, France denied him the only office he had never held and which he most ardently desired last year when Paul Doumer was elected against him President of the French Republic. After that, Briand told his friends in one of the most touching valedictories that any public man has ever made:

"I am through. I am going away and buy a little boat with white sails and spend the rest of my days on the blue Mediterranean."

He will be remembered as a great politician—a politician in the best sense of the word, one of the greatest public speakers in modern times, and an idealistic statesman who dared confront the savage attacks of chauvinistic nationalism in his campaign for rapprochement with Germany. He and Stresemann laid together the healing poultice of peaceful diplomacy to the wounds of war.

In an atmosphere where political courage is more honored in the breach than in the observance, M. Briand was an uncompromising idealist. He defied the powerful group of striking railroad workers in 1910, when he put the entire railway system of France under military law, then called the men to the colors and ordered them to run the roads.

When the powerful nationalistic groups in France, after the war, decided on a policy of veritable economic enslavement for Germany, he stood out against the move and deliberately took the opposite trend in a remarkable vision of international policy, which culminated in the Locarno treaty and the Thoiry agreement between France and her former enemy.

M. Briand was the direct antithesis of every popular conception of Frenchmen. He was calm, unruffled and phlegmatic in any crisis; he could walk into the Chamber of Deputies when the atmosphere was bristling with hostility and thick with invective, and calm the tempest with his low, sonorous, majestic eloquence. His teacher, it is said, had been that great French actor, Lucien Guitry, who taught him the use of a deep, barytone voice and the effectiveness of coordinated gestures.

M. Briand never made a prepared speech, much to the anxiety of his advisors at the foreign office. During the extremely delicate debt negotiations between France and England, the equally vital League of Nations discussions, and even at the Washington Arms Conference here, M. Briand would come into the conference hall as casually as he would enter a cafe; and, after a brief moment of meditation, would launch into a breath-taking, analytical, profound and cogent exposition of his thesis that would carry the day.

His name has been linked with that of Frank Billings Kellogg, former Secretary of State, in the creation of the pact to outlaw all war, sometimes called the pact of Paris, or the Kellogg-Briand pact. This was the culmination of his efforts to efface the scar of war and to prevent the same cataclysm in another distant day.

M. Briand continued the tradition of the French foreign office, and invested it with an idealistic luster which it had rarely known since the days of Vergennes.

He was simple and unaffected in his tastes as the farmer folk, with whom he was happiest in Normandy. His farm at Cocherel was his favorite spot of relaxation, at four hours from Paris, and after a political debate in the chamber, or in international conferences, he would wearily climb into one of the limousines of the Quai d'Orsay and go off to do some fishing in the brooks and streams of the Normandy countryside.

He was an inveterate bachelor, and side-stepped many offers of marriage all through his life. He used to banter with his friends and say: "No young woman would want me and I could not marry an old one."

Royalty Backs "Buy British."

London, March 7 (A.P.).—The King and Queen are backing the "Buy British" campaign. The lord chamberlain announced today that he "has the honor to intimate that their majesties have expressed a wish that ladies attending the courts should, as far as possible, wear dresses of British manufacture."

LATIN NATIONS GAIN IN TRADE WITH U. S.

Figures for 7 Months Show $125,000,000 Balance for Republics.

(Associated Press.)

Latin America has piled up a foreign trade balance bill of almost $125,000,000 against the United States in the seven months ending with January. For the same period a year ago, Latin America had a favorable balance of only about $20,000,000 against the United States, so that the balance against the United States is now more than six times what it was in 1931.

This heavy balance against the United States is shown by Commerce Department figures, just announced, to have resulted from a heavy decline in goods exported from the United States to the Latin-American republics. The decline in imports from Latin America into the United States has been only about one-half of what the decline in American exports to those countries has been in the seven-month period.

Exports for the seven months to Latin America this year totaled $158,978,399, as compared with $349,220,772 for the same period a year ago. The decline, therefore, was $190,243,373.

Imports from Latin America aggregated $283,747,940, as against $369,008,743 for the period last year, a decline of $85,260,303.

The balance against the United States in total foreign trade this year for the seven months is $124,769,541, while a year ago it was $19,787,471.

BRIAND DIES IN PARIS FROM HEART ATTACK

ber, in which he was expected to defend his pacific policies with his old-time oratorical vigor.

The nation he served as premier during the dark days of Verdun as well as throughout the efforts to stabilize peace in Europe during the last 11 years, will accord him a State funeral.

The services will be held at 2 p. m., Saturday at the Foreign office in the Quai D'Orsay. The body will lie in state there. Andre Tardieu, premier of France, will be the principal speaker at the services.

In obedience to M. Briand's last will, he will be given simple burial at Cocheral, his country place.

Already great pilgrimages of former soldiers, who appreciate his labors for peace, have been planned to converge on Paris to participate in the funeral rites.

This afternoon all the great of official France and representatives of all the powers of the earth filed bareheaded into the simple bedroom where the dead statesman lay.

The body was clad in formal evening dress, with the black waistcast dear to French Democrats. It looked tired and emaciated—the body of a man to whom death had come as rest.

The eloquently expressive hands, with which he punctuated his famous speeches with darting gestures, at last were closed by his sides. A white scarf covered the mighty throat whose cello-like voice at last was stilled.

The mourners were led by President Paul Doumer, who defeated M. Briand for the chief magistracy last May.

Then came M. Tardieu, new head of the Foreign Office and of the government, and former Premier Pierre Laval, long-time friend and political pupil of the "apostle of peace." After them came the leaders of all parties, opponents of M. Briand and his supporters, bowed in common grief.

The struggling young Breton lawyer-journalist who attempted invasion of the Parisian field four decades ago apparently died almost as poor as he was when he arrived here.

Apart from his Cocherel Country estate, which is understood to represent the award he received in connection with the Nobel peace prize, M. Briand leaves little beyond personal souvenirs.

"He died in coma," said Dr. Marx, his personal physician, "after a stroke from which he did not regain consciousness."

In the room at the time of death were M. Briand's nephew, M. Billiau; his niece, Mme. Billiau, and his friends, MM. Peyselon and Brequet.

SOUSA'S BODY TO LIE IN STATE TOMORROW

Full Military Funeral Will Be Held Thursday for March King.

The thousands in Washington who saw John Philip Sousa lead bands in the marches that have made him famous will have the opportunity of seeing him for the last time tomorrow.

His body will lie in state in the band room of the Marine Barracks from 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon until 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the funeral will be held. A full military funeral will be conducted with a Navy cortege consisting of the Marine Band, a naval firing squad and a company each of bluejackets and marines.

Until the body is removed to the Marine Barracks it will remain at the funeral home of Joseph Gawler's Sons, at 1754 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. A number of persons viewed the remains there yesterday.

Services at the grave will be conducted by Hiram Lodge No. 10, the Blue Lodge of Masons, of which Mr. Sousa was a member. He also was a member of Eureka Chapter No. 4 of the Royal Arch Masons, the Columbia Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, and of Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine.

March for Shriners.

During the Shrine convention held here in 1923, Mr. Sousa composed a march called "Nobles of the Mystic Shrine," which he dedicated to the potentate and nobles of Almas Temple. One of the memorable features of the 1923 convention took place at Griffith Stadium, when the famous band leader led massed bands from all sections of the country, consisting of 1,500 musicians.

Honorary pallbearers at the funeral will include Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of naval aeronautics; Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps; Brig Gen. George Richards of the Marine Corps. Four others, probably civilians, to act with these pallbearers, will be named today when arrangements for the final rites will be completed.

Walker S. Buel, president of the Gridiron Club, of which Mr. Sousa was a member, yesterday designated the following to serve as a committee at the funeral, in addition to the club officers: Henry L. West, Alfred L. Stofer, David S. Barry, Herndon Morsell, Henry Xander, J. Harry Cunningham, Edgar C. Snyder, Philander C. Johnson, Ernest G. Walker, Henry Suydam and Taylor Branson.

Marine Band Tribute.

The first band of which Mr. Sousa was a leader—the United States Marine Band—paid him a tribute yesterday with a memorial radio program broadcast over a National Broadcasting Co. network. The band played three of Sousa's own numbers, "The Honored Dead," a funeral march "Semper Fidelis" and the "Stars and Stripes Forever."

"The march king is dead," Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the Marine Band, told the radio audience at the opening of the program. "John Philip Sousa was an American patriot, a musician, a master bandsman, a sportsman and a man among men. Today we pay tribute to one who has done much for music in our country."

The story of how Mr. Sousa composed "The Washington Post March," which was dedicated to this newspaper, is told in a letter from the bandmaster to C. C. Hathaway, of 2150 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Mr. Hathaway has the letter and an autographed photo of Mr. Sousa in the same frame.

Mr. Sousa's surviving son, John Philip Sousa, jr., is due to arrive in Washington today from the West Coast. The widow and daughters are now in this city. Mr. Sousa died early Sunday at Reading, Pa.

DONATION OF WHEAT TO NEEDY APPROVED

Here is the section to which Judge Payne objected:

"In cities of over 25,000 population the American National Red Cross or any other organization designated by it may have the flour * * * baked into bread * * * provided that no part of the expense incident to such baking or processing shall be paid out of said wheat or flour, and no part of the expense shall be borne by the United States or the Federal Farm Board."

As Judge Payne interpreted the section, it would require the Red Cross to pay for the baking unless this could be obtained gratis from bakeries. In his testimony before congressional committees the Red Cross chieftain indicated willingness to undertake distribution provided his organization was freed of the expense.

He indicated satisfaction with the body of the measure, which he construed as "permitting the Red Cross to have the wheat milled into flour and delivered to the needy—with the cost to come out of the wheat."

The President acted with considerable swiftness after the free wheat bill reached his desk at midafternoon. It was pushed through Congress late last week by overwhelming majorities in both the House and Senate and was enlarged to provide at least 5,000,000 bushels of the total as feed for live stock.

Secretary Hyde and Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, were present with Judge Payne yesterday afternoon during his conference with the President. Mr. Hyde had no comment upon the bill, but Mr. Stone reported the wheat was ready for distribution to the Red Cross whenever the President gave the word.

Lean as its treasury is, the Farm Board is certain of its solvency and that its credit will not be impaired even with 40,000,000 bushels of its wheat given to the needy.

Chairman Stone said yesterday while the $20,000,000 required to discharge loans and obligations aganist this wheat would dig deep into its $50,000,000 balance, he did not believe banks would call other loans which fall due this spring.

The board obtained $50,000,000 from a group of New York banks to aid financing stabilization operations, pledging the wheat as security.

Mr. Stone understands the Grain Stabilization Corporation already has arranged for renewal of these loans. And if not, he said yesterday, he is certain other banks will handle them.

"If the banks do call the loans," he said, "we have other resources and we won't be ruined."

LETTER TELLS ORIGIN OF "WASHINGTON POST MARCH"

Mr. C.C. Hathaway,
Washington, D.C.

My dear Mr.Hathaway:

Yours of the 22nd at hand. The "Washington Post" March was written at the request of General Frank Hatton and Seriah Wilkins, Proprietors of the Washington Post in the late Eighties. The Washington Post had offered prizes for the best essays in the various grades in public schools and the interest in these essays was so great that it was found necessary to use the National Museum grounds to deliver the prizes and, at the request of these gentlemen, the Secretary of the Navy ordered the Marine Band, of which I was conductor, to take part in the exercises, and Messrs. Hatton and Wilkins requested me to write a march for the occasion, and that march has been known ever since as the "WASHINGTON POST". I think next to "THE STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER" it had the largest sale of any of my compositions, but, when I wrote it I sold it outright for $35. and am unable to say just how many copies were sold.

I know that publishers in Europe and Mexico stole the march and in some cases even had the audacity to change the name but those out-law editions, I think, have gone out of existence and it is known around the world today as the "WASHINGTON POST".

Yours very truly,
John Philip Sousa

This letter is the prized possession of C. C. Hathaway, of 2150 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He received it from John Philip Sousa in answer to a query for information on "The Washington Post March" to be used in a lecture out West. Mr. Hathaway has the letter and an autographed photo of the famous band leader in the same frame.

Robot Maid Great Help, And Hasn't Any Suitors

By JOHN J. DALY

AT LAST, an answer to every maiden's prayer.

Milady need worry no more over the vicissitudes of housekeeping. Whatever trouble experienced in keeping the home fires burning may now be dispensed with by the simple expedient of an invention which offers a solution to all domestic problems, including the maid's night out.

Science contributes another miracle—the robot maid. On exhibition in Chicago, it cooks and serves meals, makes up the beds, polishes the floors, bathes the dishes, does the laundry, cleans and presses clothes, peels fruit, answers the doorbell and the 'phone, caresses the cat and whips the cream.

Better still, it never asks for a day off, or a raise in wages, and stays at night under the kitchen sink.

* * * *

NO LONGER need the master of the house fear for his personal belongings through the encroachment of the maid's boy friend, who sometimes got the best socks, even if he confers the favor of making away with gift neckties.

Gone are the days when a worried look crept over the good housewife's face as she pondered an invitation to bridge or afternoon tea. Would the maid let her go? Fathers and mothers who had to stay home on the children's night out, to keep the maid company, may now come and go as they please. The day of deliverance is at hand.

The robot maid may play havoc in the ranks of domestic servants, who now hold the household in the palms of their hands, but by the same virtue it gives a new glory to the Declaration of Independence.

Wise inventor, the man who perfected the robot-maid! He saw to it that all the wishes of the lady of the house would be fulfilled. The robot-maid shampoos and curls hair, with special care for the permanent wave—that most impermanent of permanent improvements on the impermanent earth—the permanent wave that lasts only until it is time to get a new one.

* * * *

THE distaff side of the house attended to by this new American invention, the only neglect is in the male domain.

As yet, there is no provision for shovelling snow off the sidewalk, putting the car in the garage, or tending the furnace.

Who will water the lawn, and do all those little jobs that usually fall to the lot of father—dear, old father—including the nightly promenade over the floor with the baby? Who? Not the robot-maid. Be sure of that.

It is probably just as well, and a blessing in disguise; for if all those things should come to pass there would be no further use for a man about the house.

W. N. PAGE, 78, DIES; RAILROADS BUILDER

Cousin of Former Envoy to Italy Will Be Buried Today.

William Nelson Page, 78, nationally known civil and mining engineer, who built and developed a number of railroad lines in Virginia and adjoining States, succumbed yesterday to an extended illness, at his home, 1863 Kalorama road. Funeral services were held last night at his home, and he will be buried today in the Hollywood Cemetery, Richmond, Va.

Born in Campbell County, Virginia, January 6, 1854, he was educated at Leesburg Academy, Va., and at the University of Virginia, where he took a special course in engineering.

Mr. Page devoted 60 years to railroad building and supervising, beginning his career as a rodman on location in construction of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, in New River Canyon, in 1871-72, and in 1874, he located and built the Mill Creek Canyon Branch Railway. He was in charge of a party locating double track railway, ordered by Congress, from the Ohio River to Hampton Roads, Va., in 1875.

In after years he was made general manager of the Hawks Nest Coal Co. He built and operated the Victoria Blast Furnace, Goshen, Va.; located and built the Powelton Branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway; built the Deepwater, Tidewater and Virginian; organized and developed the Gauley Mountain Coal Co., and was the consulting engineer for a number of mining companies.

He was a member of the West Virginia National Guard for twenty years, advancing to brigadier inspector general, and was the mayor of Ansted, W. Va., for ten years; incorporator and director of the Sheltering Arms Hospital, a member of numerous engineering institutes and clubs, a Mason, a Knight Templar, a Knight of Malta, a member of the local Cosmos Club, and a contributor to mining and engineering journals.

W. H. BEAVERS RITES SET FOR TOMORROW

Funeral Will Be Conducted From Mother's Home in Fort Hunt, Va.

Funeral services for Walter Homer Beavers, 50 years old, of 906 K street northwest, who died Saturday in Alexandria Hospital, following a brief illness, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the home of his mother in Fort Hunt, Va. Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery, Alexandria.

Mr. Beavers was a native of Virginia. He was the son of William Hover Beavers and a member of one of the oldest Virginia families. He had been a resident of Washington for more than 30 years.

Mr. Beavers was a descendant of Col. John Beavers, of Revolutionary War fame, and Capt. Robert Cooper, a hero of the Civil War. For a number of years he had been employed by the National Electrical Supply Co.

Well known in local Masonic circles, Mr. Beavers was a member of the Almas Temple. He also held membership in the Virginia State Society. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Katherine Beavers; five sisters, Mrs. H. W. Ferguson, Mrs. Wayne Dissinger, Mrs. Carl Sullenberger, Miss Maude Beavers and Miss Mabel Beavers, and two brothers, Gray A. Beavers and Chancey W. Beavers.

FUNERAL FOR JUNE BOSWELL.

Child Drowned in Patuxent River Will Be Buried Today.

Funeral services will be held today at 2 o'clock at her former home, in Laurel, Md., for June Boswell, 3 years old, who was drowned Saturday in spite of the efforts of her 6-year-old sister to pull her from the waters of the Patuxent River.

Little June and her sister Catherine were playing on the banks of the stream when the smaller child slipped in. Catherine waded in after her and was herself swept off her feet by the current. George Divens, 10, saw the plight of the sisters and managed to save Catherine. June's body was found several hours later about 200 yards downstream. The little girls were the daughters of William Boswell, jr., of Laurel.

Fatal Bowie Crash Probe Set Tonight

Funeral Rites to Be Held in Baltimore Tomorrow for Jacob Berlin.

An inquest will be held tonight at 8 o'clock into the death of Jacob Berlin, of Bowie, Md., who was found dead in his car yesterday after an accident on the Defense highway near his home.

Constable William Kreitzer, who investigated, said he believed Berlin died of a heart attack while driving and that his car then swerved into another car driven by Charles B. Gude.

Mr. Berlin, who was about 43 years old, had lived in Bowie for many years. He was active in civic affairs and was a prominent member of the Lanham-Severn Road Association. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Baltimore. He is survived by his widow and one son, Sidney, a student at Staunton Military Academy.

TIGHTENING THE BELT.

Opposition to the House tax bill has begun to develop on a number of fronts. The people have come to realize, as they have not previously done, that an enormous sum of money must be taken from their pockets to balance the Federal budget. They are beginning to feel the sting of congressional extravagance as they have not felt it since the immediate postwar days.

Yet there is a widespread realization that the budget must be balanced. The ways and means committee has courageously faced the music. It has brought forth a tax bill that will affect the pocketbook of nearly every individual in the United States. Some members of the committee began their task with the intention of "soaking the rich," but they soon discovered that no such method would raise the revenue essential to make Uncle Sam's books balance. They were forced to adopt a stiff sales tax on manufactured articles, besides various excise taxes, gift and inheritance taxes, and more extensive levies against individual and corporation incomes. Surtaxes on the rich have been advanced to a point where the Government is to demand 40 per cent of incomes above $100,000 in addition to the normal income taxes, the gift and inheritance taxes that fall with a heavy hand upon the rich. But these are not sufficient to fill the gaping hole in the Treasury.

On the whole, the ways and means committee seems to have distributed this additional tax burden over the entire income of the Nation with reasonable equity. The sales tax will affect both rich and poor, but foodstuffs are generally exempt. No one can deny that the sales tax is a heavy load, when added to the numerous other levies recommended by the ways and means committee. But it is needed to meet an inexorable situation. It is clearly an emergency tax, and will become inoperative in June, 1934.

The credit of the United States must be sustained. Congress can not allow the Government to drift further and further into debt. The deficit in the Treasury has a depressing effect upon business throughout the country. It is better for the country to take its bitter medicine of high taxes, and start along the road to recovery than to drift on to a more disastrous reckoning.

Some improvements may be made in the bill by the House and the Senate. But the levies can not be substantially lowered if the budget is to be balanced. Both houses must insist that the credit of the United States be upheld above all other considerations.

Along with this revenue bill must go a rigid program of economy. Congress must trim down expenditures to make both ends meet, even with this vast new revenue. If Congress is disposed to reduce appropriations to a minimum, to abolish the frills of government, to eliminate waste and duplication and reject all fanatical schemes of restoring prosperity by opening the vaults of the depleted Treasury to special classes, the people can not complain against tax levies to balance the budget. But to raise taxes and allow extravagance to run on unchecked would be an outrage upon the people who are suffering the pangs of depression.

An emergency tax can be justified only when expenditures of the Government have been reduced to an emergency basis. Individual congressmen will be tempted to vote for all appropriation bills and against all taxes. But the present Congress will be judged largely by the courage it displays in moving toward economy on one hand, and a balanced budget on the other.

VETERANS ASK FAVORS.

Disquieting rumors are heard from Capitol Hill of a new drive for extravagant legislation for the benefit of veterans, including payment of the remainder of the bonus. It is incredible that veterans' organizations should be pushing for additional favors when the Treasury is in such a serious state of depletion. Yet indications point to the conclusion that an organized drive is being quietly conducted among members of Congress.

At present more than one-fourth of the entire national budget goes for relief of veterans. Congress has been not only generous, but indulgent. Yet the pressure for more hospitals, larger and more extensive pensions and more cash in the form of a bonus is constantly increasing. Apparently veterans' organizations can not resist the temptation of bringing pressure to bear on members of Congress at the present session because of the well-known fact that the approaching election increases the desire of every congressman to be obliging to organized bodies of constituents.

In many instances congressmen who are veterans themselves are leading the fight. The stigma of seeking personal benefits at the expense of taxpayers does not deter them. Public welfare is completely submerged in the fanatical pursuance of special legislation. Representative John E. Rankin, for example, is leading a fight in the House for a pension bill that would cost about $161,000,000 during the first five years. He would invite aged parents of veterans and other dependents to live on the bounty of Uncle Sam.

Representative Wright Patman is the champion of the bonus. After the first wedge of veterans' legislation is driven through the House and Senate he intends to press for immediate payment of the remainder of the adjusted compensation which is not due until 1945. Unlike Senator Thomas, he would not provide the means of making the country prosperous at the same time. Apparently the Texan does not worry about where the money could be drawn from without placing a crushing burden upon the people. He stands ready to drive the bonus through regardless of what effect it might have upon the Treasury and the country in general.

Public opinion should assert itself on this question. Unless the extravagant use of funds for veterans' relief is checked the economy program of Congress will become a farce. To cut off a few millions from the regular appropriations and add a few hundred millions for pensions is the certain way to higher taxes. Congress must turn a deaf ear to these pleas. Nothing could more effectively destroy the confidence of the people in their representatives than an orgy of spending on Capitol Hill in response to the demands of veterans while the Treasury is in its present condition.

ARISTIDE BRIAND.

Aristide Briand is dead. The end came suddenly, following a stroke from which he did not regain consciousness; the tired old statesman—old at 69—slept away without suffering.

Briand personified a phase of French national character—a kindly, generous phase. His friends called him "an apostle of peace." It was he who revived the conception of "a United States of Europe." He was a good physician, a healer, for the Europe of the postwar era. He was constructive in his idealism, a pragmatist but not a tory, a realist but not a chauvinist.

By birth and training and by the experience of his youth he was authentically French. He began his career as a lawyer, but his magnificent voice, his power to convince others, inevitably carried him into politics. He became eventually the most celebrated orator of his country and his time. He was a Socialist in his formative period, but he had long ago outgrown the fallacies of its doctrines.

Eleven times premier, sixteen times foreign minister, four times minister of the interior, thrice minister of justice and vice president of the cabinet, and twice minister of education, Mr. Briand spent a full quarter of a century in official service, and held posts in 25 different cabinets. He missed the presidency of the republic on several occasions, but his control of the government had so often been greater than that of any president that he could afford to forego the clamor of that office. He will be remembered particularly for his reconstruction efforts—his negotiations with Gustav Stresemann for a genuine understanding between France and Germany, his architectural part in the Locarno pact, his advocacy of the outlawry of war, his share in the Briand-Kellogg pact, his participation in the League of Nations, the several debt conferences, the Washington disarmament conference, and nearly all the other gatherings of the past fifteen years designed to promote harmony and progress in the world.

Not always successful in his endeavors, sometimes bitterly criticized, Briand really did not fail. On the contrary, he laid lasting foundation stones of peace. If ever there is a world without war, he will be conceded to have been one of its pioneer builders.

INDEPENDENT FARMERS.

For many years the Department of Agriculture has urged farmers to diversify their crops and reestablish in a large measure their economic independence. So long as farmers were engaged in profitable one-crop operations and were selling vast quantities of their produce abroad this sound advice was wasted. Now in the midst of adversity, brought on by declining prices and a restricted market, farmers are yielding to the logic that they previously ignored as the only means of guaranteeing them against uncertainty and distress.

During the last two decades farmers have come to regard themselves as big business men, producing on a quantity basis and selling their crop throughout the United States and abroad. Widespread efforts have been made to mechanize the farm and to reduce the ancient art of agriculture to modern efficiency methods. It is not to be supposed that this fundamental evolution will be reversed, or that the farm will revert to its previous simplicity. But the depression has brought about a realization that quantity production of a single staple crop is no royal road to success. Experiences gained out of this distressing period may permanently modify the development of the agricultural industry.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics finds that production for the world market, and even local markets, is slowing down. Farmers are giving more attention to their own family needs. Instead of devoting all of their energy to a crop of wheat or cotton, which may have to be sold for less than the cost of production, they are raising chickens, vegetables, fruits and other crops for home use. The independent spirit of the farmer is reasserting itself. His present tendency to look to the soil for support as well as for cash crops may prove to be an important rift in the clouds of agricultural depression.

For the first time in many years population is flowing back to the farms, not because farming offers an opportunity for making money, but because the soil can be made to provide sustenance as a relief for unemployment and distress in the cities. Without a readjustment of agricultural practices this movement would certainly lead to greater economic dismay for the farmer. But if it is tempered with a rational return to the conception of a farm as a home and a means of sustenance the dangers of overproduction of cash crops may be minimized.

There are accidents on dry roads as well as on those that are wet. So politicians stay on the fence.

Our foreign trade has certainly dropped off since the days when we exported so many transatlantic fliers.

INDEPENDENCE AND SUGAR

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

The mutually beneficial free trade between the United States and the Philippines is about to be modified, due, among other reasons, to the supposition that Philippine sugar competes with beet sugar in the United States.

The fact is that not a pound of Philippine sugar enters, or can enter, the beet sugar territory on account of the prohibitive overland freight rates. From the Atlantic or the Pacific Coast to the Missouri River the freight is about two and a half times that from Manila to New York. Beet sugar does not meet Philippine sugar either in New York or Denver, the beet sugar center of the United States.

This high rate structure is the wall of protection against imported sugars, which is most effective against the Philippine product by reason of distance. To maintain its dominance in its freight-protected territory the beet sugar industry is against any scheme to reduce rates like the barge system on the Mississippi and its tributaries, and through a modified system of base-price fixing similar to the discarded Pittsburgh base practice in steel, it has a virtual monopoly of the sugar market in many States.

The result of this situation is that the consumer in the beet sugar States pays from 10 to 20 points higher than the price prevailing along the Atlantic Seaboard where there is competition. The two extremes in prices are represented by Butte, Mont., and Baltimore, Md. This paradox becomes more impressive when it is recalled that Montana produces sugar while Maryland does not.

It may be supposed that Philippine sugar, which represents 12 per cent of consumption in the United States, weakens the market by swelling the mass of supply. The fact is that Cuba, which already furnishes 50 per cent of consumption, piles up heavy surpluses which are several times the amount of Philippine imports, and these surpluses are the center and circumference of the sugar problem. A goodly portion of Philippine sugar is sold at about 5 points higher than Cuban sugar by reason of its stronger statistical position, thus exerting a stabilizing influence in the face of the Cuban statistical weakness.

Some States complain against Philippine sugar on incomplete statement of particulars. Michigan, for instance, claims that it is unable to compete with the Philippines in New York. The fact is that Michigan does not produce actually, or potentially, enough sugar to satisfy the local demand. Michigan's average production is 85,000 tons, while its consumption is over 250,000 tons. It registered its maximum productive capacity during the World War, 125,000 tons. This situation in a more accentuated degree is true with respect to Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and other States.

In view of the fact that difficulty in transportation during a war in the Pacific is mentioned against America depending on the Philippines for sugar it is pertinent to state that the beet sugar industry itself depends on Mexico for its labor and on Russia and Germany for its seeds. Besides, the complete disappearance of Philippine sugar in the United States any day will not be missed at all.

Bills in Congress propose quantitative limitations on Philippine sugar imports. If the reason for this is to protect beet sugar from Philippine competition it is founded neither on facts nor on fairness. If it is to promote the sugar industry in the Cuban republic it is submitted the action to take is to haul down the American flag in the Philippines first.

If, on the contrary, it is a part of the general preparatory economic program for Philippine independence with the consequent loss of the American tariff protection the task of planning and control should be placed in the Philippine government as the agency of Congress in the islands. A one-sided alteration of the Philippine-American free trade by Congress is politically oppressive and morally inartistic.

The restriction should not be on quantity, but on acreage, in order not to discourage and paralyze the efforts of the Philippine sugar industry to improve its technique and increase the yield of two tons per acre, which is the lowest in the world, for these efforts are the most effective method of placing the Philippine sugar industry on a world competitive basis as speedily as possible. Otherwise restriction as proposed amounts to constriction of the leading industry of the Philippines.

POST HASTE.

"Cease, rude Boreas, blustering railer!"

A blizzard at this time of year is no good for the overcoat business.

If no one has mentioned it to you, those indolent, not to say otiose, dollars of yours can now be exchanged for infantile bonds that are not paralyzed.

When Bill Haig introduced Col. Knox and the Sunday night anti-hoarding program, radio fans were, of course, glad to hear Hoover, Dawes, Mills and Robinson, but there was considrable disappointment that he didn't also produce Amos and Andy.

One result is certain—a bone-dry law for the District will mean, at least, a 10 per cent increase in price.

Congress denies a cash dole, but makes a present of Farm Board wheat on the ground that the board is so used to chalking up losses that another $15,000,000 won't matter.

The Weather Bureau certainly made a serious mistake in unloading such a snowstorm on a prize winter resort like Washington instead of southern California.

Balancing the budget isn't going to be as great a task for some congressmen as balancing the prohibition question through the coming showdown.

Two thousand years ago Plutarch quoted the doctrine that "knavery is the best defense against a knave."

Business has had a bad scare, but it is gradually being convinced that it will now be amply protected from the bogey man.

A good many persons may not have the nerve to face stern bankers with their sequestered dollars. We suggest to Mr. Noyes that he deposit some baby bonds where they can be ransomed from the corner grocer.

Labor and finance are holding up both ends for the railroads. It now remains for business to jump in the middle and give them more freight.

Senator Joe Robinson made a corking good speech in the anti-hoarding broadcast. It was the kind of cooperation that co-ops.

Snow-coverd autos yesterday were proof of the very general use in the Capital of curbstone garages.

Won't somebody tell that repetitious Trenton kidnap broadcaster that radio listeners can hear him the first time?

The Senate must not be miffed if Huey Long occasionally puts it in its place. He had Oscar on the carpet last week to call him down because a sandwich he ordered at the Waldorf was not right. PAUL HUDSON.

NATURAL HISTORY NOTE.

How an embattled jackrabbit conquered a hound dog in combat is the extraordinary tale related by Capt. Hertell, of the San Jose, Calif., police, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The young rabbit, which had been loping along ahead of Capt. Hertell's car for several miles, found itself cornered on a bridge between the auto and an onrushing hound. Instead of yielding abjectly to its fate, the jackrabbit presented a bold front, so the captain avers, and sprang at the dog. The latter, startled at the attack and rocked off equilibrium by the shock of the impact, uttered a howl and made a disorderly retreat. Ordinarily, we would take this yarn with a barrel of salt. But, having observed the events at Shanghai in recent days, we feel it worthy of being added to the nature student's stock of rabbit lore.

How Can You Despise the Man If You Admire His Works?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN people learn to appreciate a painting and a piece of music, they have a little training that is called culture. Culture, in many instances, makes them feel superior to mere men.

Yet culture is no more than an appreciation of mankind.

People of culture stand before a landscape by Corot, with its sunlight dancing on dew-laden leaves and grasses that bend before a little wind, and delight in their ability to enjoy it. What is the secret of their enjoyment? Is the canvas more beautiful than the actual landscape? It is much less beautiful. The charm of the scene lies in the fact that man made it.

The maker of music is a scientist and a poet, but he can not compete with the pine trees and the mocking birds. Those who are enraptured by his labors are his partisans because he is one of their species.

The radio is less wonderful than the sun, but it is much more highly honored. The sun, whose origin is beyond comprehension, is a commonplace of existence. Men are awed by the radio because other men made it.

"I am weary of people," declares the varnished ass; "now I live with my books."

What singular nonsense! Who made the books, if not people? To be bookish, rather than human, is but to prefer dead men rather than live ones. The life of the man across the street would afford both entertainment and instruction if studied as men's lives in books are studied.

Books and music and sculpture and painting are worth knowing. They are tricks man has learned.

But the most interesting things in the world are people, and even the young intellectuals who scorn people and are impressed only by the great works people have done seem a wee bit inconsistent in their iconoclasm.

Forthright Declining.

If a man is really determined to decline the Presidency in such a way as to make sure that no one can possibly misunderstand him, he should imitate Gen. Sherman. That blunt-spoken soldier declared when it was a question of making him the Republican candidate for the Presidency: "If nominated, I will not accept, and if elected, I will not serve." That ended that.

Butler Seeks Toga.
Houston Post.

Gen. Smedley Butler has arrived at a decision. He will take up legislative service and will represent Pennsylvania in the Senate, provided the voters of the Keystone State will invest him with the toga.

His announcement as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate in Pennsylvania forecasts an interesting contest this summer. He will run as a dry with the support of Gov. Pinchot, the dry chief executive of the State. Pinchot and Butler have something else in common besides their loyalty to the eighteenth amendment. They are both violently anti-Hoover.

Thus there will be presented the spectacle of a dry candidate running for the Senate on anti-Hoover platform, in a wet State that traditionally has been regular in its support of national Republican administrations. And to make the situation more odd, Senator Davis, former Labor Secretary in Hoover's Cabinet, and who is a Hoover devotee in general, has flopped from dry to wet, and will seek to return to power on a slippery plank. Which is only one more evidence that in politics logic simply does not exist.

Restoring Confidence.
Houston Post.

Five days after a certain bank had borrowed $1,000,000 from the new Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it paid the money back with the statement that it did not need the money any longer. Depositors in the bank, it was said, had changed their attitude. Several other applications for loans favorably acted upon by the corporation were not followed up by the applicants.

These instances at first blush appear humorous, but they are deeply significant of the part confidence plays in keeping our financial ship on even keel. They are an illustration of the fact so often demonstrated that if a depositor in a bank can get his money out, he doesn't want it; if he thinks he can not get it, he wants it right away. Runs on banks grow out of fear that depositors can not get their money. The antidote to bank runs always is prompt payment of depositors. Many a run has been stopped that way.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Observer Scolds Japan for Ingratitude and Aggression, Urging Punitive Boycott.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A few years ago when Japan was stricken by a devastating earthquake, she received the sympathy of the civilized world and practical assistance in relief to the extent of several millions of dollars donated by the people of other countries. Now, when her neighbor China has been afflicted for several years by famine, floods and political insurrections, Japan shows her friendship by seizing the opportunity to make an unjustified attack upon her, seeking to rob her of her landed possessions and to control the commerce of her principal port. That brand of sportsmanship does not appeal to fair-minded, liberty-loving peoples, and as a result of her aggression Japan deserves and is receiving the execration of the civilized world.

It is a new and strange doctrine in diplomacy that one country can legally compel another to buy her goods by resorting to threats of force and military aggression. Few, if any, have been foolhardy enough to attempt it. History does not prove that any nation ever got very far by that route, and it requires no great flight of the imagination to picture Japan as now engaged in a frantic effort to dig her own political grave.

Whether or not the League of Nations or the United States declares a boycott against Japan for outrage against China, the people, especially the women, have a mighty weapon in their hands, if they choose to use it, by declaring a personal boycott against the purchase of Japanese silks. Why not put it into effect at once, and at the same time help our own cotton and rayon industries, which need assistance? And when Japan is again visited by a national calamity, as she will be, as sure as there is an avenging God, Americans will do well to let her finance her own distress, and save their sympathies for other nations, such as China, which covets not her neighbor's possessions, but only asks to be let alone to work out her national problems in her own way.

It has been reported in the press that Japan aims to negotiate loans in America in order to develop Manchuria to her own ends. Any American who might think of buying a Japanese security of any kind should first have his head examined. He could probably learn wisdom from Simple Simon. If our international bankers are foolish enough to buy such bonds, the public should let them enjoy the privilege of keeping them. If Japan thinks it is legitimate for her to repudiate her treaty agreements whenever it suits her purpose, she would no doubt reason likewise with respect to any financial agreements she might make. The wise thing for American investors to do is to steer clear of any Japanese investments. OBSERVER.

What Are Democratic "Principles?" Asks Mr. Buck, Reviewing Party Record.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The orator speaking over the "radio" the other day was evidently enthused by his art, as he repeated the well-known phrase of uncertain meaning, "historic principles of the Democratic party." The quandary is as to just which of the principles advocated by that party heretofore the speaker had in mind. Was it free trade? Was it the free and unlimited coinage of silver? Was it abandonment of the Philippines? Was it the League of Nations? It could scarcely have been secession and nullification.

It is surmised that it will take something more knowing and wiser than the spirit of Jefferson to determine what are the "historic principles of the Democratic party," since it has repudiated and acknowledged the error of its ways with reference to each of the principles which it has heretofore advocated.

Correspondent Suggests "Senatrix" to Designate Woman Senator.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The admission of a woman to the United States Senate necessitates the coining of a new word to properly designate her. I believe that you will agree that it is grammatically illogical to modify the masculine noun "senator" with the feminine noun "woman," which is now being done quite frequently when mention is made of Mrs. Caraway.

A woman who engages in aviation is spoken of as an "aviatrix." I suggest that hereafter a female member of the Senate receive the appellation "senatrix." EDWARD EZEKIEL, Jr.

JUST FOLKS

A SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY.

Three score and ten! I would it were not so!
I'd rather say, "Still 70 years to go!"
Imperious Time, snatch back at least a score.
Surely no friend upon this earth appears
Who has made better use of all his years.
Not one day wasted; not a single hour
That has not known the limit of his power.
Now they are gone and comes the thought to me
I would those happy years were still to be.
Still 70 years of radiant life to go.
Yet we should all be poorer were that so.
Imperious Time, the wish I now recall,
Snatch back no single day; we'd keep them all!
Richer are we for all his kindly ways
And all the memories of these well-spent days.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Pratt, Wife of Admiral, Will Have as Guests at Concert Today Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Adams and Mme. Ferrara.

MRS. WILLIAM D. MITCHELL, wife of the Attorney General, and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, will be among the guests of Mrs. William V. Pratt, wife of the Chief of Naval Operations, in her box at the concert to be given by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra this afternoon in Constitution Hall. Other guests of Mrs. Pratt will be Mme. Ferrara, wife of the Cuban Ambassador, and her sister, Mme. de la Torre.

Mrs. Walter F. Brown, wife of the Postmaster General, was entertained at luncheon yesterday by the wives of the members of the "little cabinet," which is composed of the assistants to the heads of the various Federal departments. The company included Mrs. Arch Coleman, Mrs. John W. Phillip, Mrs. Frederic A. Tilton, Mrs. Thomas D. Thacher, Mrs. John Lord O'Brien, Mrs. Charles P. Sisson, Mrs Charles B. Rugg, Mrs. G. Aaron Youngquist, Mrs. Roy St. Louis, Mrs. Arthur A. Ballantine, Mrs. Seymour Lowman, Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Mrs. James Grafton Rogers, Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, Mrs. Joseph M. Dixon, Mrs. R. W. Dunlap, Mrs. Julius Klein and Mrs. W. W. Husband.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, presented the Polish Bicentennial stamps, yesterday at noon, to President Hoover. The stamps are of the 30-groszy denomination, value about 4 cents.

The stamps were issued in Poland in commemoration of the friendly relations between Poland and the United States at the time of our Revolution, and are of a pale brown color bearing the pictures of George Washington, General Pulaski, and General Kosciuszko.

The recently arrived Spanish Ambassador, Senor Francisco de Cardenas, presented his credentials to President Hoover yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied to the White House by the chief of the Division of Protocol of the State Department, Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, and the members of the Spanish Embassy staff.

The Egyptian Minister, Sesostris Desarouss Pasha, has issued invitations for a reception with dancing Saturday evening, March 26, at 10 o'clock to celebrate the birthday of King Faud First.

Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, of Baltimore, wife of former Senator Bruce, is spending some time in South Carolina.

Mrs. William L. Tierney, wife of Representative Tierney, of Connecticut, entertained a company of 50 at a bridge tea yesterday afternoon at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. George Oakley Totten, jr., Mrs. L. Corrin Strong, Mrs. Duncan Phillips, Miss Caroline Thompson, Mrs. Gordon Dunthorne, Mrs. Dorothy Oakley Hagedorn, Mrs. Eliot O'Hara, Mrs. Dwight Clark and Mrs. Robert La Follette are among the members of the Washington Disarmament Council, organized yesterday at a meeting held in the Phillips Art Gallery, under the auspices of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The new council will act in cooperation with councils of prominent women organized in other cities for the purpose of keeping the public attention in America on the Geneva conference.

Debutantes Sponsoring Exhibition of Fencing.

Miss Lillian Schiffelin Sanger, daughter of Mrs. William Cary Sanger, of New York, formerly of Washington, is general chairman of arrangements for the benefit exhibition of fencing to be given by the members of the American Olympic squad on Friday evening, March 18, in the Junior League Clubhouse in New York, under the Grenfell Association, to aid the work of Sir Wilfred Grenfell among the fishermen of Labrador and north Newfoundland.

Miss Helen de Peyster, niece of Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, is among the debutantes who are sponsoring the affair.

Fencing in Washington has been revived in the last few years by the Cuban Ambassador, Senor Don Orestes Ferrara, who is a talented devotee of the sport, having been at one time a well-known duelist. The fencing afternoons at the embassy are among the most interesting gatherings in Washington, when a congenial group meet in the library to watch the ambassador match foils with other devotees.

Among the Washington debutantes who are interested in the sport, Miss Christine Ekengren is probably the cleverest with the foils, having taken part in many amateur matches with her school team.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sumner Welles, who have been abroad for some time, have gone to the Riviera, where they will pass the remainder of the winter.

Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie will leave Thursday for Providence, R. I., where she will participate in the Institute of Near Eastern Affairs, which will be held at Brown University.

Mrs. Bruce Baird will entertain at luncheon in the Crystal room of the Willard on Thursday.

M. Adelbert de Chambrun, jr., son of Count and Countess de Chambrun, of Paris, the latter formerly Miss Clara Longworth, is in New York and will go to Paris to visit his parents in June.

Countess Felecia Gizycka will leave New York tomorrow and go to Middleburg, Va., to visit Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whitney Sail for English Race

Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, of Llangollan, Middleburg, Va., have sailed for England to attend the Grand National at Aintree.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, who have been in Europe for several months, will arrive in New York today on the Majestic and will be at the Ritz-Carlton for some time.

Miss Grace Burton entertained a small company at luncheon yesterday, followed by bridge.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim will entertain at a hunt breakfast Saturday following the weekly hunt at Bradley Farms.

Mrs. T. Sim Lee was a luncheon hostes yesterday at the Mayflower, having twelve in her party.

Mrs. M. A. Weller and her son, Allan Weller, are in Atlantic City.

Mrs. James Simpson, of Lake Shore drive, Chicago, accompanied by Mrs. M. P. B. Hosmer, also of Chicago, came to Washington yesterday to spend some time, and are at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Edward W. Sturdevant, of Washington and Philadelphia, who went to Europe the middle of last month, and have been in Paris, have gone to the Riviera, returning to this country at the end of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Orvis, of Alfred, N. Y., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Gilman, of Albany, arrived yesterday to spend a week at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bates McKee, who are spending some time on the Riviera, will not return to their residence in Paris until June. Miss Helen Pillsbury, a sister of Mrs. McKee, who has been spending the winter with her, has gone to Berlin.

Basil Manly Addresses Democratic Women.

The Woman's National Democratic Club entertained at its weekly forum luncheon yesterday when the guest of honor and speaker was Mr. Basil Manly. His subject was "Money in Politics." Miss Charl Williams introduced Mr. Manly. At the table with them were Mrs. Manly, Mrs. Edward Keating, Mrs. Finis Garrett, Mrs. Jerome Conner, Mrs. Edward P. Costigan, Mrs. Laura Bradley and Mr. Otto Bradley.

Mrs. Catherine Filene Dodd entertained a group, which included Miss Amelia Earhart, Mr. and Mrs. Tyre Taylor, of Raleigh, N. C., and Mrs. Richard Boeckel. Others at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Luke I. Wilson, Mrs. Herbert Fiske, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Miss Ethel Ketcham, Mrs. Marcus Coolidge, Mrs. J. Davis Brodhead, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, Miss Bell Snyder, Miss Gertrude Snyder, Mrs. George P. Frysinger, Mrs. Allard H. Gasque, Mrs. E. Marshall Rust, Mrs. Casenove Lee, Miss Marvin Breckenridge, Mrs. Lynn Torner, Mrs. Thomas W. Cook, Miss Eleanor Connolly and Mrs. Overton Ellis.

The President Monroe Chapter, District D. A. R. will celebrate their twenty-first birthday with a reception in honor of Mrs. Harry Colfax Groves and the newly elected State Officers, this evening from 8 to 11 o'clock, at the home of Miss Effie Henry, 1065, Jefferson street, Georgetown, one of the loviest and oldest of the "restored" houses in Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Warburg, of New York, are at the Mayflower for a day.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Ash Claytor had with them for the week end, their son, Mr. Richard Claytor, of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Morrison, of Pittsburgh and Pinehurst, N. C., are passing several days at the Mayflower. They have been at their Southern home and will return there later this week. They are accompanied by Mr. Thomas Morrison, Mr. Morrison's father.

Miss Beverley Trosdal, of Savannah, Ga., has joined her father, Mr. E. S. Trosdal, at the Carlton.

Mrs. James Cox Brady, of Gladstone, N. J., and Mrs. Hoyt Frothingham, of New York, arrived in Washington yesterday morning and are at the Mayflower.

Dr. A. M. Brodie has returned to Washington from Pasadena, Calif., where he and Mrs. Brodie spent the winter, and has opened his apartment at the Mayflower. Mrs. Brodie is now in Chicago, but will arrive in the Capital the end of the week.

Count Rene de Castellaz, of Poland, is spending a few days at the Mayflower as part of a month's visit he is making in this country from his home in Paris.

THE GIRL ABOUT TOWN

FORT MYER was the scene of a large gathering of girls of all ages who met the other day to receive preliminary instructions in preparation for the society circus—one of the first important events of the post-Lenten season. One of the officers told me that he saw Harriet Mitchell, Marjorie Talman, Janet Murray, Mary Henry and Betty West, besides the Walkers. Isabel Perry and several other debutantes together with a number of subdebs. All of smart Washington turns out annually for this event to witness the equestrian talents of their daughters, relatives and friends who participate. The excellent horsemanship of the officers and men at the post needs no comment.

The exhibit by contemporary artists at the Sears-Roebuck Galleries on Friday night was exceptionally worth while and the large attendance gave proof of Washington's increasing interest in modern art. The porcelain figures of Mrs. George Oakley Totten, and the etchings by James McBey from the collection of Lessing Rosenwald attracted considerable attention and much favorable comment. We were much impressed by the "Marken Fisherman," painted by Kirk and some of the panels by the McCombs seemed to appeal to lovers of extreme modern art.

SATURDAY night found a large group of distinguished people in the Corcoran Art Gallery at a preview sponsored by the Bicentennial Commission, of portraits and miniatures of George Washington and his immediate and official family. On account of the throng it was practically impossible to view the exhibit with any degree of satisfaction and consequently many will seize the first opportunity to see the portraits at greater leisure. Keen interest was manifested in the work of Gilbert Stuart and the three Peales, who have not idealized their subject as much as others, in whose paintings it is difficult to recognize the likeness given to Washington by the four artists mentioned. No little attention was given to the portraits of the famous jurist, the revered Chief Justice Marshall, by the well-known Sully in the early part of the nineteenth century, and by John D. Martin, which was loaned by the Supreme Court. En passant we saw Mrs. William Dewitt Mitchell, Mrs. Barrett Ridgeley, Mgr. Buckey, the gracious Laura Harlan who was with her brother, John M. Harlan, and Mr. Walter Peter, the latter a direct descendant of Martha Custis Washington. The younger contingent was represented by Kathleen Knox, Katharine Poe, Leslie Wright and Elizabeth Berrien with their escorts.

I sat through a very amateurish performance of "The Gondoliers" the other day given by the Washington Civic Opera Company, which lacked musical merit and displayed but limited dramatic talent. One of the few singers with a voice worth mentioning had laryngitis, but carried out her part admirably in spite of this handicap. The stage setting was artistic and costumes colorful, though to me footmen in colonial uniform had little place in a Venetian scene in Elizabethan period. The two danseuses in the second act by their grace and rhythm showed marked talent.

I UNDERSTAND that a plan for the civic improvement of Georgetown is soon to be undertaken by the District Park and Planning Commission, which will, no doubt, include the unsightly approach just west of Dumbarton Bridge, on Q street. With a car barn on the south and a dump heap and bare ground on the north the street is unworthy as an entrance to a place of such historic association and atmospheric charm as Georgetown. By the way, mention of Dumbarton Bridge brings to my mind that some comment has arisen over the change of the name of Bellevue, the recently acquired headquarters of the Colonial Dames, to Dumbarton House, which has been known as Bellevue since its purchase by Charles Carroll, about 125 years ago. There seems to be little or no significance to this change other than the fact that the land on which Georgetown is built was a royal grant named the Rock of Dumbarton by its Scotch patentee.

George Washington Essay Contest News

The keynote of the interest taken by parents and guardians in The Post George Washington Essay Contest was struck yesterday in the following voluntary testimony to its value from a mother of two contestants:

"I think it is a wonderful contest," wrote this mother, "and it awakens the patriotism in all of us which has threatened to become dormant with our terrible times and unusual happenings."

Similar letters constantly are being received from parents and guardians of contestants who realize the value of participation in the contest even if the children are not fortunate enough to be among the 108 prize winners. They know the children will profit by their study of the career of George Washington and his times.

Tickets still remain for the big Rialto show on Saturday morning given by the Rialto Theater management in tribute to the entrants in the contest. Any contestant may obtain a ticket to this show, which will begin at 9:45 a. m. promptly, by sending in a self-addressed, stamped return envelope for the same.

The Elks Boys Band of Washington will play patriotic airs at the big show and the films to be displayed will be clean and wholesome in type. Members not only of The Post George Washington Essay Contest but of The Junior Post clubs as well will be furnished tickets upon application.

When The Post Essay Editor arrived in her office in The Washington Post Building yesterday morning she found essays awaiting her attention on all sides. Over the Sunday holiday they had accumulated in such numbers that they could not all be listed in time for publication of the names of the senders this morning.

Culbertson on Contract

TAPPING THE ENEMY'S WIRES.

BRIDGE has often been compared to war, and rightly so, because in its origin it goes back many ages, and the cards in the suits have their values comparable to rank in the army. Honors represent quality; the low cards, mass, or privates. So, as Bridge is a military game and the bidding between the partnership is an attempt of the allied armies to establish lines of communication, we must expect that the enemy's intelligence department will occasionally decipher our messages and in some cases use them to their advantage or to our hurt.

The Takeout Double is a beautiful and effective weapon at Contract, but the hand shown below is the story of a Takeout Double which furnished the eventual Declarer with the information needed to make the contract.

South—Dealer.

	♠ Q 10 2 ♡ K 10 7 ◇ Q 9 4 ♣ A Q J 2
♠ A K 8 2 ♡ 5 4 3 ◇ K J 7 ♣ K 10 5	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 5 4 ♡ J 2 ◇ 10 3 2 ♣ 8 7 6
	♠ 7 ♡ A Q 9 8 6 ◇ A 8 6 5 ♣ 9 4 2

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	Dbl.(1)	3NT(2)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1. West has 3½ honor-tricks and is prepared for a spade Takeout. The Takeout Double, therefore, has a sound basis.

2. North's even distribution suggests that notrump is the better game contract. The hand is not strong enough for a Forcing bid of three clubs and does not have the playing-tricks to justify raising the heart suit, if partner's distribution is such as to make notrump play undesirable.

East led the five of spades. West won with the Ace and returned the deuce of spades, but North, guided in part by West's Takeout Double, was not misled and played the Queen of spades. West's clever false card and return of a low card of a suit was very brilliant play and ordinarily would prove successful, but North, having as a guiding star the honor-tricks in sight in his hand and partner's hand, and adding to them the honor-tricks necessary for West's Takeout Double, decided that East probably did not hold even ½ honor-trick. Winning the second trick with the Queen of Spades, North now proceeded to play the hand on the assumption that East was trickless. Thus played, five hearts and four clubs were run down and then the Ace of diamonds was cashed, giving to North 11 tricks as a reward of well-drawn inferences in the bidding and accurate application of them in the play.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In opening the bidding, in responding to our partner's bids or in attempting to disturb the march of our opponents to game, information is conveyed to friend and foe alike. Sometimes the information conveyed by an opposing bid is of vital importance in the making of the contract.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

ABOUT three months ago I put narcissus bulbs in pebbles. The plants have grown very high, but so far have had only three buds and these dried up before opening. Can you tell me what was wrong? Would it have been better to plant the bulbs in soil? Also is it advisable to repot plants or enrich the soil after a definite period of time?

MRS. F. N.

You likely made the mistake of bringing the bulbs to the light before a sufficient root system had been developed. Narcissus should be kept in the dark until the roots are well developed. If brought to the light before, the foliage is usually tall but limp and there are few if any flowers. Narcissus bulbs do about equally well in soil or pebbles and water. Plants should be repotted whenever they become potbound and the soil should be renewed or fertilizer may be added to the old soil at the time of transplanting. In the case of the plant that resents having its roots disturbed, it is advisable to add bonemeal, liquid manure or other food to the soil about once a season.

I have a number of plants which are all suffering for lack of food. Please tell me how to feed them without transplanting them.

MISS ANNA M.

Give them liquid manure, bonemeal or some form of concentrated plant food. The latter is usually manufactured in tablet form. Plants must only be fed when they are making growth. During their rest period they must have no food and little water.

Please tell me how to care for a poinsettia which has lost both its leaves and flowers.

MRS. ALLEN J. M.

Gradually cease to water your poinsettia. During the summer the plant should be virtually bone dry. After it has rested, in late August, remove the dead tops and begin to water it. It should soon send up five or six shoots. Remove all but three of these.

Please tell me the names of the inclosed leaves and the necessary care of the plant from which the leaves were taken. HERMIA F. Z.

The leaves are from the old-fashioned wax plant (Hoya). This is a satisfactory plant for a warm window. This plant should have its roots disturbed as little as possible. Keep it warm in winter and rather dry, unless it should be making growth. In its growing season it needs considerable water. Never remove the little steam on which flowers are produced, as next season's new flowers will appear there. Keep the plant free from mealy bug, which is about its only enemy. It has small roots and should not require a larger pot until it is two or three years old.

Please tell me when to start a modena vine. Does this vince produce flowers? MISS EMILY S. K.

The modena is a rapid-growing vine which blossoms in September, bearing a great profusion of small, white, fragrant flowers. It is grown from tubers, which should be planted in spring in rich sandy soil. It requires a great deal of water and does best in a somewhat shaded place.

Jane Interprets the Mode

NEW YORK, March 7.—Whether prints are as popular as they used to be depends largely upon what one calls prints. If checks and light polka dots on a dark background happen to be achieved by printing instead of through the weaving, then, of course, prints of this are very popular. Another way prints have managed to stay in—is with the black-and-white tiny stripes and pebbly surfaces that frankly imitate woven threads, but on closer inspection prove to be printed onto a flat surface.

A certain house in Paris shows a delightful frock with tiny puffed sleeves, made entirely of dots—and they are printed. Several of these polka dot sleeves are offered at this same house, some in elbow length, and all puffed and gathered to a straight, tight band which hugs the arm.

Now, while on the subject of dots, printed or woven, it doesn't matter—as long as they are dots, does it? Let me mention an evening frock or two of dots—one was black chiffon embroidered in black and white dots, which was worn with a black tailored jacket. And another was black chiffon with only tiny white dots, with a green moire belt just under the bust in front, which descended to the natural curve of the back.

And that, my dahr-lings, is a little dot and dash story for today—dot in the materials, dash for the pocket-book.

* * * *

Told you the fitted waistline and diaphragm would be the mode this season! 'Member? Or did you know that the diaphragm, fashionably speaking, means the space between the bust and the waistline? That is the area every one is talking about—and how it is fitted closely with the lines of the frocks, after having been slushed out of sight 'neath blouses and boleros all these years!

* * * *

Maybe you don't think you need a couple of sunsuits—but heed, heed 'Member last summer, and how you wondered if there wasn't anything you could wear that was less uncomfortable while you were doing your house work, or just while you were staying in the house to be out of the heat? Confess, now, I'll bet you did your housework in your chemise and panties—now didn't you? Well, this was because a kind Dah-ray hadn't come along and presented you with a leaflet full of designs which you could easily follow, and which showed you how to make and wear "sunsuits" in warm weather—little suits that are quite modest, very practical, and very, very cool and comfortable. They were sketched in all of the expensive advertisements last year and called various names, and supposed to be worn for the beach. And they can have matching skirts to them, which you put on right over the pantie part of the suit—no underwear, of course. Better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you all about them, and making them.

* * * *

You hear a lot about ensembles going out, and then they just continue to be exactly as in as they please, all rumors to the contrary. But the dresses to them stand alone as dresses, of course, which is the one thing about the new ensembles that yesterday's didn't have. This printed black and brick frock from Bernard et Cie., Paris, that I sketch for you today, for example. The dress is a smart little practical thing for a summer's day, all by itself. And the coat that accompanies it, though it was of black wool and had a collar which tied exactly like the collar of the dress, could quite well be worn separately or with the dress that accompanies it.

Au revoir!

Palestine Kings' Palace Is Discovered by Petrie

London, March 7 (A.P.).—The palace fortress of the shepherd kings of Palestine has been discovered by Sir Flinders Petrie, the archeologist, at Tel El Ajjul, he stated in a letter received today by Sir Charles Marston.

"Next to the fortress," Sir Charles said, "is another building which probably was their temple. The site has been compared to that of Pompeii, from the fact that the city was only partially destroyed. We know that many houses were three stories high and there is sufficient evidence now available that the city was flourishing when the Egyptians, after the death of Joseph, were oppressing the Israelites."

Lenten Menu Composed of Nonmeat Recipes Which Give Needed Proteins as Well as Variety

OUR testing for new recipes for the column has of late been devoted to the nonmeat dishes and in particular to the unusual preparations for eggs—and this for two reasons, of course, the one being the Lenten season, the other the fact that eggs are daily dropping in price and have become again one of the least expensive sources of protein on the market. But when we use a term such as "sources of protein" we rather feel that we take advantage of all the little new housekeepers who still don't know proteins from carrots, so it is wise to add that eggs adequately take the place of meat in the diet, and rank in "building materials" with poultry, meat and fish. So here today is a menu which incorporates an egg dish of our own finding.

WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.
Eggs Fromage
Buttered Carrots
Riced Potatoes
Watercress Salad
Cocoanut Layer Cake
Tea or Coffee

Eggs Fromage.

6 eggs, hard cooked
2 egg yolks, uncooked
1 cupful milk
¼ cupful grated cheese
1½ tablespoonfuls lemon juice
1 onion, sliced
2 teaspoonfuls chopped parsley
Paprika
Salt and pepper to taste
Fat

Cook the sliced onion in a little fat until brown, then add the milk and eggs, cut in halves. Stir over the fire three or four minutes. Add the slightly beaten egg yolks, parsley, cheese and seasonings. Stir over hot water about ten minutes, add the lemon juice and serve hot.

Cocoanut Cake.

1½ cupfuls sugar
½ cupful butter
1 cupful milk
2 cupfuls flour
4 teaspoonfuls baking powder
4 egg whites, well beaten
1 teaspoonful vanilla
½ teaspoonful salt

Cream the butter, add the sugar slowly. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to the butter mixture alternately with the milk. Add vanilla and fold in the egg whites. Bake in well-greased layer cake pan in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes, or in individual cake pans in a 400-degree oven.

Frosting.

1 egg white
⅞ cupful sugar
3 tablespoonfuls water
1 teaspoonful vanilla
12 marshmallows, cut in pieces
1 to 2 cupfuls moist cocoanut

Put unbeaten egg white, sugar and water in top of double boiler. Beat constantly with egg beater six minutes. Remove from stove, add vanilla and marshmallows. Beat until of consistency to spread. Add cocoanut, reserving enough to sprinkle over top.

And now some of our requests on the desk.

Fruit Meringue.
(For Marjorie B.)

1 cupful stewed strained peaches, apricots or apples
2 tablespoonfuls to one-third cupful sugar
1 egg
¼ cupful fine dry crumbs

Separate egg, beat yolk until thick and lemon colored. Cover bottom of a buttered pudding pan with the crumbs. Mix fruit pulp and egg yolk and put on top of crumbs. Bake fifteen to twenty minutes in a moderate oven or until set. Cover with meringue made of stiffly beaten white of egg and one tablespoonful of sugar. Brown slightly in moderate oven from ten to twelve minutes.

Pineapple Fritters.
(For Mrs. Grace M. L.)

2 tablespoonfuls butter
¼ cupful sugar
2 egg yolks
1 cupful flour
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
½ teaspoonful salt
2 tablespoonfuls milk
½ cupful shredded pineapple
1 tablespoonful lemon juice
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

Cream the butter and sugar and beat in the egg yolks. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk. Fold in the pineapple, lemon juice and stiffly beaten egg whites. Heat the fat to 270 degrees and drop the batter in by small spoonfuls. Fry until light and a golden brown. Drain on soft paper and sift with powdered sugar.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

CHANCE AND OTHER ELEMENTS.

"FOR many be called, but few are chosen." This Biblical quotation has served as a text for a multitude of sermons. It is likely enough to help us in another direction.

A dentist who lives in a town where mottled teeth prevails asks why it is that two-thirds of the children escape and one-third develop this displeasing discoloration of the teeth. Mottled teeth is caused by drinking water that contains an excess of fluorine. All of these children drink the water. Two-thirds escape the tooth trouble. His niece and his son are about the same age, eat about the same food, and live the same kind of life. The niece has mottled teeth. The son has not.

This serves to introduce the general subject of why certain people escape diseases that prevail around them. There is no complete answer, though there are many partial ones. About the only answer we can give to the particular question is one that is speculative and far from satisfying.

The amount of flourine in this water is small. Were it large the water would be unsafe for everybody. It is too small to affect the teeth of adults, and even too small to affect the teeth of most children. However, it is large enough to register on the teeth of some. The teeth are more susceptible at certain periods—in this instance, about the time they come through the gums. It is possible that at that period in her life this niece got more than the usual dose of this chemical, or maybe some condition of her digestion, or her mouth secretions just at that period was the determining factor.

And now, let us broaden the question. An epidemic of, let us say, flu prevails. Some have it, some escape. Why? Probably immunity is the principal factor in protecting us against attacks of contagious disease. Some of us are immune because of prior attacks; some because of artificial vaccination going by one name or another. Some are immune because they have lost susceptibility by daily contact with the microbes in small doses, or by minor illnesses of unsuspected natures. Some are born with immunities. Immunity may vary. We may be immune to influence when we are warm and dry, but susceptible when we are wet and cold.

Then there is the element of chance. One man escapes infection because a sick man coughed in the other fellow's face and not in his. We happen to pick up an infecting dose of the microbe, or we happen in the path of a dose that will not infect but may contribute to immunity. Whether the happening is one way or the other is purely a matter of chance.

In Minnesota a hotel proprietor rode into his town on a train, left the depot, walked to his hotel and entered the door just as a cyclone struck the town. Within one minute after he entered the door he was dead. Why did he and the cyclone arrive at the same spot at the same time?

Other elements of chance may enter. Two men are bitten by poisonous snakes. One escapes without material harm. The other is not so fortunate. In the first instance the snake may have fed recently and his poison sacs are empty; or, his fangs struck at a glancing angle; or the man's clothing got most of the dose of poison.

In some cases escape can be proved to have been due to differences in habits. For instance, in the old days when malaria was prevalent and often fatal, men had it more than women. It was especially severe on men who got up early in the morning, and who went away to work, and who worked on the outside during the twilight hours. In doing so they exposed themselves to infected mosquitoes. The women who stayed indoors in the early morning and late afternoon suffered less.

Thus, we see there are many explanations, but none that apply universally.

PERITONITIS.

Mrs. D. S. writes: Please inform me how peritonitis develops. Is it only after an operation? Can one suffer an acute attack of it alone, and is it always fatal?

REPLY.

What we ordinarily call peritonitis is the result of an infection. In the long ago it was called inflammation of the bowels. The infection may extend to the peritoneum from any one of several foci. It frequently follows childbirth, extending from the pelvic organs. Appendicitis is another frequent cause. Infection of the gall bladder is a third. There are several others, including infections for which operation was done and infections that occur during operation. It is often fatal, but not usually so.

EYE BLINKING.

Mrs. F. S. D. writes: Your article on eye blinking was read with great interest. Here's a tip for parents:

We have a boy 10 years old who gets a great kick out of mimicking his uncle after each visit by blinking his eyes. I have watched him sit and observe these habits of his uncle, and sure enough, the son has it down to a T the next day.

Denying them spending money or anything else they may have their hearts set on works wonders, we have found.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

One More Scamp.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I look forward daily to reading your column and can't see why they should limit to just one letter.

I am 25 years old and for the past seven years I have worked for a very reliable company, have a good income and have managed to save some money. My parents are very good to me. I have never had to pay board. But I buy or help to buy quite a few things for the home.

Nine months ago I married a fellow I had been going with for the past five years. We have never told it to anyone. We have never gotten along. It seems there's always some kind of argument. It seems now like our marriage was all a big mistake, though neither of us is interested in any one else.

Divorce looks like the only anawer and he says he loves me and won't let me go.

His work is very uncertain, when he has work he never saves money nor does he give any to me (he knows I dont need it, but I would save it). He demands a husband's right but has never suggested our having a home or letting people know we are married. I am tired of asking him and never mention it any more.

I have bought everything any one could ever wish to have in a cedar chest. He doesn't seem much interested. One day speaking of work he said that was my idea "marrying a millionaire and not have to work."

I want a home to work in and not an office. If I have to go on like this I feel I am going to be much better off without him.

I hope I can answer this some day soon through your paper.

DISGUSTED.

Well, being disgusted is the first step to solution, and divorce is the second. While it seems almost incredible that such an intelligent girl could know a man for five years and not perceive that he was worthless, still such things apparently do happen. Your one course is to tell your parents and seek freedom. You will have no difficulty since the man has made no move to establish you status. See a reliable attorney and state your case. Under no circumstances consider establishing a home even if this is suggested. You know the man now. He is a weakling. He will whine considerably. He will be as annoying as possible because he has none of the pride that most humans bring into the world with them. But do not weaken. If you give in now you will have him and his ignoble reactions to condone all your life. Although now or later you would have to seek legal relief. Do it now before you have brought into the world an unfortunate child to duplicate his puerilities.

The world belongs to the strong. Be strong enough to see a lawyer at once. You are tampering with your whole future in continuing this unjustifiable intimacy. So act.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

YOUTHFULLY SMART.

A lovely idea for early spring is this darling ensemble. For there are so many days when one finds a need of a lightweight coat for town.

And here's your model—with coat for travel and smart dress upon arrival. Both the coat and the dress are cut along very slimming lines.

Black sheer woolen would also be very smart, with the dress made of rose-red sheer woolen.

Style No. 379 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material for redingote and 2⅜ yards of 39-inch material for dress.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

WHY FAT Is Disappearing

Excess fat is disappearing, as you know. You see it in every circle. Countless people, once over-fat, have gained new beauty, youth and vim. And these happy people have not resorted to abnormal exercise or diet.

One great reason lies in a modern medical discovery. Science has found that excess fat is largely due to a scanty gland secretion. It has much to do with nutrition. Without it, too little food turns to fuel and energy, too much piles up fat.

Now doctors, the world over, supply that lacking factor. Conditions change at once. And millions of people show and tell the benefits.

Marmola prescription tablets are based on that factor. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others the results. Now Marmola tablets hold supreme place as a treatment for obesity.

Use this right method. Stop all methods hard or futile. Correct the cause. Watch the fat go, watch your vim return. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. A book in each box gives the formula, and explains the amazing results. Act now. The results may quickly multiply your joys of life.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been. Just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry, whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

Dollars are like the seeds which the sower went forth to sow. Planted in the good ground of American business enterprise, they increase and multiply for their owner . . . producing a bumper crop of National prosperity.

Hoarded away, they are as unfruitful as those seeds that fell by the wayside; and they stand an equal chance of being devoured by the ravens of crime who wax fat on the hoarded dollars of the unwise.

The rich fields of American business were never in better condition for sowing, but they lie fallow because too much seed has fallen by the wayside . . . because over $1,500,000,000.00 has been withdrawn from circulation and hoarded away, denying those fields the only seed from which can grow the crop we call "prosperity." Hoarded away, every one of those dollars is just a dollar, nothing more. Expended for something essential, deposited in a sound bank, or invested in well-chosen securities, each of those same dollars becomes the basis for $5 worth of business credit, the very life-blood of our economic organization. Put back into circulation, the $1,500,000,000.00 now hoarded away would establish $7,500,000,000.00 worth of such credit, enough to start every factory wheel turning again, enough to provide a job for everyone who wants a job, enough to send our industrial securities back to their normal levels and to re-establish our National confidence in our economic and political institutions.

Washington, perhaps because her people are in closer touch with actualities, has maintained a saner attitude towards the dollar than many other sections of the country, but there are several million idle dollars hoarded away in the Capital of the Nation. Let's put them back to work. Let's stop hoarding the seed from which must come our future prosperity. Let's plant them in the fertile fields lying fallow all around us. Let's give them the vitalizing rains of American initiative and warm them with the sun of American enthusiasm. Let's stop waiting to be fed with manna produced by some economic or political alchemy, and fatten ourselves on the bread of our own achievement. Only when we do this, shall we cease to be hungry.

FIRST PRIMARY TEST VOTE IS DUE TODAY

Concord, N. H., March 7 (A.P.).—Opposing forces supporting Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination lined up in New Hampshire tonight for their first test of strength at the polls tomorrow.

With a dozen votes in the national convention at stake in the first presidential primary of the year, voters of the State will choose delegates from a long list that includes complete slates pledged to Smith and to Roosevelt.

Eight delegates-at-large will be elected by the Democrats from a field of 17, one of whom is unpledged and the others equally divided between pledges to Smith and to Roosevelt. In each of the State's two congressional districts, two delegates will be chosen and in each there are two candidates pledged to Roosevelt and three to Smith.

The Republicans, their party differences adjusted for the present, will formally ratify a slate of seven delegates-at-large and four district delegates, all pledged to Herbert Hoover. The Republican delegation-at-large includes Senator George H. Moses and Gov. John G. Winant.

The campaign wound up tonight with both Democratic camps conducting last minute drives. Roosevelt forces centered their attacks in the Smith stronghold, Manchester, where Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, a leader of the Roosevelt movement in Massachusetts, was a speaker.

Because of the arrangement of names on the ballot indications were that the result might not be determined until late tomorrow night and possibly not before Wednesday.

The 17 names of candidates for delegates-at-large are together on the ballot and each must be voted for separately and counted separately.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover is expected to pick up seven more votes in Kansas at a Republican convention today. He already has twelve district delegates from that State with four more due to be named for him and Vice President Curtis.

Fourteen more Republican delegates will be named today in South Carolina, where the faction headed by Joseph N. (Tieless Joe) Tolbert, national committeeman, will hold a convention. Another group, led by J. C. Hambright, of Rock Hill, will select delegates April 26. Both factions claim authority and the national convention will be called upon to decide which faction is to be seated.

Postmaster General Brown was in Columbus, Ohio, yesterday presumably preparing to enter President Hoover's name in the May 10 primary, when 55 delegates to the Republican national convention will be chosen. The last filing date is Thursday. Mr. Mr. Brown had said before he left Sunday night for Columbus that Mr. Hoover's name would be entered.

Bank Deposits Up; First Gain Recently

(Associated Press.)

Coincident with the inauguration of President Hoover's antihoarding campaign, the Federal Reserve Board in its weekly statement yesterday showed the first increase in bank deposits in several weeks.

The statement of the weekly condition of reporting member banks in leading cities showed that net demand deposits increased $2,000,000 to $11,003,000,000, but still were $2,511,000,000 under a year ago. It was the first increase in these deposits since December 30. Previous to that there had been a slight increase in the week ended December 16.

Time deposits showed the first increase since the week ended last August 12 and were up $15,000,000 to $5,700,000,000. These deposits, however, were still $1,589,000,000 under those of a year ago.

GAYETY

"THE RACKET-DEARS." Columbia Burlesque, with Jack Hunt, Clyde Bates, Wilma Horner, Mary Walton and Helen Forrest. Special feature attraction, Mrs. Jack (Legs) Diamond, in person. Reviewed by W. L. Wright.

This attraction, "The Diamond Racket-Dears," is good entertainment, and with the many added features becomes an excellent show.

Jack Hunt and Clyde Bates offer a brand of humor that meets the instant approval of all present. The "Banquet" and "Family Troubles" are their best comedy skits.

Wilma Horner, although suffering from a bad cold, got over in a big way with several songs and dance offerings. Mary Walton and Evelyn Burk, charmers of no mean ability, kept the boys pleased and happy. Helen Forrest, a little blonde with lots of pep and a big smile, kept things moving in fast tempo. Her part in the comedy skit, "Some Pretty Baby," was well played and attested her versatility.

Specialty numbers by colored dancers were well done and added spice to the program.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

BECAUSE this afternoon's is the final concert of the season in Washington of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, local chairman of the committee of sponsors for the orchestra, announces that music students and musicians will be sold tickets, usually priced at $2 and $3 each at half price for today's program in Constitution Hall at 4:30 o'clock.

Many people who have heard the distinguished British conductor, Sir Thomas Beecham, lead the Boston, Philadelphia or New York symphonies on his previous visit to this country in 1928, do not quite grasp the significance of this noted visitor's devotion to music. This gifted musician is many times a millionaire—son of the man who made a fortune in pills. He has made a hobby of conducting symphonies and operas. It is reported that on one occasion he lost as much as one million pounds in the cause of music.

His newest hobby is an "opera league," which he says is going very nicely with "a vast membership of 40,000 people and considerable money" according to press reports at the time of his arrival in New York last week.

It is noteworthy that Sir Thomas' program this afternoon will consist wholly of symphonic works, three being scheduled for performance.

Those who are able to get a thrill out of seeing precisely how terrible motion pictures really were back in those alleged "good old days" have a treat in store for them at the Earle this week, where one of the supplementary features is a newly compiled issue of "The Screen Album."

In this symposium of the "super specials" of the day when the projection machines ran by hand power and a strip of film was as apt to be laced through upside down as not, are glimpses of typical two-reelers of two decades or so ago in which may be seen Mae Marsh, Lionel Barrymore, Harry Carey, Lillian Gish, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew (and to think they were considered funny!), Earle Williams, Clara Kimball Young, Harry Morey, Norma Shearer (and you'll have to look twice to make Norma out of her), Kate Price, Maurice Costello, Helene Costello, John Bunny, Wally Reid, Geraldine Farrar (in scenes from "Carmen," these two), Charlie Chaplin, Edith Storey, Antonio Moreno and Leon Trotzky, long before the days when he became a power in Russia.

Boy, does time fly!

As long as we are at the Earle, just wait until that Gus Edwards revue, "Radio Understudies," comes on! Not only is here a swell idea, handsomely staged and nicely paced, but it is no less than a theatrical miracle that any producer should have been able to assemble so many expert mimics in a single act.

The radio impersonations—especially of Bing Crosby and Kate Smith, by Jack Ribbey and Marie Donia, respectively—are well-nigh flawless. They are so good, as a matter of fact, that one is tempted to believe, until the lights come up, that a lot of amplified electrical transmissions are being employed instead of bona fide imitators.

Incidentally, the Leota Lane who impersonates Jessica Dragonette is a sister of Lola Lane, of the films.

The B. B. Lyons—Ben and Bebe—are still sightseeing for all they are worth, having spent most of yesterday's otherwise unoccupied hours snooping around the House side of the U. S. Capitol, being entertained by Speaker Garner and all the likes of that.

Bebe Daniels Lyon is a native of Texas, having been born in Dallas—o, maybe it is merely that she and friend husband are fond of soft-shell pecans!

It is a pleasant duty to report that whatever premonitions of too much singing by too little voice may have been inspired by the brief trailer on "After Tomorrow," currently on the Fox screen, were completely dispelled yesterday noon by a preview in the Fox Film Exchange's private projection room, of the entire footage of the new film coming to F street on Friday. Marian Nixon, as we feared, hasn't too much voice and, as you already know, neither has Charlie Farrell, when it comes to singing, but in this instance that doesn't matter.

There is only one brief snatch of song in the whole picture and that is presented not as an "act" but as an essential bit of story development where quality of voice is not of the least consequence.

"After Tomorrow" is a Frank Borzage production that reflects all of this director's conspicuous flair for detail and completeness of exposition of narrative intended to be told by pictures. At times he bears down a little too eagerly and too sustainedly on the tremolo stop, but, in the large view, his opus is a human and appealing document.

Marian Nixon is not quite another Janet Gaynor—nor does she pretend to be, so far as I know—but she is a wholly competent young actress for precisely the sort of part she has here, as those who remember her with Richard Barthelmess in "Young Nowheres" will speedily testify.

Much to do is being made also over the picture that is to be brought into KKO-Keith's on Saturday as a sudden "spot booking." It is "Sunshine Susie," a foreign-made feature, introducing to American audiences Miss Renate Muller, the continental star, who is said to have taken Berlin, London and Paris by storm in this subject.

"Sunshine Susie" is heralded as the European equivalent of "The Love Parade" or "The Smiling Lieutenant," with many sprightly musical numbers woven into a story that reputedly abounds in new dances, new ideas and genuine novelties in both content and treatment.

Now, please don't tell me that as far as Renate is concerned you'll have to Muller over! I've got trouble enough.

And what should come in on Sunday night's last mail but a postcard from Jack Hurford, house manager at the Fox, from Miami Beach, Fla., showing the gay goings-on in front of the Miami Beach Bath Club!

He certainly picked a fine day to get THAT here—the big, sunburned so-and-so!

All too infrequently in the course of dramatic events there comes along a play that presents so perfect a unity of character, line and incident as to deserve the name of classic. Such a play is "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

Rudolf Besier in fashioning this most flawless of modern dramas has seen fit to condense into a period of less than five months the romantic courtship of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barret which in actuality measured itself in years. The five scenes of the three acts span the curtailed period between the meeting of the robust and exubernatly alive poet, Browning, and the invalid Miss Elizabeth Barrett Moulton-Barrett, and their secret marriage and subsequent clandestine departure for Italy to escape the perverted solicitude and consuming wrath of Edward Moulton-Barrett, a figure nurtured on wormwood and distorted by disappointment. Apart from the intellectual affinity of the two poets who love at first sight, and even before that through the eloquent imagery of their eager correspondence, there is no suggestion of lyricism in the author's treatment of his subject.

On the contrary, Besier has made his drama great by daring to dignify the commonplace. Minor incidents which in less skillful hands might have been left the merest trivialities, he expands into episodes of major import in the development of his characters and the shaping of his play. In the first scene of the first act, for example, the matter of the tankard of porter as a means pointing the bed-ridden poetess' subservience to the will of her father; later, Henrietta's oath of obedience on her father's Bible, and similar touches scattered throughout the play, mark a thoroughness of craftsmanship and a fine appreciation of dramatic values and balance that contribute immeasurably to the rounded fullness of an engrossing and a commanding drama.

These, however, are secondary considerations to the romanticist. The chief claim of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" to brilliance and distinction in the view of those whose appraisals are influenced only by a passion for entertainment will be found in its perfectly played love passages between Miss Cornell and Brian Aherne and the frequent flashes of humor that illumine three acts that are not continuously gay.

Miss Cornell's performance is, of course, one of the great achievements of the contemporary theater, not by virtue of a flamboyant and gusty emotionalism, but by the simple charm and overwhelming forcefulness attained by the more subtle and more soothing devices of placidity and repression. Her interpretation of the role of Elizabeth Barrett is to be commended no less for what it omits than for the many substantial virtues it makes so evident. The part is a long and exhausting one, requiring the star's presence on the scene from the rise of the first curtain until within a minute or two of the fall of the last—a demand that only accentuates Miss Cornell's complete and versatile mastery of her art.

There is not a supporting role that is not played with utmost concern for its every light and shade; not a player who suggests the thought that some one else might better have been chosen for the part.

Brian Aherne, as Robert Browning, offers a tremendously vibrant and moving performance. There is about him the vigor and physical fitness that suggest the boxer and wrestler that Browning was during his youthful days as a remittance man on a small allowance from his bank-clerk father. There is, too, the fragrance of poesy in the eloquence of his wooing. The honors of the play are his scarcely less than Miss Cornell's.

Margalo Gillmore, in the courageous and vastly sympathetic role of Henrietta Moulton-Barrett, is a vital and a wholly captivating figure in the events that center in the "darkened room" of the fragile poetess at No. 50 Wimpole street, the only setting utilized by the three acts, and Joyce Carey, within the limitation of her lesser assignment, adds further luster to a perfect cast.

Of towering importance, of course, is the character of Edward Moulton-Barrett, impersonated with disheartening fidelity by Charles Waldron, victim of an ill-directed zealousness in bringing misery into the lives of those about him.

Commendatory words would fall short of their intended function if they failed to mention Brenda Forbes, as Wilson, the maid, and Flush, the patient household pet, played by a spaniel that obviously has fallen under the Alexander Woollcott influence!

In the matter of dealing intelligently and interestingly with persons of renown in the arts, this, in short, is the play that "Mr. Whistler" so ingloriously tried to be. It is a mandatory obligation on the calendar of any conscientious playgoer.

5 Plays Scheduled In Contest Tonight

Third Preliminary Will Be Held at Eastern High School.

Five one-act plays will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight at Eastern High School in the third preliminary contest of the 1932 one-act play tournament conducted by the Community Center department.

Among the plays tonight is "The Stoker," the entry of the Pierce Hall Players, postponed from last Thursday because of illness of a member of the cast. The other plays on tonight's program are: "The Man Who Came Back," by the Park View Players; "No Sabe," by the Montgomery Players; "One Little Kiss," by the drama section of the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, and "Fog," by the East Washington Community Players.

The fourth and last series of the preliminaries will take place on Thursday evening. The finals will be given at McKinley High School, Second and T streets northeast, on Tuesday evening, March 15. The two comedies and two serious plays, picked as the best, will be presented. Dramatic critics of the five Washington newspapers will be judges.

HOLMES, 91, TODAY, GAINS IN STRENGTH

Former Justice to Be Honored at Banquet But Will Not Attend.

(Associated Press.)

Oliver Wendell Holmes' 91st birthday today finds him partly even with time for forcing him from the Supreme Court bench.

Resigning recently because the work was too much for his strength, the author of "The Common Law" promptly regained some of the physical vitality which kept him delivering opinions after practically all his early contemporaries were living only in memory.

Those who see him frequently say he seems in better health than at any time during the last couple of years. He appears, they assert, capable of going on indefinitely.

Will Not Attend Banquet.

The aged New Englander—he was wounded three times during the Civil War—will not attend the banquet tonight in his honor. He will listen to speeches about him by radio, probably the first time he has heard a program since March 8, last year, when he spoke briefly and his greeting will be to the guests.

Justice Holmes hasn't left his red brick house on I street at night in years and birthdays to him are not important enough to break any precedents. This one will be typical in its quietness.

A message from President Hoover will also be read at the dinner, given under the auspices of the Federal Bar Association.

It was only a week or two after Justice Holmes' resignation before associates who called with grave faces were poked out of their solemnity by typical Holmes jabs of wit and remarks provocative of discussion. He likes friendly arguments with people whose opinions and minds he values. Justice Brandeis is one of his most frequent callers.

In addition, the justice began to take advantage of almost every warm day by going out riding in a rented car. He hires the chauffeur and his machine by the month and has had the same driver for years.

MURDERED WOMAN IS FOUND IN TRUNK

It was addressed to J. Michell Lichow, a real estate dealer.

Mr. Lichow said the trunk arrived Thursday when he was not at his office and his sister refused to accept it. There was a collect charge of $7.50. The expressman took the trunk back to his office. The following day the express company received a call from a man who described the trunk and said he would accept it.

The trunk was delivered to the real estate office Friday and was claimed outside the place by a man whose description tallied with that given of Miller by the rooming-house proprietor.

The woman wore a black figured dress and flesh-colored stockings, but had no hat. She was between 55 and 60 years old and weighed about 140 pounds. A gold ring was on a finger and a bracelet of good quality was on one arm. On the left arm there was a wrist watch which had run down.

Mr. Hoffman's wife said the roomer had acted very strangely from the first time she saw him.

MANUSH FAILS TO REPORT, REGARDED AS HOLDOUT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., March 7.

A RUGGED little chap gifted with a fine set of vocal chords that makes him heard above the din of the daily practice, is here to correct the impression that he was thrown into the Reynolds-Hadley-Jones deal as something to boot, or the thirteenth bun in a baker's dozen.

Johnny Kerr is the man, and from the moment he stepped onto the diamond today, attired in a Washington uniform for the first time, he began to inject Johnny Kerr into the vale of the Washington Club, calling the attention to his presence on the team. First, by his rapid-fire line of chatter on the side lines and then by convincing display of ability in the infield and at the plate.

Kerr came to the Washington Club with two strikes on him, figuratively, inasmuch as he was unfortunate enough to be included in the deal which had Carl Reynolds as its focal point.

In the light of Reynolds' prowess, Kerr's coming has been overshadowed, but the little infielder lost no time today in setting about to assert some importance in his own right.

Clark Griffith, the bossman here, cast an approving eye at the antics of Kerr, both at bat and afield, and smiled broadly as the little infielder enlivened the whole proceedings with his incessant but inspiring chatter. Then Mr. Griffith unburdened himself in a few things about Kerr, which are taken to mean that he is quite pleased with his new acquisition.

"That little fellow will play a lot of baseball for us," Griffith said. "He can do a lot of things in the infield and up there at the bat. For a small man, he gets miraculous power into his drives. I've seen him put a home run into the left-field bleachers in the Washington park that won a game for the White Sox. That's a long clout for a man of his size. He's hit that fence several times on the fly.

"He may not have the stamina to be in there every day. Like a lot of players, Kerr is something of a streak hitter. He'll play like a million dollars for a month at a time, winning a lot of games, but, when his average starts to fall off he should be rested. He'll do us a lot of good. He's got spunk. He wrote me last fall after he heard of the trade, that Washington was his favorite park and, by golly, he did hit like a fool against us."

Kerr is fated for a utility role with the Washington Club in the face of the stand pat nature of the Nats' infield, comprised of Kuhel, Myer, Bluege and Cronin. That he will be able to dislodge any of the regulars at second, third or shortstop appears improbable, but his usefulness as a reserve man is undisputed.

He played 125 games for the White Sox last year and batted .268, serving chiefly at second base but he also performed at third and shortstop. With the Nats, he is slated to play either second or third in emergencies, with Bluege to be transferred to the shortstop post if Cronin's absence is forced by injury or other cause.

Kerr is the smallest player on the Nats' roster, standing only 5 feet 7 inches and weighing 158 in playing condition. He takes a healthy swing at the plate, however, and has a strong throwing arm. Should he be seen in action at second base, his play would be helped materially by the presence of Cronin at shortstop, Griffith believes. He has not played along side of a shortstop of Cronin's caliber with the White Sox.

Kerr is one of Carl Reynolds' greatest boosters, according to Griffith. The little infielder, in a letter to the Nats' boss, extolled the merits of the big outfielder in no uncertain terms and went so far as to say Reynolds' presence with the Nats ought to make a difference of at least 20 games won, compared to the team's record last fall.

This season will mark Kerr's fourth year in baseball. He is old, as infielders go, being 31. He joined the White Sox in 1929 and has played regularly at some position in the infield ever since.

Kerr hails from San Francisco in the same neighborhood that produced Joe Cronin, Tony Lazzeri, Willie Kamm, Lefty O'Doul and Mark Koenig. Griffith has been Kerr's unknown benefactor for two years, it was learned today. In 1930 and 1931, the White Sox asked for waivers on the little infielder that he might be sent back to the San Francisco Club of the Pacific Coast League, but Griffith each time refused to waive his claim, testimony of his high regard for Kerr's ability.

Babe Ruth in Talkie Subject at Rialto

Fans as well as picture-goers are showing interest in the second of the "Play Ball With Babe Ruth" series of short human interest stories that is showing at the Rialto Theater this week.

This second feature is called "Just Pals," and offers the "king of swat" in a role for which he is eminently fitted—that of umpire for a baseball game at an orphan asylum. A batter strikes out with the bases filled in the ninth. And, as usual, gets plenty razzed.

He develops an inferiority complex until the "Babe" takes him in hand and then things begin to happen. The picture offers Ruth in a real role, a role concerned with a sport of which he is king and the story brings out some of the fine points of baseball as well as sportsmanship.

ORIOLES IN CAMP.

Gulfport, Miss., March 7 (A.P.).—The Baltimore Orioles of the International League arrived here today to start spring training under the direction of the new business manager, Henry P. Dawson.

Manager Fritz Maisel and 22 players are in camp with only Buz Arlett, former Philadelphia National outfielder, listed as a holdout.

"C" Club and Business Quintets Are Winners In A. A. U. Tournament

St. John's Aces and A. Z. A. Fratmen in Victories.

CENTRAL and Business proved they could cope with District A. A. U. competition last night when they emerged from their respective games in the tournament at Tech High, easy winners. Central beat out Calvary Methodist Episcopal, 23 to 13, in a rough-and-tumble fray, and Business annihilated the Noel House, 44 to 16.

Other teams last night who forged into the second round of play were the St. John's Aces, a 115-pound outfit, and the St. Stephen's 130-pound team. The Aces pulled something of a surprise in defeating the Boys Club, 23 to 11, while St. Stephen's vanquished the Noel House 130-pounders, 34 to 17.

Tht games attracted a first-rate crowd of fans, despite the treacherous driving conditions on the way to Tech.

Central was not too impressive in its defeat of the big and determined Calvary Methodist Episcopal Team. Calvary, rated a likely underdog at the start of the game, more than held its own in the first half, and trailed but by 8 to 5. It held a 3-to-0 lead ten minutes after the start of the game. Both clubs suffered from lack of customary marksmanship in the second half, recovering only now and then to produce outstanding play.

Business, piloted by Lynn Woodworth, impressed in beating the Noel House 145-pounders. The Stenogs' peppery little shots, after a faulty start, showed how much they are favorites to win this section of play later in the game.

Business Shows Form In Beating Noel House

Business High's courtmen showed that they will have something to say regarding the distribution of final honors in the 145-pound class by the decisive manner in which they smothered the Noel House five, 44 to 16. The Stenogs led from start to finish, running up an 11-to-0 lead and having a 20-to-5 margin at the half, which saw the Noel House team score but once from scrimmage.

Following the intermission, Noel House pulled up to 20 to 11 and then Business, led by Esenstadt and Sherman, who tallied 12 points each, stepped out and turned the game into a rout, adding 24 points while its rivals could add but 7 to their total.

Shore, Business' All-High guard, was slightly indisposed, but despite this handicap, he managed to play a brilliant defensive game while ringing up 8 points until relieved by Harris. Henderson scored 8 points, which represented half of the Noel House Team's total.

St. John's Aces Down Boys Club 115-Pounders

St. John's Aces, composed of smaller members of the prep school champs, broke the ice in the first game played in the 115-pound class when they easily disposed of the Boys Club, 23 to 11. The latter scored the first 5 points of the game before the Young Saints could get their machine clicking on all cylinders.

Once under way, however, and St. John's, showing smooth teamwork and an outstanding star in Behren, forged in front and held the lead over the balance of the route. The Boys Club was stopped dead in its tracks while the Saints rang up 14 points, to lead, 14-5, at the half, while it outscored its foes, 9 to 6, in the last two quarters.

Behren, with 12 points, tallied more times than did any other three players in the game, with Hayman, with 4 points, taking high-gun honors for the losers.

St. Stephen's Is Victor Over Noel 130-Pounders

Noel House's lone claim to fame came in the first quarter of their game with the 130-pound St. Stephen's Team. Noel House achieved a 6-to-2 lead at the quarter, but Reds Sullivan, lanky forward and center for the Saints, put his side ahead individually, 7 to 6, with two baskets and a foul shot in rapid succession.

The Saints were never behind after that. They held a 16-to-9 lead at the half and a 24-to-12 advantage at the third quarter, and loped home easily, 34 to 17. Sullivan continued his fine work throughout, but the latter half of the game was dominated by the play of Tom Folliard, of the same team.

J. C. C. PLAYS IN TOURNEY TONIGHT

Griffith's-D. and H. Meet for Community League Title.

TIED at one game apiece, with the championship of the Community Center League at stake, the Griffith-Consumers and Delaware & Hudson fives will meet tonight in the third and final game of their series. It is a special added attraction to tonight's regular card of District A. A. U. games, sponsored by The Post, at Tech, and is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

The chief tournament attraction will be furnished by the Jewish Community Center and First Baptist unlimited teams which are scheduled to play at 10 o'clock. The Center quintet in enjoying one of its best seasons. Coached by Dave Keppel, it has won 25 games and lost only one, and looms as the dark horse of the tournament. The churchmen have also experienced a boom season, having won the majority of their games. They are far from being a set-up for the J. C. C. Action should move along at a heartbreaking pace.

Rivals Divide Games.

The Griffith's-Delaware game mates, two of the leading unlimited clubs in Washington, are both competing in the tournament. The two combinations forged to the championship of the two divisions of the Community Center League over the heads of the 20 teams. The Consumers beat Saks Clothiers to win Division A, while the Consumers beat out the Potomac Boat Club and last year's champion Crescents.

The Griffs molded a 44-20 victory in the first game of the three-game play-off, showing far superior skill with such basketers as Lilly, Peck, Timmons, Canavin and Lyles showing the way. D. & H. came back gallantly last week and tied the count with a 34-31 decision, produced by a sensational long shot by Jack Shanklin with less than a minute to go and a foul shot by Beach, clever center.

Tonight's game should be a humdinger.

"Often a bridesmaid but never a bride" might have been composed for the Jewish Community Center Big Five. Since the tournament sprang into action in 1926 the J. C. C. has offered a crack unlimited team, and each time it has fallen short of winning the top honors. Twice the team has gone to the quarter-finals and once to the semifinals, but last year it bowed in the first round of play in a spectacular upset.

Center Rated Favorite.

The Center club is a favorite to come through against the First Baptists. The J. C. C. has a strong assortment of players this year, notably Understein and Singman, of Ben Franklin fame, and Sid Wallenstein, a rapidly improved player.

The night will open when the Y. M. C. A. Eagles, long an established name in the tournament, meet the Western High Flashes, in the 115-pound section, at 7 o'clock. The 8 o'clock game concerns the A. Z. A. Fraternity and Mount Rainier Boys Club, 130-pound rivals.

A nominal fee of 25 cents will be charged to view all four games, certainly the greatest basket ball bargain of the year.

Hack Wilson Hits Brace of Homers

Stars in Dodgers' Practice Game; Gilbert, Frederick Sign.

Clearwater, Fla., March 7 (U.P.).—Hack Wilson hit two home runs in today's practice game of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The homers came in successive turns at bat. Vance and Hoyt divided the pitching for the regulars and limited the Yannigan Team to one hit, a single by Picinich, off Vance's delivery.

Wally Gilbert, who played third for the substitute nine, and Johnny Frederick, outfielder, signed contracts today, each player accepting a cut in salary. Babe Herman is now the only holdout.

TWO UPSETS IN $5,000 MATCHES

Macfarlane-Cox and Hagen-Runyon Eliminated.

MIAMI, Fla., March 7 (U.P.).—Favorite teams found the going difficult in second-round play for the $5,000 international four-ball golf championships today.

The defending champions, Willie Macfarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, were eliminated by Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, 3 and 2, in the most surprising upset of a queer day's play.

Likewise ousted were Walter Hagen, Canadian champion, and Paul Runyon, P. G. A. champion, by Billy Burke, national open champion, and John Golden, Noroton, Conn., by a wide margin, 4 and 3.

Tommy Armour, Detroit, and Ed Dudley, West open champion, Wilmington, Del., defeated Tony Manero, White Plains, and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield Hills, N. J., 5 and 4.

Voigt Is Winner In Bermuda Golf

Tolley Defeated, 5 and 4, as U. S. Players Take Lead.

Castle Harbour, Bermuda, March 7 (A.P.).—Winning four singles matches, halving two and losing two, the American golf team got away to a lead today in its international match with a team representing Bermuda.

George Voigt, captain of the American group, played superb golf to defeat Cyril Tolley, leader of the Bermudians, 5 and 4. Voigt shot a 38 on the first nine to take a commanding lead of 4 up on the British veteran.

Eddie Held came from behind after being 1 down at the fourteenth hole to defeat Arthur Gosling, of Bermuda 2 and 1. Leonard Martin, of the invaders, defeated Nicol Thompson, jr., 3 and 2, and Clive Alvord scored the fourth American victory at the expense of Hal Butterfield, 7 and 6.

Phil Farley gave the Bermuda team its first triumph by downing Miller Jones, 3 and 2, and George Hackl, of the Americans, bowed to James Pearman, 5 and 4.

Charles Shelton, of the United States, tied with Frank Thompson, of Bermuda, and Robert Ley, of the visitors, halved with H. G. Butterfield. Both of the halved matches were closely fought all the way, no player ever leading by more than 1 up.

The two-ball foursomes were scheduled this afternoon, with the Bermuda representatives faced with the necessity of winning three of the four matches in order to gain an even break on the tournament.

1,000 WATCH AS POJELLO TRIUMPHS

Bartush and Stract Win; Cordovano in Draw.

By JACK ESPEY.

DAME NATURE'S current cold rumpus was but a mere spring zephyr compared with the storm that raged last night down at Boiling Field. But nobody was frozen, for this was a hot old time in the aviators' giant armory where Paul Bowser's rasslers made their maiden Washington appearance. One thousand cash customers reveled in the groveling and growling, not to mention biting and slugging.

A decided hit these rivals of the Curley troupe scored, judging from the applause that greeted the announcement that the show will be repeated every Monday night henceforth, and the mob went away singing the praises of Billy Bartush and Karl Pojello, a couple of stars formerly associated with the Curleyites who perform at Washington Auditorium.

The lithe, business-like Pojello defeated his heavier, rougher opponent, Rudy Laditzi, while Bartush disposed of the bare-footed Tommy Texis. Sam Cordovano, former Georgetown University football star, pleased his admirers with a 30-minute draw opposing Danny Winters, and in the other bouts "Bool" Martin, an old favorite here, secured a 30-minute draw with Tornado Jim Browning, and Charley Stract, former Olympic champion, crushed George Harben, barrel-chested Georgian.

Pojello Chased By Foe.

Pojello, who is on his toes at all times and springs into action like a lightweight, withstood an assortment of bone-bending, breath-stopping holds by Laditzi before slamming the Hungarian for keeps. The time was 24 minutes, 45 seconds, but the scrap did fair to continue on into the night when the infuriated Laditzi chased Pojello to the entrance of the dressing room, swinging his fists. Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn and others standing by subdued Rudy, however, before the M. P.'s hustled up.

Laditzi's anger was partially due to the actions of Referee Billy Jones, who seemed to cramp the Hungarian's fiendish style. Referee Jones rescued Pojello many times from apparently illegal holds around the neck, and in parting the combatants

Ruth May Miss Exhibition Games

Babe Not to Risk Injury Unless Signed; Cooke's Arm Improves.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7 (U.P.).—The Babe Ruth-Col. Jake Ruppert contract argument resumed today when the home run star reiterated he would remain out of exhibition competition until his contract is signed.

"I'd look like an awful sucker if I played while still unsigned and got hurt," Ruth said.

Col. Ruppert is expected to arrive here Sunday, and the Yankees open their exhibition season, meeting the Boston Braves, on Saturday.

Dusty Cooke, outfielder, who was out of the game most of last season because of an injured arm, is rapidly regaining normal use of the arm.

Gardener, Highest Paid Nat, Issued Ultimatum By President Griffith

Must Report Today or Take Further Cut, He Says.

No Word Is Received From Outfielder; Judge Signs.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 7.—The Washington club has a holdout on its hands in Henie Manush, it was determined tonight.

The outfielder's failure to report today as ordered or notify President Clark Griffith of the Nats of his acceptance of terms, definitely classified as a confirmed holdout and if corroboration is needed it may be found in the fulminating of Mr. Griffith, who filled the air with ultimatums this evening.

Mr. Griffith unburdened himself of the rising wrath within him by announcing that unless the big outfielder put in an appearance tomorrow his offer would be withdrawn, a new contract with a punitive reduction submitted to him, and all the rules in the major league by-plays providing for fine and suspension invoked against the player.

"I will give Manush one more day," Griffith declared with great pomposity. "Unless he is here tomorrow, my offer will be recalled and the next offer will be considerably less. I won't tolerate any more delays and if he does not report by tomorrow, he will have to get into condition at his own expense and I will fine him up to the limit of the rules.

Highest Paid Player.

"Manush's case is a simple one. He was the highest paid man on the team last year and he failed to produce. He didn't play good ball and his contract has been cut. I couldn't renew his 1931 contract at the same figure without insulting the rest of my ball players. That's my policy. They've got to stand or fall by their own efforts. Other ball players who received far less than Manush last year played better ball. They received increases, but Manush has got to accept a reduction."

Griffith has received no word from Manush who is wintering at West Palm Beach, Fla., since last week when the outfielder demanded a better contract than was offered. At that time he was told to report today prepared to accept terms or be considered a hold-out and liable to fine and suspension. Under the league rules, a hold-out may be suspended until the team manager deems him fit to play.

Manush's hold-out proclivities in the past have been well known. With both the Browns and the Tigers he was last in reporting to training camp. His aversion to Spring training is believed to be a subsidiary motive in his salary controversy with Griffith, but the Nats' owner was emphatic in his warning of a sizable reduction unless the outfielder reported tomorrow.

Manush's last season was a disappointment. Recognized as one of the league's greatest batsmen and having held the honor of leading the league in hitting in the past, Manush was able to muster only a .307 average last season at great cost to the Nats. He was regarded as the team's greatest disappointment of the 1931 season.

Manush stands as the club's only hold-out. Joe Judge accepted Griffith's terms this morning after a brief conference.

Biloxi field presented a lively scene this morning with 26 players in uniform, with Manush and Dave Harris as the only absentees. Infield drill was on the schedule for the first time, and the natives turned out in increased numbers to watch the big leaguers perform.

The day marked the first workout for Joe Kuhel, Joe Judge, Joe Cronin, Ossie Bluege, and Ralph Boyle, all of whom turned to with a will.

Kuhel at First In Drill.

It was a coincidence that Johnny Kerr was on third base from start to finish of the practice, because Bluege was through work and out of uniform before the bags were tacked down to the bases, but it was no coincidence that Kuhel and not Judge was at first base, for there are apparently well-defined plans here to establish Kuhel on the job.

Biloxi caught the end of the cold wave, and the athletes were confronted with the coldest day since their arrival here, more than two weeks ago, but a kindly sun burst through the clouds to temper the atmosphere, and by the time practice had ended, perspiration was flowing.

As Bobby Burke remarked, "After the team gets through practicing in Biloxi it ought to go away somewhere for a nice long rest."

The new arrivals lost no time in taking their turn at batting practice, and Judge, Kuhel, and Johnny Kerr sent long drives to the outfield, but Carl Reynolds provided the fireworks with several booming shots to the outer reaches, and the Nats' management noted the fact with undisguised pleasure. The big outfielder stepped into the ball with all of his 195 pounds and gave a convincing demonstration of the part he is expected to play when the 1932 campaign opens.

Rookies Throw Open Throttle.

The pitchers were under definite instructions to throw open the throttle this morning and they needed no urging. The rookies aiming for a chance in the opening game with Baltimore here on Sunday, zoomed the ball into the mitts of the catchers and coaches with great gusto as did Marberry and Crowder.

"Let up, there," Griffith cautioned Marberry. "I'm right," big Fred replied, and to prove his statement he slammed his overhead fast ones into the big mitt of Patsy Gharrity with a thud that was heard all over the park.

MACKS STOP CARDS BY 4 TO 2

A's Gain Series Lead in Errorless Game; Cochrane Hurt.

By ALAN GOULD.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 7 (A. P.).—The Athletics tossed a few more regulars into action today, including the king of the backstops, Mickey Cochrane, and they forthwith took the St. Louis Cardinals into camp, 4 to 2, in the third and by far the best played game of the spring exhibition "world series."

The victory gave the American League champions a two-to-one edge over the National League and world titleholders. The final game is scheduled in the Cardinals' camp at Bradenton March 16.

Today's errorless engagement was in sharp contrast to the free-scoring melee in Miami yesterday. The Athletics cinched the game in the first inning with a three-run attack on Southpaw Bud Teachout. The Cardinals scored two runs off Joe Bowman in the ninth.

They collected two singles off Roy Mahaffey in the first three innings and two more off Bowman.

Krausse Pitches Hitless Ball.

In between they were held hitless for three frames by Lew Krausse, the 19-year-old right-hander who looks to be by far the best of Connie Mack's young pitching prospects.

In the final inning, singles by Collins and Ford, a double by Delker and a long fly by Parham, pinch hitting for Gonzales, accounted for the two Cardinal markers.

Max Bishop started the game by drawing a pass and Mule Haas delivered the first of his three safe blows. Cochrane fanned, but Foxx hit a double down the third base line, scoring Bishop and Haas. Foxx trotted in on Ed Coleman's single to right.

Teachout escaped further trouble and his successor, Tex Carleton, blanked the A's for three innings. Ray Starr was in the box when the A's got their final run in the eighth on successive singles by Haas, Cochrane and Roettger.

Cochrane sprained his left wrist when he fell chasing a foul near the Athletics' bench. Although not serious, the injury will keep Mickey out of action for a few days.

Wooden, Purdue, Sets Big Ten Scoring Mark

Lafayette, Ind., March 7 (A.P.).—Johnny Wooden led his Purdue teammates, Big Ten basket ball champions, in a 53-to-18 victory over Chicago here tonight, and by scoring 21 points set a new Western Conference individual record of 154 points. The previous record was 147 points, scored by Branch McCracken, of Indiana, in 1930.

Roark, Injured Poloist, Has Brain Concussion

Del Monte, Calif., March 7 (A.P.).—Capt. C. T. I. "Fat" Roark, noted international polo player of Great Britain and one of the three ten-goal men in the world, suffered a severe brain concussion in an accident yesterday in the finals of the Pacific Coast open polo championship. The nature of the injury was announced today by Dr. Mast Wolfson, of Monterey.

Roark's horse fell and rolled over him. He passed a good night but his condition is far from satisfactory. Dr. Wolfson thinks Roark's life is not in danger.

BACCIOCCO SHOWS WAY HOME IN TROPICAL PARK FEATURE

Split Choice 1½ Lengths Victor

Click Second, With Fair Jack Getting Show Money.

Stambul, Druggist Reward Backers of Field.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 7 (A.P.).—Bacciocco, a gelding which runs his best races over this track, returned to winning form in the Tallahassee Claiming Purse of 5½ furlongs here this afternoon. Under energetic handling by Rank Mills, Harry Rosacher's sprinter easily repelled the challenge of Click, a recent arrival from New Orleans, a length and a half separating the pair as they sped past the judges. Fair Jack, split favorite with Bacciocco, was beaten by three lengths for the place. Bacciocco was a 2-to-1 shot in the betting and ran the distance in 1:05 3-5.

Click carried 117 pounds, 5 more than the winner. Sudden chilly weather prevailed but a large crowd was on hand for the sport. Mills sent the speedy Bacciocco to the front immediately after the start and the High Time gelding opened up a substantial lead.

Click rushed up to provide the strongest contention, saving ground and meeting with no mishap. Fair Jack was close up and ready to strike but the leader never showed any intention of stopping and as Mills rode him out his superiority was apparent. Anthony Wayne was in the battle until he ran out turning into the stretch.

Two Field Horses Score.

Field players cashed in on two races. They were victorious in the juvenile opener when Stambul led practically all the way in the first half-mile test of the Florida season for 2-year-olds. The gelding scored by a length and a half, and returned $19.00 for $2, completing the trip in 0:48 3-5. Hildur Rock was another length and a half before Woco. Stambul got away well and sprinted right to the front. Hildur Rock finished well, but Stambul was in hand. A poor start deprived Laga, Pantaloons and Fortnight of much chance.

Druggist was the other field horse to score. He ran as if inspired in the mile and a sixteenth of the fifth race. The son of War Cry returned $18.60 and won by a length. Vacation took the place from Our Pal by a half length. Timour showed the way by an apparently safe margin to the lead of the stretch, where Druggist, always a forward contender, came around the leaders and forged to the front. Vacation and Our Pal, outrun early, both closed a lot of ground in the last two furlongs. Timour dropped back to fourth.

Bill Orange Wins Again At New Orleans.

New Orleans, March 7 (A.P.).—E. E. Major's Bill Orange, which spreadeagled his field the last time out, came back today to get a nose decision over M. F. Dollar, jr.'s Sergt. Donaldson in the Rainbow Purse at the Fair Grounds.

True to his style of racing, Sergt. Donaldson set out to run his rivals in the ground, leading by three lengths going into the stretch, but also true to many of his former races, Sergt. Donaldson stopped and Jockey Tilden, up on Bill Orange, was quick to take advantage of the chance. F. M. Miller's Best Ace was third.

Dixie 175-pound title in a bout with Joe Knight, six weeks ago, and who fought a draw with Maxey Rosenbloom, world's light heavyweight champion, needs a victory tonight in order to protect his chances of securing a match in Madison Square Garden with Billy Jones, the N. B. A. light heavy titleholder.

It is the most important bout in Barry's young life. The good that will come from a triumph over a boxer of Godwin's standing is obvious. And Barry is fully alive to the opportunity confronting him.

Both fighters, or rather, the rival managers, issued confident statements last night. Pa Godwin, who does the business for the Floridian, declared: "Bob has nothing to worry about. He's beaten Barry before and should repeat." On behalf of Barry, Patsy Donovan stated: "Reds is gonna outpunch Godwin this time. He discovered too late in their last fight that he can do that little thing. Also, Reds is in the best shape of his career."

The weights show a wide difference, favoring Barry by about 20 pounds. Though the exact figures were not revealed last night, it is expected that Barry will scale approximately 190 pounds, while his opponent will tip the beam close to 170.

Godwin Harder Puncher Than Barry.

Godwin is the harder puncher, judging from past performances, and is more experienced. He is quick to follow up an advantage. But, according to Donovan, Barry tonight will display a sharper attack than he ever has before. In the past, Barry has demonstrated more speed than power.

While a knockout finish is not to be expected in the main bout, the semifinal between Bob Turner and Henry Irving, middleweights, is more than likely to end suddenly. Both of these boys pack terrific right-hand wallops. Turner, who hails from Newport News, holds two victories over Walter Kirkwood, who recently decisioned Irving. The latter has been trying lately to develop an effective left-hand to support his well-known right.

The preliminaries offer: George Ezrick, Baltimore, vs Billy Essinger, Washington; Young Van, Washington, vs. Fighting Dick, Charlotte, N. C.; Pete Powell, Norfolk, vs. Tommy Horn, Baltimore, and Billy Reed, Washington, vs. Bob Portna, Naval Air Station.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STAMBUL (field), $19.00, $9.00, $6.30; HILDUR ROCK, $8.60, $7.40; WOCO, $5.50.

STAMBUL broke forwardly and drew away rounding far turn, had his field soundly beaten swinging into home stretch. HILDUR ROCK was hard ridden all last furlong to stall off WOCO. He broke slowly and raced around rounding the far turn. WOCO outgamed TOYTOWN in final drive. GLADYS S. was shuffled about at top of home stretch. LAGA, PANTALOON and FORTNIGHT broke flatfooted.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:01½. Off at 3:02. Winner, W. L. Johnson's b. g. (5), by Whiskaway—Grace Minard. Trained by L. W. Johnson. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:47 1-5, 1:13.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WHILEAWAY, $4.60, $2.90, $2.70; EVEN UP, $3.90, $3.50; ESTIN, $3.40.

WHILEAWAY, forced to overcome lot of early interference, was blocked couple of times by EVEN UP and was finally taken to outside in stretch run. He closed full of courage and, wearing down the tiring leaders, was up last ten yards. EVEN UP hung when put to a drive. He just lasted long enough to stall off ESTIN. Latter worked his passage up on inside and slipped through next the rail entering home stretch. PATRICK CALLAHAN, moved up forcing the pace, tired.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:30½. Off at 3:35. Winner, E. J. Reed's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARNELL BOUND, $3.30, $2.50, $2.40; BROOKSIE, $3.80, $2.80; HARRY HIEOVER, $2.80.

PARNELL BOUND went to the front soon after the break and opened up an easy lead. Robertson had him under slight restraint until final furlong. BROOKSIE came through on inside in stretch turn and was up in final stride to beat HARRY HIEOVER. Latter made a wide turn into home stretch, where he lost ground. JILLION was going strong at end.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:02. Off at 4:03. Winner, H. Roseacher's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BACCIOCCO, $6.00, $3.50, $2.40; CLICK, $4.50, $3.10; FAIR JACK, $2.40.

BACCIOCCO went to the front with a rush after getting settled on his stride, raced in hand to stretch turn and need something left to stall off CLICK. Latter forced the pace all the way, but was never able to get to the winner. FAIR JACK, in hand first three furlongs, failed to respond when called on. ANTHONY WAYNE moved up stoutly rounding far turn, but made very wide turn entering home stretch and was eased up.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:29. Winner, L. J. Sandrock's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DRUGGIST, $18.60, $5.30, $3.60; VACATION, $4.20, $3.30; OUR PAL, $13.90.

DRUGGIST, outrun first half, moved up with a rush on outside of leaders rounding far turn and, easily disposing of opposition in home stretch, drew away without effort. VACATION worked his way up on outside, made a wide turn into home stretch and closed with a rush out in middle of track. OUR PAL saved ground entering home stretch. TIMOUR broke rapidly and showed lot of speed for six furlongs, but tired badly when challenged. VALOUR II used up following the pace.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:02. Off at 5:04. Winner, Mrs. M. Eckman's ch. g. *Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STARBOARD LIGHT, $22.10, $11.20, $6.60; PLEASE, $2.90, $2.70; SUN SHADOW, $3.70.

STARBOARD LIGHT, slow to begin, steadily improved his position, came through on inside and, closing with a rush, outgamed PLEASE in final drive. PLEASE had lot taken out of her racing BOSAFABO and SUN SHADOW into submission. She hung when put to a drive. SUN SHADOW pinned his ears back when put to a drive and appeared to sulk. COADY, in close quarters most of the journey, was sharply cut off when he attempted to squeeze through next to the inside rail rounding the far turn.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:32. Off at 5:37½. Winner, G. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—IRON CZAR, $14.50, $6.00, $3.50; ULTRAMARINE, $15.10, $7.10; SINGLE KAY, $5.20.

IRON CZAR, getting off well and showing more early speed than usual, was rated close to pace and, saving ground at turn into stretch, took lead and held advantage gamely under powerful urging. ULTRAMARINE ran LAPIDARY into defeat, took daylight lead, but went wide at stretch turn, which probably cost her the race. SINGLE KAY, outrun early, closed steadily. WINNIE C. and JUNGLE BOY got off behind the field and closed immense gaps.

—Tropical Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

TROPICAL PARK, Miami, Fla., March 7.—MORROCO which set a track record at Tropical Park last week, should win back in the fourth race tomorrow, the best number on a program of claiming contests at the Gables Association course. GRIFFITH, a consistent plater, was third to Partisan in his last appearance, and should be the contender. PLUTARCH won his last out and should hold the show money against TOREALON.

FIRST RACE—BOB BLACKBIRD has early speed and looks best. He turned in a good race the last time out, finishing second to The Heathen in a fast 6 furlongs, with Sun Teatime behind. MORDEN was fourth in the same race, and should be thte cotender in this. HARUM SCARUM did not run to his best form in recent starts, but has a chance for third. The field does not call for much.

SECOND RACE—TUSKEGEE, a beaten favorite, third to Highest Point last week, lays over the field, and all that is necessary is for him to run the same race as his last to coast home. BLACK WATCH, rested and freshened up since the first week at Hialeah, will be a keen contender, and should be no worse than second. TALKY is regarded as a sleeper and this is not a good place to wake up in, but should finish in the money.

THIRD RACE—PRINCETON should win the third. He was favorite over Dedicate last week, but tired before reaching the stretch. He finished third. This horse should canter in front in this dash. PASS IN REVIEW showed speed the other day and should not miss the place. TIGER PRINCE, third to Tantalizing, will find little difficulty in getting third.

FIFTH RACE—COMMON should win the fifth. He was second to Zevar Saturday, beaten a neck in 1:06 1-5. This appears to be his day. The horse has been gradually coming around to form. LINE OF FIRE appears to be the logical contender. His last race was off. ZEGORA appears best of the others, and was third to Bill Southam last out.

SIXTH RACE—DUNNELLEN'S last race was good enough to warrant his selection to win. With weight off and going a mile, he should score. DRESS SHIP on his best races would be an dangerous contender, but he runs too many bad races to be relied upon. CORBEAU was a contender against Ben Blair and should get in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—PRINCE TOY has the edge on the ordinary field in the seventh. He was third to Chicusu last out and will have no such horses to beat in this mile. CHICAGO GIRL and BIG BO may finish second and third in the order named. The filly ran well at Hialeah.

COUNTY FIVE VICTOR IN SERIES

Annapolis High Bows to Takoma-Silver Spring, 44-17.

TAKOMA-SILVER SPRING, champion of the Montgomery County League, successfully cleared its first hurdle in the Maryland State High School basket ball series yesterday, defeating the smaller Annapolis High five, 44 to 17, in Ritchie Coliseum.

Led by Bozievich and Lizear, the Takoma tossers took an early lead and never were headed. Their advantage in weight and height stood them in good stead throughout. The score at intermission was 21 to 7.

O. Miller was best for Annapolis.

POJELLO-BARTUSH WIN MAT MATCHES

on one occasion, shoved Rudy halfway across the ring, following this by sticking his serious face right under the Hungarian's nose and shaking a mean finger of warning.

Bartush absorbed plenty of punishment prior to dispatching Texis with a loud body slam. Texis tortured the former Chicago University athlete for fully 10 minutes with a toe hold. Like Laditzi, the Greek, resorted to tactics that drew the referee's ire, such as biting and choking and kneeing in forbidden precincts. When Billy broke the toe hold the fingerbiting lady in the first row heaved a sigh of relief, which was much more eloquent than the relaxation shown in Billy's features.

The real villain of the evening, however, was stract, who went Laditzi and Texis one better by directing some of his attack at Referee Harry Child as well as his opponent, Harben. Child found himself pinioned between the arms of Stract during one hectic moment in the corner, but managed to extricate himself just as some of the ringsiders started to jump in to help him. Harben suffered such indelicacies as hair-pulling and biting, but did not yield until Stract tossed him with a body slam after 18 minutes 30 seconds.

Cordovano treated the fans to an exhibition of his football flying tackles, but Winters managed to weather the assault. The former Hilltopper once missed his mark and landed on the concr

PRICCI'S FEAT OUTSTANDING

434 Nearest By District Pinmen

Chapin and Campbell Tied for Previous High Set.

Pricci First to Better It in League Play; Tops by 63 Pins.

AFTER hearing that Joe Pricci had shattered the three-game record with a score of 497 at the Recreation alleys last week, the good Dr. Len Collins hurried home and burned several quarts of midnight oil, poring over his own patented record book, endeavoring to dig up some matter on the subject of three-game records which might be of interest to those for whom bowling is their chief diversion.

One item of interest which attracted Len's attention is that no member of the District or National Capital Leagues, considered the city's major loops, has ever exceeded the 434 set rolled by Ray Chapin on February 23, 1917. Ray was anchor man on the old Continentals. He made his record in a match with the Garrisons, rolling 143, 143 and 148.

Campbell Rolls 434 Set In 1926-27.

Howard Campbell equaled the feat as a member of the King Pins during the 1926-27 campaign, but it has never been surpassed. On March 12, 1917, Chapin rolled another 434 set with the Columbia team. His games on this occasion were 160, 137, 137. The Southeast Stars were the Columbians' opponents. Harry Krauss came within a pin of tying Chapin's record two week after it was made with a score of 433.

Many members of the two ranking leagues have exceeded this score, but never when competing in matches of either loop. Paul Harrison rolled 441 in the Columbia Heights circuit, Earl McAleer toppled 436 pins in the Building Contractors League and, of course, Pricci hung up the new mark while competing in the Recreation League. Campbell has come closest to breaking the record, although Kenny Thorpe rolled 433 only a month ago, and Ollie Pacini and Carrol Daly have registered like scores in the National Capital League. Last year Joe Harrison rolled 433 for Northeast Temple in the District League.

Larger Ball, Smaller Pins In Use.

Many observers are wont to drag into the discussion the fact that Chapin used a 5¼-inch ball, instead of the 5-inch ball used today, in hanging up his mark. But, as Collins points out, this advantage was offset by the fact that he was shooting at pins one-eighth of an inch less in diameter than those of today. In addition, he rolled on alleys with square gutters 3½ inches deep.

Chestnut Farms has a couple of locks, and the keys to both, on the safe holding the King Pin Business Men's League title. The second lock was added last night in the form of a 3-to-0 win over the First Americans. Bill Royal's regal pin spilling accounted for high game of the evening, 132. Herbie Kaschub (no relation to the Heinz people) tied with Al Woods for the set prize at 352. Herbie is rapidly winning a reputation as a first class pin wreckers. Heck Annex took the odd one from Hokie Smith's own King Pin team, and National Lithograph was one up on the Nationals in the other matches.

Harry Dixon and Jack Farrell, two of the boys who have been around the mapleways for quite a while, stole the show in the Men's Agricultural loop at Columbia last night. Harry smacked 375 bottles right on the schnozzle for the set honors, and Jack pushed over 149 for high game. Horticulture hogged the team honors, rolling a game of 612 and set of 1,665 to cop the odd game from Grain. Crop Estimate was a 2-1 victor over Farm Management. The other matches were postponed.

Fares Well in Florida Events.

For several seasons Miss Orcutt has turned in fine performances in Florida, winning at least one event every year.

She now is in Augusta, Ga., where she and Miss Hicks probably will play in the invitation tournament starting there next week, which Miss Hicks won last year with Miss Orcutt as runner-up.

Later the Englewood star, who is one of the longest drivers among the feminine players, will defend her North and South diadem at Pinehurst, N. C. She beat Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, last year after eliminating Miss Van Wie in the semifinals.

The men who uphold the honor of Messrs. Proctor and Faulconer in Section I of the North of Washington League rate a raise in salary after the way they acquitted themselves at Silver Spring alleys. In addition to winning the deciding game from Silver Spring Laundry, they bagged team honors with a game of 621 and set of 1,686. Howitzer Giants and Old-Timers were odd-game victors over F. G. P. and Shade Factory, and Kensington and Service Company whitewashed L. E. Breuninger and Acme Sheet Metal. Howard Bailey's 148 game and Joe Saunders' 391 set were prizeworthy.

Hot scores prevailed at Lucky Strike despite the cold weather. In the General Counsel circuit Mattson clipped the maples for a 134 game and 396 set, while the Yankees bumped off a game of 560 and 1,570 total for three.

Helen Viehmeyer's 122 game and set of 324 overcame all opposition in the Eastern Star Ladies loop at the Strike. We thought our favorite bootlegger had double-crossed us when the Columbia Team's scores came in. The ladies rolled 456, 456, 456, and won all three from Acacia. Oh, Mr. Hix! Joseph Milands took the set honors with its 1,393, and Brookland cashed in on its 490 game.

With Sherbahn showing the way, Takoma Park shut out Judd & Detweiler in a National Capital League match at Lucky Strike. The winners rolled 543, 554 and 536 to their opponents' 535, 526 and 510. Sweeney's 336 and 120 were high for the Printers.

Sammy Simons rocked the pins for a 170-game to hang up a new record in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia. He finished with a 402 set. Sammy has been shooting at the ducks for a long time but this is the first time he ever reached the heights. G. P. O. took the team honors with 890 and 1,806.

MISS ORCUTT TOPS IN FLORIDA

Has Won Two Major Events, Beating Miss Hicks Once.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7 (A.P.).—Hard-hitting Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J.—always a threat but never a winner in the national championship—has again won top honors in Florida's winter golfing season.

The New Jersey miss has twice won prominent tournaments in which the American title holder, young Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, Long Island, was entered, once defeating Miss Hicks in the finals of the Florida woman's championship at Palm Beach 1 up in 19 holes.

Beat Mrs. Lake 5 and 4.

Her most recent triumph came at St. Augustine, where she downed Mrs R. C. Lake, who as Marion Turpie, of New Orleans, won the Southern and transmissisippi championships. The score was 5 and 4.

Despite the handicap of a rain-swept course, Miss Orcutt fired a 39 against Mrs. Lake on the out nine and then finished the necessary five holes on the home stretch in one under fours. Mrs. Lake was also playing a strong game, showing a 41 for the first nine and finishing two over fours.

Miss Orcutt really played her best golf of the winter in the semifinals of this event when she defeated Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, 5 and 3. She shot even men's par of 72 over this snappy layout to establish a woman's record, two strokes under the former mark held by Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, five times national champion.

In her only match with Miss Hicks, the finals at Palm Beach, Miss Orcutt was one down going to the eighteenth but won this hole and then the nineteenth to capture the crown.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 7 (A.P.).—P. D. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, and Jack Kloza, a rookie outfielder from Milwaukee, joined the Browns' training camp group today. The squad was sent for a long workout while Ball sat on the sidelines listening to Manager Bill Friel's yarns.

Goose Goslin, who arrived yesterday, has not signed his contract yet, but both sides seem receptive, and players expect him to be in uniform in a day or two.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7 (A.P.). The New York Yankees' heavy artillery sharpened up batting eyes against the pitching of Ruffing, Rhodes, Wells, Brown, Murphy, and Nekola for two hours today as the feature of one of the longest workouts Joe McCarthy so far has scheduled.

Los Angeles, March 7 (A.P.).—Bill Terry may have been a trifle late getting to the New York Giants' training camp, but he's in great shape just the same. In fielding practice today the big first baseman was throwing and fielding as if he'd been here for two weeks instead of two days.

San Francisco, March 7 (A.P.).—Two veterans and a newcomer have been selected for pitching assignments when the Detroit Tigers open their exhibition season tomorrow against the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League. Manager Bucky Harris designated Arthur Herring to start, with Elon Hogsett and the rookie Luke Hamlin as reliefs.

The Tigers arrived here today from their Palo Alto training camp and will remain until March 18. The 22 players in the squad appeared eager to start the preseason play.

Santa Catalina Island, Calif., March 7 (A.P.).—Having had a look at what the younger pitching aspirants can do, in two games against the New York Giants, Manager Rogers Hornsby today began to bear down on his veteran Cub hurlers.

Pat Malone is farthest advanced in condition, but Charlie Root, Guy Bush, Bob Smith, Burleigh Grimes and Lester Sweetland need more work, and started getting it today.

Savannah, Ga., March 7 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox regulars arrived in camp today, but most of them decided that it was much too cold for baseball and they put on their initial workout in the hotel lobby.

San Antonio, Tex., March 7 (A.P.). Batting and fielding practice featured the workout of the Chicago White Sox here today.

Manager Lew Fonseca practiced with the second team at first base and batted with the first and second teams. Bruce Campbell, husky outfielder from Little Rock, who failed to make the grade last spring at Dallas, received Fonseca's special attention.

RETURN BOUT FOR LEWIS, ROEBUCK

Mat Rivals and Burns Try Again Thursday at Auditorium.

"STRANGLER" LEWIS, the first gentleman to go in for necking in wrestling on a large scale, will assist Tiny Roebuck, the Indian of mountainous proportions, Thursday night reproducing that sensational "Battle of the Auditorium," the original of which was staged last month.

In that memorable match "Cyclone" Burns, dean of the mat referee hereabouts, was dazed by a backward leap, which was interrupted when his bald pate collided with the floor, in order to avoid the swinging feet of one of the gladiators. While Mr. Burns was coming to, Roebuck is reported to have pinned Lewis' shoulders to the carpet. By the time the referee had recovered his bearings the grapplers were occupying reversed positions and the three pats were accordingly bestowed on the glistening back of the "Strangler." The unhappy ending of the match has the fans on edge for the second meeting, which, it is hoped, will settle the issue.

Sammy Stein is slated to meet George Hagen, former Marine champion, in the semiwindup. Stein has been booked twice before, but failed to arrive. Sandor Szabo should find the going plenty tough against George Manish, a Kansas City importation. Fred Grobmeier, who has accumulated a large local following, tackles Jack Hurley, a Butte cowboy. Paul Favre will try conclusions with Fritz Kley, the human slippery elm.

As an extra added attraction, Jim McNamara will wrestle Bull Olsen. Jim is a pretty good example of the prophet scorned in his own country. Up around Boston he is a huge favorite, and woe to any ambitious muscle strainer who throws him.

Ladies with escorts will be admitted free.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

IT HAS been a tough season on the bowling alley operators. Nature spent most of its time in revamping Washington into a southern playground when the snow should have been piled several feet high around the doorstep. Gentle Southern breezes wafted lightly over the city in the stead of good old-fashioned blizzard winds.

The mercury spent most of its time hanging around the high 70s and in the 80s instead of keeping company with the 20s and 30s where it really belonged. In other words, it was quite warm, in fact a little too warm to pack them into the alleys.

The shoe is now on the other foot. The first snow the natives have seen in a long time has every one hugging the fireplace. It is freezing outside and consequently too cold to back "Liz" out of the barn for a jaunt to the alleys, and they are well nigh deserted. Too hot, too cold. The alley managers take it on the chin either way.

Langdon's 571 game and Pheonix's 1,598 set took the cake in the Odd Fellows loop at Convention Hall. H. Viehmeyer copped the individual laurels with his 145 game and 369 set.

Earl McPhilomy hung up a new season's set record in the Typothetae League at the same alleys, tumbling 416 sticks. His high game, 161, was high. Big Print Shop had big scores for the evening, a 574 game and 1,685.

In another National Capital League fracas contested at the same place, Ed Farnan personally attended to his team's three-game win over Young and Simon by rolling a 370 set. Al Works helped out with his 135 game. Parks' 123 and 349 scores were best for the losers, who rolled 553, 535 and 544. The shoe dealers patted the pins for games of 581, 593 and 609.

Pete Gianaris and Andy Panos took top honors in the Ahepa League at Convention Hall. Pete rolled a game of 143 and Andy compiled a three-game score of 372. Aristotle took the team game prize with 569, and Pericles earned a little extra cash with its 1,575.

Two new season's records were established in the Merchant's League at the Hall. Bachman hung up a new individual set mark with his score of 416, and W. R. Winslow added to the team set score with 1,744. Both also turned in high games, Bachman, 162, and the team 602.

The La Billes turned in a 545 game and 1,547 set to garner the team honors in the Sanico League at Convention Hall. Reid's 136 game and Douglas' 356 set earned the individual laurels.

Sailor McKenna Wins Baltimore Ring Bout

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 7.—A fair sized crowd turned out tonight as the first effort of the Frush Athletic Club was staged at Carlin's with a minimum price scale and a bargain program of ten bouts.

In one of the two featured matches, Sailor McKenna, of Washington, gained the decision over Charley Thompson after six rounds of hard fighting. The battle was one of the best on the program, with the spectators agreeing that the sailor was entitled to the verdict.

Beckett Again Heads D. C. Court Officials

C. Edward Beckett was reelected president of the Approved Basket Ball Officials Association of the District last night at the annual banquet at the Racquet Club. It was the eleventh time the veteran arbiter has been honored.

John R. Daily was elected vice president, and Frank Summer, jr., and George F. Harbin were reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Eddie Ran Knocks Out Goldman in 45 Seconds

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—Eddie Ran, Polish welterweight, knocked out Marty Goldman, of New York, in 45 seconds of the first round of their ten-round match at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Billy Townsend, Vancouver welterweight, was awarded the decision over Frankie Petrolle, of Fargo, N. Dak., after ten closely fought rounds. The crowd booed the decision, evidently believing Petrolle was entitled to nothing worse than a draw.

The Midwestern veteran, brother of Billy Petrolle, traded punches with Townsend all the way and each was in difficulties in nearly every round of the slam-bang bout. There were no knockdowns. Townsend weighed 144½ pounds; Petrolle, 144¾.

HURLEY LAUDS WORK OF NATIONAL GUARD

"As Secretary of War I recognize the National Guard in its rightful place in the first-line defense of our country," declared Secretary Patrick Hurley yesterday, addressing the opening sessions of the annual convention of the Adjutants General of the National Guard, now being held here.

"Never has the United States depended for its defense upon a large standing army. It has always relied upon the willingness of its patriotic citizens to answer the call of their country in time of national emergency," the Secretary said.

Other speakers on the conference program include the chief of the Militia Bureau, Maj. Gen. George E. Leach, Col. William H. Waldron, executive officer of the Militia Bureau, and Col. Harry C. Kramer, chairman of the joint Army and Navy Selective Service System.

Among the matters which the officers will discuss at the conference is the proposed memorial to the World War dead of the National Guard. Gen. Leach noted recently that there has never been a memorial erected commemorating the World War achievements of the National Guard.

A recent guard convention in New York adopted a resolution urging the erection of such a memorial, and it is expected that the adjutants general will also go on record as favoring it.

Today the officers will go to the Army and Navy Country Club for a luncheon, to be given by Gen. Leach. Brig. Gen. Ralph M. Immel, of Wisconsin, is the president of the association. The convention will continue today and tomorrow. Lieut. Col. John S. Upham is representing the District Guard.

Caroline Jackson Wins Baby Trophy

Connecticut Avenue Infant Held Most Popular at United Food Show.

A baby popularity contest yesterday afternoon for infants up to 6 months old, which was won by 4-month-old Caroline Cynthia Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jackson, of 4510 Connecticut avenue, marked the second day's program of the United Food Stores Exposition at the Washington Auditorium, Nineteenth and E streets.

Chosen from a group of ten participants in the contest, Caroline was awarded a silver loving cup as a prize. This afternoon a baby competition will be limited to infants between 6 months and 1 year old, while tomorrow babies between 1 year and 18 months old will be eligible.

An adult twin contest, with prizes for both the most alike and the least alike, will feature the program tonight.

Last night a handsome electric refrigerator was awarded.

In spite of the unfavorable weather, several thousand visitors attended the show yesterday. It is open each day from 2 to 5 o'clock and from 7:30 to 10:30 each night.

House Body Votes Postal Raise Bills

Boosts in Delivery and Money Order Fees Are Part of Proposals.

(Associated Press.)

The House postoffice committee yesterday favorably reported a series of bills to raise postal rates. A complete new schedule on registration fees with small raises in all categories was included in a bill by Representative Kendall (Republican), Pennsylvania, estimated to add $7,000,000 annually.

A new schedule on money orders with small raises in individual rates was called for in a bill by Chairman Meade, which was expected to bring in an added $1,500,000 annually. Representative Kelly (Republican), Pennsylvania, was author of a bill to bring in $2,455,000 annual revenue by changes in the cash on delivery service schedules.

Representative Cary (Democrat), Kentucky, sponsored a measure to increase postal revenues $4,000,000 by prohibiting commercial concerns from putting in letter boxes mail matter without postage.

Izaak Walton Body To Meet Thursday

Delegates From Maryland and District to Talk Over Problems.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 7—Problems of stream pollution, game protection and restocking American rivers with game fish will be taken up in detail here Thursday, as the Izaak Walton League Chapters of Maryland and the District of Columbia, known as the Regional Council of Maryland and the District of Columbia, meet in annual convention.

Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet, and Commissioner Henry O'Malley, of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, and Paul Reddington, chief of the United States Biological Survey, also are listed for addresses. Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, member of the Senate committee on wild life conservation, will attend the convention.

The conservation department of Maryland will assist the convention committee in bringing together all outstanding conservationists and mapping a program to secure legislative enactments at the next Maryland Assembly to close the markets of the state to the sale of black bass. Members will be guests of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club Friday.

"After buying all this, it leaves me with less than a dollar, but I've got a date every night till Saturday."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE MATTER OF "RINGERS."

THE SPORTING world has been stirred by the discovery that a horse which raced at a Southern track a few days ago as "Gailmont," was another horse painted and dyed to look like that thoroughbred. The amazement is increased by the discovery that the same "ringer" had been raced at other tracks, and the boast of one of the owners that repeated killings had been made by racketeers using "painted" horses.

• • • •

This should constitute fair warning to the general public. The country appears in the grip of racketeers who are very handy with the paint pot, and we may hear any day now that the man training as Babe Ruth with the Yankees is not really Babe Ruth but "Fatty" Arbuckle made up to look like the Bambino.

• • • •

ALBANY, N. Y.—The stewards are reported investigating a report that the Franklin L. Roosevelt who appointed a Tammany district leader sheriff to replace Sheriff Farley is a "ringer." It is said that this Roosevelt differs from the generally accepted Roosevelt in many characteristics. A report that the Roosevelt who figured in the Farley case is Casper Milquetoast is persistent and is being investigated.

• • • •

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Official circles were stirred to the depths today by an allegation that Herbert Hoover had never been President of the United States. According to the sensational charges, Herbert Clark Hoover, who endeared himself to the people as Belgian Relief Commissioner, is still in Europe. The man who has been acting as President is said to be much lighter than the real Hoover and to have an entirely different gait under pressure.

An investigation is being made.

• • • •

NEW YORK—Both Alfred E. Smith and Alfalfa Bill Murray, of the 1932 presidential race, are "ringers," according to charges filed with the National Democratic Club in this city today. The allegations say:

"If you will take Al Smith and wash him in gasoline you will see that he is a man named Gus who has been dyed to look like the former governor.

"The genuine Alfalfa Bill Murray is still in South America, where he was seen only six weeks ago. The Alfalfa Bill now making a campaign for the nomination is really Chic Sale in one of his many disguises. You wash him up and see for yourself."

• • • •

SHANGHAI, China.—Admiral Kichisaburo Nomuro, in command of the Japanese naval forces, was ruled off the sea today, following a discovery that he was Smedley Butler, former United States Marine. The deception was discovered when all the yellow paint ran off Mr. Butler during the heat of battle.

AS A DUFFER SEES IT.

JOE KIRKWOOD made an 83 at Belleair recently using only a putter. He presumably didn't go on and play the other seventeen holes.

• • • •

Smedley Butler will run for a seat in the Senate. If elected this will mark one of the few occasions when a Marine has taken a backward step.

• • • •

Nobody appears to have thought of the slogan "All the stocks you can eat for 60 cents!"

• • • •

An American architect shares with two Russians the first prize for designing a Palace of the Soviets. Here's hoping he included an indoor rowing tank for the Volga boatmen.

UNEXPECTED.

Ma Coolidge comes out against being too careful with money, thus destroying one of America's fondest illusions.

• • • •

Japan has made a big gain through the Chinese line, but she is still a little afraid that China is yet to call on the varsity eleven.

WHEELAN SERIAL
ROSE OF THE CITY
EPISODE 8
WARREN WRIGHT, THE ARTIST, CONTINUED HIS DESCRIPTION OF THE PICTURE HE WANTED TO PAINT BUT BOB WISE, THE VAUDEVILLE ACTOR, AGAIN INTERRUPTED HIM
WARREN, I THINK ONE REASON WHY YOU'RE HAVING SUCH A HARD TIME FINDING THE RIGHT MODEL IS THAT YOU DON'T GET AROUND ENOUGH!
YOU STAY HERE IN YOUR STUDIO TOO MUCH. YOU OUGHT TO GO TO THE THEATRE MORE AND TO NIGHT CLUBS AND RESTAURANTS, — PLACES WHERE BEAUTIFUL WOMEN CONGREGATE!!
HOW DO YOU EXPECT TO FIND YOUR IDEAL MODEL IF YOU DON'T SEARCH FOR HER?!
LISTEN, BOB, I'VE SEARCHED FOR HER. DON'T THINK I HAVEN'T!
BUT ALL OF THE WOMEN AND GIRLS I SEE, NO MATTER HOW BEAUTIFUL, — THEY LOOK SO SOPHISTICATED. THE CITY HAS DISILLUSIONED THEM, — CRUSHED SOMETHING IN THEM!!
OH, "BOLONEY"! SAY, LISTEN, KID, PUT ON YOUR HAT AND COAT AND COME WITH ME!
I TOLD A DANCER FRIEND OF MINE AT THE "CLUB CERISE" THAT I'D DROP IN TO-NIGHT FOR A FEW MINUTES. I'LL SHOW YOU A GAL THAT ISN'T "CRUSHED" AND A CHORUS THAT'LL KNOCK YOUR EYE OUT!!
WARREN RATHER RELUCTANTLY AGREED TO GO AND TOGETHER THE TWO LEFT THE HOUSE
WE'LL GRAB THE "L". IT TAKES US WITHIN A BLOCK OF THE CLUB!
FANS, DON'T MISS TO-MORROW'S EPISODE!!

CREDIT MEN REPORT FEBRUARY TRENDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Members of the Washington Association of Credit Men have been informed by national headquarters in New York that "marking time" tactics were prevalent in business during February, reflecting a "watchful waiting" policy on the part of business management until proposed Federal reconstruction measures are disposed of. This was evidenced in the monthly survey of collections and sales conditions.

Definite formation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the passage of the Glass-Steagall bill for the release of additional currency on the revised credit base are expected to have a definitely favorable effect on the general situation in the next few months. This is the general consensus of comments received from correspondents in 109 of the leading trade centers of the United States which were surveyed.

For the second consecutive month the larger percentage of the cities reporting found sales and collections to be in the "slow" column. As in the previous survey, two cities reported collections as good, while one noted sales to be in that category.

Worcester, Mass., was the only city to hold its favorable position as recorded the month before, being present in the "good" collection column again this month, along with Fort Worth, Tex. Texas also was honored with the lone city in the country to report good sales during the past month, Wichita Falls achieving that distinction.

Railways Become Hopeful.

The railroad industry is ready to emerge from the throes of the traffic and earnings decline which has characterized more than two years of operations, says the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, in a comprehensive analysis of traffic problems confronting the railroads which has just been issued.

The survey says in part: "It is unlikely that anything like so-called normal will be obtained before another two years, at the earliest, but corrective forces are now at work, and a gradual recovery in railroad traffic and earnings is in the making.

Dividend Is Suspended.

Following the meeting of directors of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., at which the board suspended dividend payments on the outstanding preference stock, preliminary figures were made public covering operations for the year 1931.

The statement showed consolidated earnings of $3,260,683 for the year, equal to 2.81 times annual interest charges on the outstanding debentures leaving net earnings of $1,757,882 after all charges and taxes, and available for dividends.

The latter, after payment of the regular dividend of $3.50 a share on the preference stock, was equal to 24 cents a share earned on the 1,074,734 shares of common stock outstanding at the close of 1931.

Neisner Brothers' Sales.

Neisner Brothers reports total sales of $909,796 for February, 1932, against $943,531 for February, 1931, a decrease of 3½ per cent. Sales for the first two months of the year aggregate $1,751,888 against $1,978,915 for the same period last year, a decline of 11.4 per cent.

G. C. Murphy Co., reports total sales of $1,221,402 for February 1932, against $1,204,188 for February 1931, an increase of 1.4 per cent. Sales for the first two months of 1932 aggregated $2,332,195 against $2,425,502 for the same period last year, a decrease of 3.8 per cent.

Short Account on Exchange Reduced a Million Shares

Dealers Pleasantly Surprised at Small Figure Since Statement Early in February Showed Total of 4,000,000 on List.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—The speculative fraternity appears to have been pleasantly surprised by the stock exchange figures on the short position which came out over the week-end. It had been prepared to find the total short account outstanding at the end of February much smaller than that actually reported.

It was revealed that the short account showed a tendency toward expansion through the early part of February getting close to the 4,000,000 share figure on February 11. But in the week or so following that time, when the Glass-Steagall measure came to the surface, and the stock exchange moved to tighten rules governing member activities in the loan market, heavy covering was in order cutting the total about a million shares by February 24.

Slight expansion was the rule again in the last few days of the month, but the consensus is that the short position at the moment is probably considerably smaller than at the beginning of business on March 1.

Close observers reported signs of increasing nervousness in the ranks of shorts in Case Threshing Machine and were disposed to ascribe recurrence demand for the stock, which asserted itself in the course of the day, chiefly to buying for the short account.

On the basis of its last financial statement, Case is selling for the equivalent of about 42 per cent of its current assets. However, slightly more than 62 per cent of total current assets of $37,082,000 is represented by $22,910,000 receivables and an added 35 per cent by inventories totaling $13,048,000.

The rate of conversion of such receivables into cash would appear to depend on the pace of collections; and with the farming community doing none too well now, or in recent months, it would seem the process must continue slow.

Japanese Conflict Reacts on Banking

Government Bank Relieves Five Institutions in Difficulty.

Tokyo, March 7 (A.P.).—The Sino-Japanese conflict produced an ominous economic echo at Nagoya, Japan, today.

The Bank of Japan advanced funds to five banks at Nagoya in an attempt to prevent disaster following suspension of payments last week. The five banks have a total capital of nearly $10,000,000. The largest of them is the Meiji Bank with a capital of about $4,000,000.

The runs also spread to the larger Nagoya bank and the Aichi bank, but these were reported able to weather the storm. The suspended banks dealt largely with the Nagoya district cotton mills, the principal market of which is in China.

Wall Street Studies Dividends of Banks

Important Houses Report This Week; Incomes Considered Fair.

New York, March 7 (A.P.)—Wall Street is manifesting considerable interest in dividend meetings this week of some of the larger banks. Both the National City and the Chase last week reduced their annual rates to $3 a share from $4. The Guaranty Trust and the Banker's Trust, however, the two leaders of the so-called Morgan group, maintained their regular payments.

An important bank dividend announcement due this week is that of the First National Bank. This bank has been paying $100 per share on its stock, which has been selling somewhat under $2,000 a share.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

STOCKS registered a new high average early but closed with moderate losses under Saturday. Sterling exchange again reached a new 1932 high.

BONDS continued strong but the trade was somewhat less active. The railroad price average advanced fractionally, and sixty corporation issues made a new high for 1932.

CURB stocks were active and strong, featured by oils, which rallied on omission of the gasoline levy in new tax bill.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—The gold position of the United States showed further improvement today. There was a decrease of $4,450,100 in metal held under foreign earmark, while $583,600 was received in a shipment from Mexico. Exports comprised $2,749,800 for Belgium and $6,400 for Switzerland.

Deposits Indicate Break in Hoarding

Reserve Bank Members Pile Up $15,000,000 Week's Increase.

Further evidence of the success of the Nation-wide drive against hoarding was received yesterday in the regular weekly statement of reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve System.

Time deposits for member banks in leading cities on March 2 showed an increase of $15,000,000 over the previous week, and demand deposits were up $2,000,000 for the week.

Yesterday's statement was the first to show an increase in time deposits since August, 1931. The increase in net demand deposits was the first reported in the weekly statement last September, save for a negligible upturn for the week of December 16, 1931.

Even with these increases, however, net demand deposits for the reporting list stood $2,500,000,000 below the corresponding period of last year, and time deposits were $1,589,000,000 under March 4, 1931.

For the week of March 2, 1932, the statement shows a decrease of $83,000,000 in loans and investments—$21,000,000 of which is in loans.

There was also a decrease of $70,000,000 in Government deposits, but an increase of $2,000,000 in loans on securities.

Total loans and investments of the reporting list stood at $19,523,000,000 on March 2, a decrease of $3,098,000,000 under the corresponding week of last year.

Roughly, the weekly statement covers banks representing two-thirds of the entire Federal Reserve volume.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN DULLER MARKETS

Bond Trading Again Results in Advances; Oil Aids Trend on Curb.

What the Stock Market Did	Monday.	Saturday.
Number of advances	215	363
Number of declines	278	73
Stocks unchanged	134	108
Total issues traded	627	544

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—After making a new average high for the year in the first hour, stocks backed water today and finished with moderate net losses.

It was a dull market, conforming closely to recent patterns. The rallies were unable to develop sufficient power to penetrate high ground by a decisive margin. Also, professionals seemed to be providing a large part of the activity. Transfers totaled 1,582,579 shares.

The better feeling in the bond market was translated into higher prices, with securities in various classes participating in the upward movement.

Oils Help Curb.

Buying of the oils helped to give the curb market the most active session in more than a fortnight today. The turnover approximated 250,000 shares. The price trend was mixed, however, for after a morning upturn, scattered selling appeared. The oils responded to the new Federal taxation proposals, which omitted the proposed tax on gasoline.

Humble Oil and Standard of Ohio advanced about a point, while fractional gains appeared in such issues as Gulf, Plymouth and Standards of Kentucky and Nebraska. Standard of Indiana sold up ⅜, then slipped back to close only ⅛ higher.

Food issues on the big exchange were brought forward as leaders of the early rise, doubtless because the new tax bill, introduced in the House, exempts their products. Oils derived temporary consolation from the omission of a Federal gasoline tax, but the refusal of rails to respond and the apathetic behavior of the general list tempted profit-taking. American Telephone drooped all day, closing 3½ points lower. It was the heaviest of the so-called pivotal issues.

Peoples Gas Strong.

People's Gas, on the other hand, was strong, rallying half a dozen points on nebulous reports of prospective refunding for some of the Insull companies' loans, which were later denied. Lambert rose after declaration of the regular dividend, but U. S. Steel, American Can, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, General Motors, Du Pont, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone and Woolworth sagged from a major fraction to about a point and a half.

Canadian Pacific's recent advance was interrupted.

Although the rising bond market could not inspire stocks, its continued strength at the beginning of a new week fortified the growing belief in investment banking circles that current tendencies in bonds are decidedly worthy of notice.

When the advance started some traders contributed it to artificial influences, but scepticism is being tempered and many brokerage houses have decided that the improvement carries a note of authority.

The week-end was devoid of interesting trade or financial news, except for the announcement of the Government's March 15 financing, which totals somewhat smaller than had been generally expected.

Copper men expressed a conviction that the curtailment conference would reach a favorable decision, perhaps in a few days.

TREASURY'S PRICES PLEASING DEALERS

Wall Street Considers Terms "Right" as Listed Issues Display Firm Tone.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—The Treasury's terms on its issues announced over the week-end were characterized in the street today as "right," and that this was the universal view might have been inferred from the market action of outstanding Federal issues.

Listed Governments displayed a firm tone, showing only nominal change in either direction. The reason for the comparative stability of the Federals outstanding is found in the fact that 3⅛ per cent coupon on the seven months issues established a yield of about in line with that prevailing on similar maturities in the market, while the same held true of the 3¾ per cent rate fixed for the one year notes.

All in all, the total of the mid-March financing $900,000,000 was somewhat less than had been generally anticipated and involves the raising of less than $300,000,000 new money inasmuch as the Treasury has a total of $624,000,000 maturities on March 15.

Banking quarters in Wall street are wondering if the antihoarding drive will not result in a larger than usual public demand for the United States Treasury's new offering of certificates, particularly the twelve-month issue, which pays 3¾ per cent.

These certificates will be available in denominations as low as $500.

While it is somewhat larger than the minimum denomination of $50 of the new "baby bonds" being used to combat hoarding, the baby bonds pay only 2 per cent.

One of the high spots in the proposed new tax schedule, so far as Wall street is concerned, is found in the move to put an import duty of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline, crude and fuel oils.

Such a duty is included by the new schedule decided upon by the House ways and means committee, and if enacted is expected to have favorable effect on certain of the oil stocks, notably those with little or no production outside the United States.

Commodity Markets See Hope in Sterling Rise

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—Those who follow the commodity markets find basis for much greater confidence in the sharp recovery staged by sterling. By increasing the purchasing power of the British pound, strength in exchange on London is expected to result in a revival of interest in American raw materials from that quarter.

Already, it is pointed out, Liverpool is taking increased amounts of American cotton on a weekly basis.

Strength in sterling is due chiefly, it is said, to a shortage of supply of sterling bills in the market.

Bethlehem Steel's Bonuses $397,364

Sum Paid to Officers Before Modification of Old Plan.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—Bethlehem Steel Corporation paid $397,364 in bonuses to officers and heads of departments last year, the pamphlet report for 1931 revealed today.

This total was disbursed prior to July 1, when the bonus system was modified after objections to the old plan had been made by a stockholders' group. The report, signed by Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and Eugene G. Grace, president, said that by distributing available work to its employes the corporation had been able to provide part-time jobs for virtually all of the regular payroll force last year.

Net working capital on December 31 was $116,309,698, compared with $119,421,277 at the end of 1930.

Earnings figures were the same as announced in the preliminary report issued in January. Net income for 1931 was $115,745, or 12 cents a preferred share, against $23,843,406, or $5.26 a common share in 1930. Not since 1909 had the corporation failed to cover its preferred dividend in full.

CAPITAL SCALINGS HIT BOOM TACTICS

Stockholders Are Becoming Disillusioned on Boosts in Prosperous Times.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—With the long series of capital adjustments now being undertaken by corporations, particularly those which during the "boom" period made liberal stock disbursements or split their shares, many stockholders are beginning to wonder just where is the benefit by such operations in prosperous periods.

Perhaps if the memory of the speculative element were not so short it would in the future accept stock dividend declarations and share splits as danger signals not to be ignored. But chances are that such operations will again serve as fuel for the next bull speculation when it comes along.

One after another dozens of corporations are now engaged in writing down the value of capital stocks to provide a margin of surplus necessary to make adjustments in the value at which either earning, or intangible assets such as "good-will" patents, &c., are carried, with the net result that asset value behind its shares is reduced in corresponding degree.

Wall Street Briefs

(By the Associated Press.)

American Hide and Leather Co.'s production is currently larger than last year at this time. Tannery operations are now about 60 per cent of capacity, compared with 45 per cent in January.

Lawrence Stern & Co. announces that a questionnaire which it has circulated among investment bankers throughout the country reveals a decided improvement in sentiment among the country's distributors of securities. Eighty per cent of the replies to the questionnaire reported definite gains in public sentiment.

American Zinc Institute reports stocks of slab zinc at the end of February were 129,506 tons, or slightly lower than the 129,886 tons at the end of January. Production for the month was 21,516 tons, as reduced from 22,516 in January.

Reports in Wall Street yesterday said that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was considering application for a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to help meet its financial requirements for this year.

It is reported in Wall Street that Gulf States Steel Corporation, as a result of better control of expenses, will report the best earnings for the current quarter in nearly two years.

A balance of $8,706,669 available for common dividends is shown by the preliminary consolidated earnings report for 1931, of the Standard Gas and Electric Co. and its subsidiaries. This is equal to $4.02 a common share, against $6.04 in 1930.

The William Wrigley, jr., Co. and subsidiaries, for the year, 1931, reports consolidated net income of $10,147,535, equal to $5.07 a share. This is comparable with $12,296,158, or $6.14 a share, in 1930.

COTTON RALLY SAGS, WITH SOME LOSSES

Liverpool Connections Boost Buying Above Selling; Rains Unfavorable.

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—An early decline in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables was followed by rallies in cotton today, but prices eased again in the late trading under some Wall street and local selling. After selling off to 7.02 at the start, May contracts rallied to 7.11 and closed at 7.04, with the general market closing quiet, net unchanged to 8 points lower.

The opening was unchanged to 5 points lower, with the active months showing net losses of 4 to 7 points during the early trading under Southern selling and liquidation.

Houses with Liverpool connections traded on both sides of the market here, but appeared to be buying more than they sold, presumably on arbitrage operations inspired by the narrowing of the spread between the two markets. Trade interests were buyers on the decline, and there was also considerable covering.

Liverpool cables said there had been hedging and general liquidation on the advance in sterling there, but reported an improved demand for cotton cloths from the continent and South America.

Grain Prices Drop on Gain Of America's Visible Supply

The increase brought this country's visible stock of wheat up to 207,477,000 bushels, against 197,878,000 a year ago, and contrasted sharply with only small gains last week and at this time last year. Under such circumstances, apprehension of cold-wave crop damage was more than offset, at least for the time being.

Wheat closed unsteady, ¾ to ⅞ under Saturday's finish. Corn was off ¼ to ⅜, and oats ⅛ to ¼. Provisions varied from 2 cents decline to an equal gain.

Lowest prices of the day prevailed at the close in wheat. Earlier, the market had been dominated by apparent likelihood that extensive damage to the domestic winter crop would result from abnormally low temperatures. It was pointed out that the widespread severe cold had suddenly followed unseasonable warmth, and that much of the wheat belt was without any snow protection of importance.

However, price advances made no progress after the market had equaled the season's top point for the September delivery at 65⅞ cents.

Canadian and British Moneys Stage Rises

New York, March 7 (A.P.).—Sterling and Canadian dollars advanced to new highs for the year today. The final quotation for pound cables was $3.53, a net gain of 1½ cents. Its further strength was accompanied by reports that the Bank of England would cut the discount rate to at least 4 per cent at the weekly meeting on Thursday. Canadian dollars reduced their discount of less than 10 per cent, compared with about 20 per cent a few weeks ago.

French francs and Japanese yen were the chief heavy spots. The former declined nearly a point, while the Tokyo rate dropped 1⅜ cents to around the record low.

REPORT ON BANKHEAD RAPPED BY ROBINSON

Arkansas Senator Charges "Political Caucus" Voted to Vacate Office.

(Associated Press.)

A charge that the move to unseat Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, was determined upon at a "secret" conference of Republican senators was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

He said that Chairman Hastings, of the Heflin-Bankhead contest committee, had called a group of "stand-pat" Republicans to his home to consider the report, submitted last week, recommending that Senator Bankhead's seat be declared vacant.

Senator Hastings replied there was "nothing improper" in what he had done, and said Senator Robinson was only assuming the conference was confined to Republicans. He declined to name the senators who attended.

The committee chairman said he was anxious to determine whether others felt the facts disclosed in the contest warrant the conclusions he had reached.

Political Caucus Claimed.

Asserting that it was practice in the Senate to decide contests on a judicial basis, Senator Robinson said he was surprised to learn that the report had been submitted to "what might be called a political caucus."

This action, the Democratic leader said, "was calculated to produce the conviction that it was the policy to determine the right to seats largely on the ground of political advantage."

Senator Robinson added that although senators had a right to confer with their colleagues, only so-called "stand-patters" were invited to a conference "at which the right of a senator to keep his seat was secretly determined."

Replying, Senator Hastings asserted his right to invite any of his colleagues to his home for dinner "without criticism," and added:

"I don't know how the senator gets the impression that no Progressives and no Democrats were invited. I think he is assuming it.

Sought Judgment of Others.

"I was anxious to lay the whole matter before some persons to inquire of them whether in their judgment the facts disclosed warranted the conclusions I reached.

"When they read the report I found without any dissenting voice that they all agreed these facts were shocking and without any partisanship could reach no other conclusion than I had reached."

Senator Hastings said the Democrats, under Senator Robinson's leadership, had decided at the opening of Congress to vote to seat Bankhead.

"There is no authority whatever for that statement," Senator Robinson replied.

Senator Hastings' report was submitted last Friday to the committee which has been considering the contest brought against Senator Bankhead's election by former Senator J. Thomas Heflin.

It was adopted by the subcommittee on a straight party vote, with three Republicans, including Senator Hastings, signing it and two Democrats opposing. The Democrats will submit a minority report holding Senator Bankhead was legally elected.

Report on Merger Of Railways Asked

(Associated Press.)

Favorable action on a resolution calling for a Justice Department report on whether the proposed Eastern railroad consolidation violates the antitrust law was voted yesterday by the Senate judiciary committee.

The resolution, by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, recalled the chairman of the legislative committee of the Interatate Commerce Commission has charged that "through the formation of holding companies and otherwise" competing railroads have formed combinations recently "without authority of law."

It added that securities in such holding companies and other corporations have been sold at inflated prices with "enormous losses" to the purchasers.

Eaton Axle and Spring Plans Capital Increase

New York, March 7 (A.P.)—The Eaton Axle & Spring Co. proposes to change its articles of incorporation to present stated capital at $2,780,536, as already shown in the report as of Dec. 31, 1931. Previously the stated capital was $1,200,000. The company also proposes to change its name to Eaton Manufacturing Co.

As a result of misinterpretation of a notice to the New York Stock Exchange, it was erroneously reported on March 4 that the company planned to reduce its stated capital.

Lone Star Gas Planning To Pay Stock Dividend

New York, March 7 (A.P.)—Lone Star Gas Corporation plans to disburse dividends on the common stock, beginning June 30, at a quarterly rate of 16 cents a share, payable in a new issue of 6 per cent convertible $100 par preferred. Approval for the creation of 100,000 shares of this stock is to be asked at the yearly meeting in April. The common has been paying 60 cents a share annually, but directors are seeking to conserve cash and liquidate the unfunded debt.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 215

For a day and a half Washington and Johnstown, Pa., had experienced an unusual heavy downpour of rain. The Potomac soon was on a rampage and 2,209 lives were lost, mostly at Johnstown. Pennsylvania avenue became once more a navigable stream. Woodley Lane Bridge over Rock Creek was carried away, Center Market and the Baltimore & Potomac depot were flooded, the wharves were submerged and rowboats became the mode of travel to the Capitol. The Long Bridge held, but threatened to go at any time, and all trains to the South were cut off. The Analostan Boat Club was swept away with a loss of $25,000.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property damage was caused and the C. & O. Canal was seriously damaged. The water evidently didn't keep the citizens indoors, judging from the crowds on the sidewalks.

ENVOYS OF 3 FAITHS OPEN PARLEY TO END PREJUDICE IN NATION

PROTESTANTS, JEWS AND CATHOLICS AID

Newton D. Baker Will Speak Tomorrow Night in Radio Chain Hookup.

Leaders of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths gathered in the Willard Hotel last night to devise means of eradicating prejudices and promoting amity and understanding among all religions.

The first national seminar devoted to the abolition of bigotry heard Bishop James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, issue a call for unity of action by people of different faiths to resist the forces of atheism "now seeking to destroy the American Nation and its institutions."

One of the highlights of the seminar will be an address tomorrow night by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, whose talk will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast network. Mr. Baker is expected to arrive in Washington early today.

Benjamin Franklin Quoted.

Bishop Freeman's address was given at the afternoon meeting. He said: "This conference has no design to effect some new kind of ecclesiastical merger. But the forces of this age are compelling us to regard with more seriousness the words of Benjamin Franklin: 'We'll hang together, or we'll hang separately.' Jew, Protestant and Catholic, these are our designations, but they shall not render us immune to an appeal that concerns our solidarity as a people or our peace and security as a Nation."

The Rev. Francis J. Haas, director of the National Catholic School of Social Service, said: "The man or woman, whether Catholic, Protestant or Jew, who raises the voice of bigotry is a traitor to his country and a criminal before his God. We are here not to impugn one another's beliefs, but to indict the forces that prevent us from living and working happily together."

Fraternal Relations Sought.

Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, urging better fraternal relations among the religious groups said: "We propose at this conference to drag into the open our prejudices and misinterpretations, examine them objectively, and submit them to the light of critical and unbiased study. In that way only shall we be able to sweep away the errors and lay new foundations for an edifice of fraternal relations among the people of opposite sects and faiths."

Mr. Baker will preside over a luncheon meeting today, at which an address will be given by Prof. J. H. Hayes, cochairman of the conference, who will discuss the "Historical Backgrounds for the Discussion of Intergroup Relations." The afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion of religious freedom in this country.

Man Hit by Two Autos Dead of His Injuries

Onibale Increte, 39 years old, of 1143 New Hampshire avenue, died early yesterday at Emergency Hospital from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile Friday night at Four and one-half street and Pennsylvania avenue and thrown into the path of another car.

Police arrested Vance Watts, colored, 24 years old, of the 800 block of Howard road southeast, as the driver of the first car to strike Increte and charged him with reckless driving and assault. His machine knocked Increte into the path of a car driven by Merrill I. Clements, 20 years old, of the 200 block of Thirteenth street northeast, whose car passed over him.

Citizen Group Split On Child Labor Bill

Cathedral Heights Body Is Unable to Decide Stand on Capper Plan.

The Capper bill to amend the child labor law of the District, to permit children to appear on the professional stage after 9 o'clock at night, was the subject of a lively discussion at a meeting last night of the Cathedral Heights Citizens Association at the John Eaton School.

Debate on the merits and drawbacks of giving talented children this liberty became so intense that John W. Townsend, president of the association, decided to withhold a vote on the matter until the next meeting. It was difficult to determine from the debate in just what hoarding campaign. Resignation of James M. Golden, as secretary of the association, was accepted.

Hoover to Greet British Musician

Sir Thomas Beecham to Conduct New York Orchestra Here.

Sir Thomas Beecham, millionaire British musician, will be presented to President Hoover tomorrow at noon by Sir Ronald Lindsay, Great Britain's ambassador to the United States.

Sir Thomas is in Washington to conduct the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra in the third and final concert of the year at Constitution Hall this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. His last appearance here was in 1928 when he conducted the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

One of the leading orchestral conductors in the world, Sir Thomas is widely known in musical circles. He will substitute at this afternoon's concert for Arturo Toscanini, famous Italian conductor, who was unable to come here from his native country.

Scenes of Adult Distress and Juvenile Joy as Record Storm of Winter Visits City

CHAMBER MEN VOTE TO IMPOUND AUTOS

Traffic Group Recommends Public Hearing on Plan Before Adoption.

Impounding of privately owned automobiles by District authorities was approved by the transportation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, after a lively discussion at a luncheon meeting yesterday, at the Raleigh Hotel.

In adopting the resolution indorsing the plan, the committee recommended that the regulations governing impounding be the subject of a public hearing before being adopted. The committee disapproved the plan as an agency for the enforcement of parking regulations.

The committe expressed approval of recent efforts of the District commissioners to restrict the sale of gas from tank wagons on the public streets. The committee has already gone on record condeming this practice as a menace to public safety.

Allen V. de Ford, a member of the committee, was congratulated for the work he did in supplying food to the army of unemployed marchers who visited Washington several weeks ago. Mr. de Ford proposed "The Traffic Man-a-Block Plan," designed to help the traffic situation while creating jobs for the unemployed. The plan was referred to a subcommittee for study by George E. Keneipp, chairman of the committee.

Because of "growing complications" in the taxicab situation, a committee was appointed to review the entire matter and report back its recommendations.

Servant Convicted In Elkins Gem Loss

Furnace Man Found Guilty in Theft of Necklace Worth $3,500.

Nathan Graves, colored, former furnace man at the home of Mrs. Catherine Regan, at 2614 Cathedral avenue northwest, yesterday was found guilty by a jury in Justice James M. Proctor's court in District Supreme Court, of a charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of a $3,500 necklace from Mrs. Mary R. Elkins, wife of former United States Senator Davis Elkins, of West Virginia.

The Government, through Assistant United States Attorney John J. Cirica, produced testimony that Graves had given the necklace to his wife, Sopora Graves, and that she had taken it to a jewelry store operated by Hyman Harron, at 200½ Four-and-a-Half street southwest, where it was sold for $5.

The woman was indicted with her husband, but was acquitted when Justice Proctor ordered the jurors to return a not guilty verdict as to her. A diamond ring, given Mrs. Elkins by the Czar of Russia, and which contained a 10-karet diamond, reported missing at the same time the necklace was discovered stolen, has not been recovered. It was valued at $10,000.

Grant Opposes Longer Leaves for Park Police

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 3rd., director of public buildings and public parks, yesterday opposed increasing from 20 to 30 days the annual leave of park police, in recommendations sent to the House District committee.

A bill to increase the leave of both park and metropolitan police is now before the committee. Col. Grant said the present force is barely adequate to the needs of the service. Granting of additional leave would necessitate more men and an increase in appropriations, he said.

Verdict for Nail in Pie Is Reversed on Appeal

Because there was no privity of contract between the Connecticut Pie Co. and William L. Lynch, the latter was not entitled to collect damages from the company when he purchased a pie and bit into a hidden nail in it, the District Court of Appeals held yesterday.

The higher court held that there was no implied warranty attachable to the manufacturer of the pie because there was no privity of contract. The suit was based on a failure to fulfill an implied contract, whereas, the court said, the failure was in tort. The case was remanded for a new trial. Lynch having been given a verdict in the Municipal Court at the first hearing.

Alley Bill Offered in House.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman of House District committee, yesterday introduced a bill to authorize the District Commissioners to close certain unnecessary alleys. The measure already has been introduced in the Senate.

EVILS OF HOARDING DESCRIBED BY RUST

Investment in 'Baby Bond' Serves Double Purpose, He Says on Radio.

"Hoarded dollars paralyze business and are poison to prosperity," H. L. Rust, jr., said in summarizing the President's antihoarding campaign last night in an address over station WJSV.

"Why put your money in strong boxes or place it in secret hiding places," Mr. Rust asked. "You can put men back on the pay rolls by putting your idle funds back to work. Every baby bond you buy will mean the making of a new job for an American citizen.

"Join the Nation-wide fight to bring back prosperity. Buy your Government's new bonds and make yourself one of the army of loyal Americans who are determined to put a swift end to hard times."

Explaining the nature of the new baby bonds, Mr. Rust asked:

"Have you $50, $100 or $500 lying idle in a safe deposit vault or running the risk of theft or fire in your home? If so, the Treasury offers to pay a dollar, two dollars or ten dollars for the privilege of using that money. If you wish your investment back, give the Government 60 days' notice and it will be returned with accrued 2 per cent interest."

"These bonds," he said, "are infants in cost but giants in safety."

All banks throughout the city yesterday offered the bonds to the public for the first time. They also welcomed hoarded dollars to their own vaults.

According to Mr. Rust, there is very little hoarding in Washington. It is hoped that the sale of the bonds will bring back to circulation all of the city's idle money.

Hurley Is Sustained In Forbidding Pier

Luhring Refuses to Force Permit for Oil Dock at Key Bridge.

The action of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley in refusing to issue a permit to the Sun Oil Co. to erect an oil wharf on the Potomac River, just above the Key Bridge was upheld by Justice Oscar R. Luhring yesterday when he dismissed a petition which would compel the Secretary to grant the permit.

The wharf was to have been used by large oil barges and, in the eyes of persons seeking to beautify the river front, would have been out of harmony with plans for its development.

Justice Luhring said that title to the river bed of the Potomac River is in the United States. This title extends to the high water mark on the Virginia shore and he denied the right of property owners to "wharf out" into the river. The property is owned by Lucien H. and Rebekah S. Greathouse.

Two Gas Company Officials to Leave

Vice President Woodhead and Sales Director Callahan Resign.

Resignations of two officials of the Washington Gas Light Co. were announced yesterday by George A. G. Wood, president, and are effective immediately.

Frank Woodhead, vice president in charge of operations, who has been with the company about two years, and E. L. Callahan, director of sales, will both step out. The former's post probably will not be refilled, while Charles P. Balsan, who has been manager of the house-heating and refrigerating department, succeeds Mr. Callahan.

Mr. Callahan was formerly connected with the Central Public Service Co., whose president, A. E. Peirce, of Chicago, recently resigned from the board of directors of the Washington Gas Light Co.

Teddy, Zoo Chimpanzee, Ill Of Cold, to Be Given Oxygen

A general epidemic of colds and pneumonia threatened the Lion House at the National Zoo yesterday as a third anthropoid fell ill. The latest victim of cold is the 3-year-old chimpanzee, Teddy, playmate of the gorilla O'Kero, who was stricken Saturday.

Meanwhile, the oxygen treatment was prescribed for O'Kero yesterday, as N'Gi appeared to be recovered sufficiently to allow him to be removed from the tank.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, who presented O'Kero to the Zoo, spent most of yesterday and Sunday nursing him. Mrs. Johnson said that what O'Kero needs most of all is "mothering." The Johnsons will be obliged to return to their home in New York, but will be ready to return to Washington immediately if any crisis develops in his condition.

Teddy, the chimpanzee, is the pal of O'Kero and they have been friends ever since they came to the Zoo. They occupied the same cage until the gorilla became ill. Now they will probably occupy the oxygen tank together.

Smithsonian Records Fossil 500,000,000 Years of Age

Record of the first adventurer to emerge from the primeval ocean is believed to be represented in the fossil of a worm with legs that lived approximately 500,000,000 years ago, a full description of which has just been published by the Smithsonian Institution.

The fossil was one of many preserved which were found in British Columbia by the late Dr. Charles D. Walcott, former secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. Notes on the ancient fossil were left by Dr. Walcott and amplified by Dr. Charles E. Resser, his associate in the study of Cambrian fossils.

There is believed to be a possibility that the fossil is that of an early peripatus. The peripatus of today is found in Africa, Australia, South America and the West Indies. It looks like a legged worm and lives under the bark of trees, in the burrows of white ants or beneath stones. It avoids light and moves by means of an antenna. The peripatus, according to Austin H. Clark, Smithsonian biologist, is a champion spitter.

Another Cambrian creature, thought to be in the ancestral line of the air breathing scorpions, has just been received by Dr. Resser from Utah. This is a fossil of an hitherto unknown variety of merostome crustacean collected by Frank Beckwith, of Millard County, Utah. It is said to be one of the most perfectly preserved examples of its family yet found. There is an enormous gap between it and any living creature.

"Murray for President" Club Is Organized Here

An "Alfalfa Bill" Murray for President Club was organized last night at the home of Jack Harrison, secretary to Representative Wilburn Cartwright, of Oklahoma. A group of Oklahomans who favor their governor for the Democratic nomination attended.

The meeting, held at 113 B street southeast, passed resolutions favoring his administration of the State and indorsing his candidacy. Mayo Robertson was elected president of the club and Mr. Jackson was named secretary.

MUTUAL FARM AIMS STRESSED BY LANKE

Vocational Education Parley Hears Plea for Unified National Program.

A national agricultural program, to be set up and agreed upon by all agricultural groups and organizations, was advocated by J. A. Lanke, of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, at the opening of the fifteenth annual conference of leaders in vocational education yesterday at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. Lanke suggested that such a program include the organization of classes for farm people in economic production and marketing of quality products; a carefully planned "live at home" program for farmers; a program for home improvements and farm ownership and equalization of educational opportunities for those in rural districts as compared with those provided for city dwellers.

Twenty-five Southern and Northern Atlantic States are represented at the conference by 75 executive officers, State directors and State and local supervisors of vocational education. Among those scheduled to address the conference today are Dr. F. W. Lathrop and W. T. Spanton, of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, and W. W. Sweet, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Farm Hands Club of this city, informal organization composed of agricultural workers and leaders, will be hosts to the delegates at noon today. Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, chairman of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, will address the conference at its annual banquet tomorrow night.

$3,950 Judgment For Totten Is Upset

Miss Cornelia Cleborne Wins Appeal in Suit on Realty Deal.

The District Court of Appeals yesterday reversed a finding of the District Supreme Court when it decreed that a judgment of $3,950 which had been entered in favor of Howe Totten as against Cornelia L. Cleborne be reversed with costs to be assessed against Mr. Totten.

The suit had been instituted by Totten because of the alleged breaching of a contract by "E. L. Cleborne" to rent the premises at 1708 I street northwest for a three-year period. Through Attorney Cornelius H. Doherty, the defendant claimed that there had been no express promise on her part to rent the premises, and that she had never agreed to rent the house.

Attorney Doherty asserted that Miss Cleborne had said that she would "consider" renting the place, but that she had never signed a lease nor made a definite commitment.

Dupont Circle Citizens To Aid War on Hoarding

Cooperation in the antihoarding campaign and the advancement of every effort to induce the public to buy the new "baby bonds" was pledged yesterday by the Dupont Circle Citizens Association at its meeting at the Mayflower Hotel.

The association devoted the major part of the meeting to a discussion of changes in its constitution. Proposed amendments, which will include a change of methods in electing officers, will be considered at the next meeting, it was announced.

Six Enter Guilty Pleas In Prohibition Cases

Six colored persons pleaded guilty to charges of violating the prohibition law when they were arraigned in Police Court yesterday. Eleven liquor cases, involving a total of 17 persons, were filed during the day in the office of Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart.

The others, all of whom entered pleas of not guilty, will be tried during the week. All of the cases were small liquor possession or sale charges.

INQUISITORS REPORT TO COMMISSIONERS ON CHILD WELFARE

SENSATIONAL CHARGES ARE SEEN AS UNLIKELY

Committee's Discrediting of Claims of Noonan Is Predicted.

Almost a year since its creation the special committee named by the District Commissioners to investigate the status of child welfare in Washington yesterday filed its voluminous report with Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the board. The Commissioners declined to make public its contents until after they have had time to read and act upon it.

The committee, headed by Health Officer William C. Fowler, held a public hearing last summer and then split up into subcommittees to study all phases of child welfare.

Separate Reports Made.

Separate reports were made to the whole committee and then were condensed and coordinated to form the general report.

Acting on a House resolution of February 25, 1931, the Commissioners appointed the committee early in March. John J. Noonan, stanch defender of the District's less fortunate children, was responsible for the resolution. He had charged before the House District committee that many children in Washington are underfed and not sufficiently clothed.

No Sensational Disclosures.

As both Health Officer Fowler and Public Welfare Director George S. Wilson had contended previously that Washington's children on the whole are well cared for, it is believed that the report will contain no sensational disclosures, but will rather tend to discredit Mr. Noonan's charges.

The committee, besides Dr. Fowler and Mr. Wilson, comprised Miss Sibyl Baker, head of the playgrounds department; Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools; Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court; Mrs. Marian W. Doyle, of the Board of Education, and Thomas J. Walsh, assistant corporation counsel.

HAUPTMANN TO PAY HOOVER VISIT TODAY

To Be Presented by German Ambassador; Speaks at G. W. Tonight.

Gerhart Hauptmann, German's greatest man of letters, will be presented to President Hoover at noon today by Herr Friedrich W. von Prittwitz, the German Ambassador.

The distinguished Teutonic dramatist and poet arrived in Washington yesterday. His visit to this country is being made in commemoration of the centennial of the death of Goethe.

At a special convocation of George Washington University at 8:30 o'clock tonight, in Memorial Continental Hall, he will make an address on Goethe.

Hauptmann is regarded as the literary successor to Goethe. He was the recipient of the Nobel Prize for literature in 1912. In America he is known for his naturalistic dramas, "Von Sonnenaufgang," "Die Weber," and "Fuhrmann Henschel."

He does not speak English and is of retiring disposition. His speech tonight will be made in German. With him at the Mayflower Hotel are Frau Hauptmann; his son, Dr. Benvenuto Hauptmann, and his secretary, Fraulein Jungmann.

Dr. Hauptmann's visit was arranged by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Tomorrow he will go to Baltimore, where he will deliver an oration at Johns Hopkins University.

Last night he was the guest of Herr Rudolf Leitner, counselor of the German Embassy, at a small informal dinner.

At the university convocation tonight he will be introduced by Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the university. Herr von Prittwitz also will address the assemblage.

Forty years ago Dr. Hauptmann visited the United States. Now he returns as the man "who has carried forward through his years the flaming torch of idealism which Goethe laid down a century ago."

Jobs Provided 53 By Church Drive

Good Works Circle of Chevy Chase Aids Work Creation.

In a campaign to obtain work for unemployed persons, the Chevy Chase Good Works Circle, representing churches throughout the community, yesterday reported that jobs had been found for 46 men and 7 women during the last week.

The Chevy Chase movement was organized by the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church. With Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, as chairman of the committee, the relief work was carried on in cooperation with the District work creation committee.

"This just goes to show what can be accomplished when the churches unite in a campaign for the betterment of their community," Col. E. G. Bliss, chairman of the work creation committee, declared. He urged that other sections follow the example set by the Chevy Chase group.

Escaping Gas Overcomes Tailor Shop Proprietor

Louis Richter, 64, of 1820 Ontario place, proprietor of a tailor shop at 1797 Lanier place, was overcome by gas in his shop yesterday morning. He was removed to Emergency Hospital where his condition is said to be serious.

Mr. Richter was discovered unconscious by Clarence Walls, colored employe of the shop, when he reported for work. Gas was escaping from a pipe which connected with a hand iron. The Rescue Squad attempted to revive him before taking him to the hospital.

Association Is Organized By Gasoline Hucksters

Formation of the Independent Petroleum Hucksters Association, composed of gasoline hucksters who serve motorists from tank trucks on Washington streets, was announced yesterday by Herbert E. Brummel, president of the association.

Mr. Brummel said it is the intention of the association members to cooperate in every way with the Fire and Police Departments in avoiding traffic difficulties and preventing accidents. Trucks of the association members will be repainted.

Insurance Bill Hearing Today.

A bill to require insurance companies hereafter incorporating under the laws of the District to keep their principal books and records in the District, will be considered by the insurance subcommittee of the House District committee, at 10:30 this morning.

Jobs for Family Heads Plan to End Depression

The only method to end the depression is putting unemployed family heads back to work, according to an address by Paul L. Benjamin, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Employment Committe, at the weekly luncheon yesterday of the Newcomers' Club at the Carlton Hotel.

Mr. Benjamin told of the efforts being made by the Work Creation Committee, under Col. Bliss, to place every possible idle Washingtonian in a job through the creation and location of work by the churches, civic organizations and other methods.
